and 1930 and won the Democratic nomination for President at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago, Ill. 1 July 1932. He and his running mate, John Nance Garner, won the election with 472 electoral votes to 59 for Herbert Hoover, the Republican incumbent. The popular vote was 22,809,638 to 15,758,901

The country was in a major depression at the time but Roosevelt convinced the nation that "the only thing we have to fear is fear itself." His administration developed legislation, known as "The New Deal" to provide relief and jobs for the unemployed. It didn't end the depression but had an important psychological effect by convincing people that the Administration was taking action to end it. As a result, he easily won reelection in 1936, defeating Alfred Landon of Kansas by the largest margin ever won up to that time—27,752,869 to 16,674,665 and 523 to 8.

During his second term the war in Europe became an additional worry and he stretched presidential prerogative to the limit in supporting the Allies. He won an unprecedented third term in 1940 beating Wendell L. Wilkie 27,307,819 to 22,321,018 and 449 to 82. After the Japanese surprise attack on Pearl Harbor 7 December 1941, he blossomed as a wartime leader and in 1944 the nation paid him an extraordinary honor by electing him to a fourth term. Sen. Harry S Truman of Missouri was his running mate. He beat Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York 25,605,585 to 22,014,745 and 432 to 99. By the time of his inauguration 20 January 1945, the nation's war effort had been organized with great effect and the Allies were dominant in the air, at sea, and on land.

He left for the Yalta Conference to meet with Winston Churchill, Prime Minister of England, and Joseph Stalin, leader of the Soviet Union, 22 January and returned to Washington, D.C. 28 February. He addressed Congress on the Conference 1 March and went to the Little White House at Warm Springs, Ga. where he died suddenly 12 April of cerebral hemorrhage. He was the seventh president to die in office, having served longer than other president. His only book was The Happy Warrior, Alfred E. Smith (1928).

Callie was a school teacher.[509] Howard,[510] son of James Edwin Catlin and Melissa Ann Hughey, was born in Van Horn, Benton Co., Iowa 29 August 1884 and died 20 December 1958 in Independence, Buchanan Co., Iowa, at 74 years of age. He farmed near Vinton, operated two "rent" farms near Jesup, Buchanan Co., Iowa and eventually purchased and worked his own farm southeast of Jesup. He died of a stroke and is buried at the Garden of Memories Cemetery in Waterloo, Black Hawk Co., Iowa.

After Howard's death Callie moved to Jesup and later to Independence. She passed on stories told her about her Whipple grandparents. She said her great grandfather Enoch was 6' tall, weighed 200 pounds and "could jump over anything he could stand under." His wife Catharine Shaw was a tiny Scotchwoman who could stand under her husband's outstretched arm. She was a first cousin of Commodore Oliver H. Perry and heard the fighting at the battle of Lake Erie from her home in New York state. Grandpa Cyrenius was not a tall man but was very strong. He could load a 280 pound barrel of salt in a wagon by himself. Great grandpa William Cline liked his daughter-in-law's cooking, Anna Cleland (Edwards) Whipple, and would frequently walk to the farm and stay for dinner. "We children always hated to see him come," Callie said "because if we didn't do things to please him, he would hook us around the neck with his cane."

Callie said when she was about 12, she helped grandma Whipple (Nancy Jane) get dinner and supper when grandpa had extra hired help. After the evening dishes were done, grandma paid me a dollar — as much as a working man earned in a day. Before I left grandpa asked if grandma had paid me and I proudly showed him my dollar. "That isn't enough for a girl who has worked as hard as you have," he said and exchanged the dollar for a five dollar bill, equal to a week's wage for the men helpers.

She married James Glenn Gordon in Vinton, Benton Co., Iowa 24 December 1925. In July of 1997 when she was 94, Martha wrote her granddaughter Jennifer Greer of Tucson, Pima Co., Ariz. of her remembrances of Christmas when she was a little girl. She wrote of the anticipation and preparations for Santa's arrival. The family lived on a farm in a large house a mile from Vinton and her father had planted a double row of spruce trees on the west side of their lower orchard. By the time she was old enough to remember, they had grown to Christmas tree size. A tree was cut the morning before Christmas and placed beside the fireplace and decorated with strung popcorn, some ornaments and real candles in little "pinch-on" holders. The candles were lit just before the children's bedtime and they sang Jingle Bells and other Christmas songs and hymns while father kept his eyes on the burning candles. There were 13 children so there wasn't room for everyone to hang a stocking on the mantle so each child had a box to place on a chair. Cookies and milk were left for Santa before they went to bed. In the morning there was a special gift for each child, candy, mixed unshelled nuts, and an orange and a banana, the only time of the year they ever had this fruit. Martha remembers a gift of a little China tea set with a Christmas design that she kept for years.

She remembered being assigned chores at an early age, the first one was to provide kindling for "mama's" cook stove. She and brother Gene were jointly responsible for this chore. When they were older the two of them were responsible for "ranking" the firewood cut by the older boys. Ranking meant to stack it neatly by size in the basement fuel room. All the kids shared in the housework and were organized in pairs — two to set the table, two to remove the dirty dishes, two to wash and dry them, etc. They had a croquet court in the yard, long rope swings, and horses to ride. Martha remembers the day "Papa" came home with the first Edison phonograph and later a piano to replace an old-fashioned organ. She remembers celebrations on the 4th of July and other holidays. Papa always had fireworks on the 4th and Mama made a huge freezer of ice cream. The neighbors always came for the evening fireworks display. She remembers when the threshing bees came to their farm. It was a day of excitement for kids and of hard work for adults, both men and women. The big steam engine would turn into their lane followed by a water wagon and neighbors with hay racks — like a parade to the kids. It was set up in the feeding pasture about halfway between the barn and the field. The neighbors would go into the fields with their hay racks and collect the shocked grain and bring it to the thresher which would separate the grain from the straw. The water wagon was adjacent to the thresher's engine to provide the steam for the power to run the machine. Two wagons with side boards caught the grain and a blower blew the straw into stacks. While the men were involved in this work, the women were preparing food for the crew. Wash stands, combs, brushes, mirrors, and whisk brushes were set up outside so the men could clean up before entering the dining room to eat.

Her father died when she was nine and she remembers being called to his bedside to repeat the Lord's Prayer with him. He died a short time later.

Martha lived at the Wesley Retirement Home in Des Moines, Wash. for many years and died in her sleep at the Wesley Convalesant Home two months and a day before her 100th birthday.

When he was 26 he sailed from Liverpool, England for the United States on the Cunard's passenger ship, Oregon. They left 6 March 1886 and on the 14th just off Sandy Hook, N. J. were involved in a collision which ripped three holes in the side of the Oregon causing it to sink. Fortunately there were vessels in the immediate area and all passengers and crew were safely transferred without loss of life. In a letter to his father written 16 March, John provided details of the ordeal but concluded "I am quite prepared to cross the Atlantic again as often as circumstances may demand but I can never forget the 14th day of March 1886."[979]

John was General Sales Manager for his father's mill and as such traveled widely. He eventually left the firm and in partnership with a Mons. Requeral of France owned and operated a weaving mill (named Tissages de Peissy) in Liege, Belgium. When the Germans captured Liege during WWI, they confiscated the weaving equipment taking it to Germany and burned the mill. Mons. Requeral died before the war ended, leaving the business to John. His claim to the Reparations Commission was never honored. The estimated loss exceed a million dollars. He married Katharine Ball Waring 24 June 1914. A Nobel Prize winner in physiology and medicine in 1934, George was two when his father died. His well-read mother was a believer in education and enrolled him in Phillips Academy, Andover, Essex Co., Mass. in 1892 and upon graduation (1896) he enrolled at Yale University, graduating in 1900. One of his Yale professors, Lafayette B. Mendel, a young research biochemist, was a major influence on his later career. Financial considerations required George to teach at Dr. Holbrook's Military School in Ossining, Westchester Co., N.Y. for a year before enrolling at Johns Hopkins University (then the nation's premier Medical School) from which he was graduated in 1905.

Dr. George H. Whipple.

Following graduation from Johns Hopkins his other great mentor, William H. Welch, offered him a position as as Assistant in Pathology. During his nine years (1905-14) at Johns Hopkins, except for 1907 when he was a Pathologist at the Ancon Hospital, Panama Canal Zone, he studied the pathology of tuberculosis and pancreatic disease. The result of his autopsy of a physician whose illness had baffled prominent internists was a paper on intestinal lipodystrophy (Whipple's disease). He published an important paper on backwater fever (a severe form or complication of malaria) following his year in Panama studying tropical diseases. He financed postgraduate study in Heidelberg, Germany and Vienna, Austria with funds saved while in Panama. His study of bile pigments began in 1908 and led to his interest in the body's manufacture of the oxygen-carrying hemoglobin, an important element in the production of bile pigments.

He joined the staff of the U. of California in San Francisco in 1914 (Dean of the Medical School 1920-21) where he taught research medicine and began a study on how bile pigments were affected by diets. Experimenting with dogs, he found that liver was one of the best foods for the production of new, hemoglobin-filled red blood cells. This discovery gave George R. Minot (1885-1950), a Harvard Hematologist, and his assistant, William R. Murphy, the idea of using a liver diet to treat pernicious anemia in humans, a previously incurable and fatal disease. For this work, Whipple, Minot, and Murphy were awarded the 1934 Nobel Prize in Medicine or Physiology.

Whipple became Dean of the School of Medicine and Dentistry at the U. of Rochester (1921-53) and Professor of Pathology (1921-55). His design of the new Medical School combined the Medical Center and University Hospital and became standard for this type of integrated facility. He retired as Dean at age 75 but retained the Professorship of Pathology until 1955. His last and most sophisticated scientific study was of the body's methods for storing and releasing proteins which he summarized in his only book, The Dynamic Equilibruim of Body Proteins (1956).

During his career he authored more than 200 publications on anemia, pigment metabolism, blood plasma proteins, bile salt metabolism, liver injury and repair, and related subjects. The "Papers of George Hoyt Whipple" are in the Edward G. Miner Library at the U. of Rochester Medical Center (the 83 document boxes occupy 99 linear feet in the Archives). Devoted mostly to his role as a scientist and educator, they span the period 1915-76 and are an invaluable source on one of the major figures in 20th century American Pathology. President John F. Kennedy presented him the Distinguished Federal Civilian Service Award in 1963.

The Whipple family home at 4 Pleasant St., Ashland, Grafton Co., N.H. is now the Whipple House Museum and is open from June through Labor Day. It features information about him, his family, and the area. Of particular interest is the Glidden Toy Museum which has over 1,000 items.

For a full account of his work and achievements see: George Hoyt Whipple and His Friends by George Washington Corner (1963); "George Hoyt Whipple (1879-1976)," by Leon Miller, published in the Biographical Memoirs of the National Academy of Sciences, 1995, 66:372-93; and Dr. Whipple's own "Autobiographical Sketch," published in Perspectives in Biology & Medicine, 1959, 2:253-89.

Peter Darling of Philadelphia, Penn shared the following story about Dr. Whipple which he believes has never been told outside his family. It involves Peter's father who died at age 83 in 2000.

"My father was very poor growing up. He arrived at Medical School with the first semester's tuition covered, but beyond that, had no idea how he was going to pay for the remainder of his medical training. Early in the spring semester, as he tells the story, he simply ran out of money. In telling the story, he said he was standing in an anatomy lab in the middle of a procedure, and finally admitted defeat. With only 37 cents in his pocket he decided to drop Medical School, hitchhike home to Williamstown, Mass. and get a job. He concluded that although he gave it a good try, he was never going to be a doctor.

"That very afternoon he was summoned to Dean Whipple's office. The Dean asked him how he was doing. Father said fine except he had run out of money and had to leave school. Dean Whipple then informed him he had found a private patient who needed blood and was willing to pay for two pints. That money, and subsequent sales, made the difference, enabled my father to survive, and to complete his first year of Medical School. He saved enough from his summer job that year to pay for his second year.

"He eventually became a surgeon and was the first board-certified surgeon in the town where I grew up. He fathered five kids, was Chief of Surgery for years at our local hospital, and became an outstanding surgeon and a pillar of the medical community. According to him, none of this would have happened had not George Hoyt Whipple, around 1938, spotted potential in him as a medical student and pulled some strings to alow him to make enough money to survive." E-mail to the author from Peter Darling dated 28 Dec. 2000.

933. The Phillippines has had a long history of Moro insurgent movements dating to Spanish Rule. Resistance to colonization was especially strong among the Muslim population of Southwestern Mindanao and the Sulu Archipelago. With pride in the cultural heritage and a strong desire for independence, Moros fought Christian and foreign domination. Spanish control over the Moros was never complete, and the Muslim struggle carried over into the U. S. colonial era. The Moros earned a reputation as fierce fighters in combat against U. S. troops.

The builders saved money by building the hull of iron instead the much stronger steel which was the material of choice for vessels of this type. As a result the huge Oregon was so badly damaged when struck by a much smaller wooden schooner she sank in 130 feet of water before she could be towed into port. He married Grace Anna Goodhue in Burlington, Chittenden Co., Vt. 4 October 1905. Grace,[74] daughter of Andrew Issachar Goodhue and Lemira Barrett, was born in Burlington 3 January 1879 and died 8 July 1957 in Northampton, at 78 years of age. President and Mrs. Coolidge were buried in Plymouth. Grace and Calvin were distant cousins. Their common ancestor was John Calvin Coolidge, thirtieth President of The United States.

Matthew Whipple, Clothier, of Bocking, England. Grace descends through his youngest son, Elder John of Ipswich, Mass. while Calvin descends through his oldest son, Matthew, Jr. of Ipswich as well as through Elder John, making him a double descendant of Matthew Whipple, the Clothier.

He earned a B. A. from Amherst College in 1895, read law in the office of Messrs. Hammond & Field of Northampton, was admitted to the Bar 29 June 1897 and began practice in that city. He was elected to the Common Council and Vice President of the Northampton Savings Bank in 1898, served as City Solicitor 1899-1902, Chairman of the Republican County Committee of Hampshire County in 1904, defeated as candidate for Northampton Board of Education in 1905, elected to the State House of Representatives in 1906 (served two terms), served as Northampton Mayor 1910-11, elected to the State Senate in 1911 (served four terms and was Senate President 1914-15), elected Massachusetts Lieutenant Governor in 1915 (served three terms), elected Governor in 1919 (served two terms). His firmness and vigorous action as Governor at the time of the Boston Police Strike in the autumn of 1919 gave him a national reputation and he received a few votes for President at the 1920 Republican National Convention in Chicago. Senator Warren Harding won the nomination on the tenth ballot and Coolidge was nominated on the first ballot for Vice President. The Republican ticket easily won the election 2 November and he was inaugurated Vice President 4 March 1921. He won the office in his own right 4 November 1924 (382 electoral votes), defeating Democrat John W. Davis (136 votes) and Progressive Robert M. Lafollette (13 votes).

He was the 30th President of the United States, the second Vermonter and fifth native of New England to become President. Chester Allen Arthur (1881-85) was the other Vermonter. Both were elected Vice President and succeeded to the presidential office upon the death of the sitting President. The other New Englanders: John Adams (1987-1801), John Quincy Adams (1825-29), and Franklin Pierce (1853-57), a native of New Hampshire.

Coolidge, reserved, taciturn, parsimonious, was known as a Yankee of the Yankees. Self-respect, he said, depended on spending "less than you make." He was 33 before marrying because he was "not able to afford the extra expense" before then. He was more famous for his silences than for his speeches. His legislative creed was: "It is much more important to kill bad bills than to pass good ones." When he was nominated in 1924, the scandals of the Harding Cabinet were beginning to break and his dour, thrifty style was an enormous relief for his embarrassed party. Alice Longworth, Pres. Teddy Roosevelt's daughter, said the White House was distinctly improved under the influence of "Cautious Cal" and his unpretentiously attractive, intelligent wife. "The atmosphere," she said, "was as different as a New England front parlor is from a back room in a speakeasy." To the public, Coolidge stood for traditional virtues: prudence, probity, common sense, understatement.

Not blessed with a great deal of stamina, he once joked that he kept fit by avoiding the big problems. The strain of office gradually wore him down and the death of his son Calvin from blood poisoning desolated him. In August 1927, on the fourth anniversary of his presidency, he issued the terse announcement: "I do not choose to run for President in 1928." He made his last public address as President 22 February 1929 at George Washington University in Washington, D.C. He attended Herbert Hoover's inauguration 4 March, and retired to Northampton. He contributed a daily column "Thinking Things Over with Calvin Coolidge" to the New York Herald and other newspapers 1930-31, and died of coronary thrombosis. Published works: Have Faith in Massachusetts! (1919), The Price of Freedom: Speeches and Addresses (1924), Foundations of the Republic, Speeches and Addresses (1926), and The Autobiography of Calvin Coolidge (1929).

Plymouth was the home of four generations of his Coolidge ancestors but the founder of the family in New England, John Coolidge, settled at Watertown, Mass. where he was made a freeman 25 May 1636. Calvin is the tenth generation from John as follows: Simeon,[1] Obadiah,[2] Obadiah,[3] Josiah,[4] Capt. John,[5] Calvin,[6] Galusha,[7] Calvin,[8] Col. John Calvin,[9] President Calvin.[10]

Gayle had to drop out of Cedar Rapids Coe College in 1932 after her father died. It was the time of the "Great Depression" and there was no money for her to return for her senior year. She was, however, able to get a job at Peterson's Drug Store in Williamsburg where the family lived. Her evenings were spent piecing a quilt whose patterns came in weekly installments in the local newspaper, The Gazette. It included a block of each of the signs of the Zodiac. Embroidered around it were the traits attributed to that sign: Optimistic, generous, etc. Her desire to graduate from college never died and in the fall of 1935 she got a Saturday job at Killian's in Cedar Rapids and was allowed to enroll at half tuition because her brother Gilbert was also a student. Her tuition for the senior year was $75. She was graduated in 1936 three years behind her original class and was the only graduate to land a teaching job when she was hired to teach English at Arlington, Iowa.

After her marriage, she helped raise a family of two sons who both became teachers. She loved to read and persistently promoted libraires and recorded books for the blind. She read for the blind for 13 plus years and did all the reading for a student from Vinton who was completing a master's degree. Coe College established the "Gayle S. Whipple Browsing Area" at its library in the spring of 1997. It is a comfortable reading area with bookshelves displaying the library's newest arrivals. She died of ovarian cancer.

Upon his father's death in 1935, he took over the family insurance agency (Milo R. Whipple Agency), retiring in 1974 when he became an officer (Chairman in 1998) of the Hall-Perrine Foundation of Cedar Rapids. He served 22 years on the Board of Trustees of Coe College including three years as Chair. He is also a Past President of the Board of Trustees of the Greater Metropolitan YMCA of Cedar Rapids (recipient of the John M. Ely Award for 12 years of service on the YMCA Board), Past Director of the Cedar Rapids Chamber of Commerce and recipient of its Community Recognition Award for significant contributions to the economic development and to the quality of life in the Cedar Rapids-Marion area, Chair of the Linn County Chapter of the American Red Cross, and Trustee of the Cedar Rapids Public Library. He is a member of the Pickwick Club, Elks Club, and Rotary. His hobbies include philately, signeviery, investments, sports, and Whipple family history.

At a Founders Day Convocation December 5, 2001, Bill was awarded Coe College's Founder Medal given to individuals of "rare and exceptional distinction" in their fields of work and to Coe. Medalists "exemplify in extradorinary degree the qualifies of a liberally educated person. Coe

President James Phifer said Bill represented "the best of our alumni, both in professional achievement and in commitment to the college." The December Convocation was only the third time in Coe's 150-year history that Founders' Medals have been awarded. Bill was recognized for his contributions to the college in 1996 when he was awarded an Honorary Degree at Commencement ceremonies. He and wife Gayle also established The William P. Stephen,[761] son of Charles Wesley West and Bessie Madge Clingman, was born in Denison, Crawford, Co., Iowa 20 August 1914 and died 26 January 1998 in Tucson, Pima Co., Ariz., at 83 years of age. The family lived on a farm at Buck Grove, Crawford Co., Iowa at the time of his birth.

Steve moved to Mt. Vernon, Linn Co., Iowa in 1916 and was graduated from High School there. He attended Iowa State University at Ames for two years before buying, from his grandfather's estate, the family farm located on the south outskirts of Mt. Vernon. It has been owned by a member of the West family for 124 years (2006). He was a member of the Linn County Farm Bureau, a Commissioner of the Linn County Soil District, the Linn County Board of Adjustment, the Cedar Valley Business Association, and the Linn-Jones Farm Service. He was an avid hunter and fisherman throughout the upper mid west, Canada, and Mexico. After he reached retirement age, he leased the farm on a share basis and he and Elaine wintered a year in Florida, a year in south Texas, 12 years in Guaymas and San Carlos, Sonara, Mexico, and in Tuc-

The first was Saturday 31 January 1988 in the Recreation Hall at the Western Way Mobile Home Park on S. Kinney Way in Tucson, the second on 17 May in Mt. Vernon. He was cremated and his ashes scattered in a grove of trees on the family farm.

What Elaine remembers about her pre-teen years is that her father always brought her and brother son for the last 12 years of his life where they owned a mobile home. He became an expert in the card game bridge while living in Tucson. During summer after retirement they vacationed 4 to 6 weeks around the upper midwest and Canada fishing and visiting friends.

Steve died of heart failure at the Tucson Medical Center Hospice after he had instructed his medical team not to keep him on life support. Following his death, two memorial services were held to celebrate his life.

Jimmy gifts when he returned after being away. Her fondest gift was a "a little China girl doll with black bobbed hair, round white face, and beautiful kimono." She thinks they were lucky to be kids before radio and TV because her Dad read wonderful stories to them. "I believe that is why I have such a vivid imagination. He painted pictures with words and we filled in the shapes and colors. Dad's love of books is one of his gifts through me to my daughters." She remembers they always had a car and he took them to rodeos, circuses, tent and Chautauqua shows, and to his work place. One car she remembers was an Apperson 8 Roadster. She also remembers living in Kansas City in the early 1920s when her father brought a crystal set radio home that you listened to through ear phones and manipulated a tiny wire to find a station. It was like a big spool with a square board on top and bottom with the spool wrapped with copper wires and the crystal mounted on top.

Elaine's remembrances of her mother in the early years was that she spoiled them, treating them like dolls with minds of their own. She was an excellent seamstress and made the children most of their clothes. She had curly short black hair, dark brown eyes, and tiny feet — size 3. Her family was great on hugging and kissing and she brought that trait to the Whipple family as well as a strong sense of right and wrong. Her mother was an outstanding cook and could satisfy the palates of an English grandmother, a French grandfather, a German stepfather, a "bohemian" second husband, and American kids. She was a happy homemaker who believed a home was a place to live in, not look at — clean enough to be healthy but with a lived-in look. She died after a long debilitating illness weighing only 68 pounds.

Elaine has no real memory of her grandfather James E. Whipple but remembers her grandmother Ellen (Thompson) Whipple as a tall, stately, and soft spoken lady who lived with them in Vinton and helped care for her and Jimmy. She said older cousins described her grandmother's carriage, looks, and behaviour as "ladylike." She still has a 12-inch tall Flow blue pitcher (now a collectible) that belonged to her grandmother.

She remembers travelling with her folks during summer months in her preteen years as they put on dog and pony shows in small towns across Iowa. She also remembers the whole family went along when her father managed tent shows when they would spend a week at a time in small Kansas towns presenting plays such as East Lynn, Girl of the Golden West, Face on the Baroom Floor, etc. Jimmy sometimes played children roles in these productions.

In the early 1960s the family moved to Naas, Ireland where oldest daughter Billie June started school in a one-room school house with a pot bellied stove and outhouses. She got her knuckles rapped with a ruler the first day because she couldn't speak Gaelic. She carried her lunch to school in a paper bag. When they first arrived, the family lived in a bed and breakfast and Mary Ann and Melissa walked the country roads during the day because they were expected to leave after breakfast. They ate their noon and evening meals at the Naas restaurant where dishes were washed in cold water with bar soap. As a result there was scum on everything they drank. They often found snails and earwigs in their salad.

They eventually found a row house with a small back yard to rent in the village of Clondolkin. Heat was supplied by fireplaces in the kitchen, dining, and living rooms. The fuel was peat which caused a fine dust to settle on the walls. While they had three bedrooms, they moved the girl's bed in their room heated by an electric heater they bought. They also bought a kerosene heater for the bathroom which was turned on about 30 minutes before bath time. Water was heated in a small water heater in the wall next to the fireplace which was its source of heat. The refrigerator, about the size of a microwave, was built into a wall in the kitchen. Milk was kept on the back steps and was always cold. They also had a wringer wash machine. All the kids in the neighborhood came to their house to play because Mary Ann was the only mother to allow them to play indoors out of the cold and rain.

By the time Billie June was ready for the third grade the family had moved to Hilversum, The Netherlands where she was enrolled in a private school and had a tutor to learn the Dutch language (Nederlance). She was a fast learner and became the family's interpreter. After a year and a half in the private school she transferred to an American Air Force School. Melissa started kindergarden in Hilversum. The family lived in two homes. The first was a "darling" thatched roof cottage at the edge of the woods and a short bike ride to the home of the Royal Princess. Their second home was a 3-story town house owned by a Director of the Heineken Brewery. The girls had a balcony off their second floor bedroom. The family went to the Palace to give flowers to the Queen on her birthday. They returned to the U. S. in 1967 and settled in Littleton where both girls were graduated from High School.

Beginning with his youth he rode the rails as a migrant worker during the Depression and the Dust Bowl era. During WWII he was in the Army and served in Okinawa. He went to Alaska in 1948, purchasing his first dog sled as he crossed the border into Alaska where he worked for the U.S. Air Force salvaging downed airplanes by dog team and did commercial fishing. He survived dynamite explosions, crashed airplanes, foxes, and a myriad of other escapades. His most memorable accomplishment was the Iditarod Trail Sled Dog Race from Anchorage to Nome. He organized the first one in 1973 earning the title "Father of the Iditarod." He distinguished himself time after time finishing in the top five as late as 1988 at age 71. He was instrumental in the growth of long distance dog mushing from Europe to South Africa.

In celebration of the 1976 bicentennial, he organized the largest dog team ever assembled which pulled a tour bus filled with passengers up Knik Road. Joe took it as a personal challenge when people said mushing a dog team up Mt. McKinley couldn't be done. His team reached the summit. He was 62 at the time. He guided the first group of "Iditarod Challengers," dog mushing tourists from Knik to Nome in 1993. He organized "The Commemorative Serum Relay Race" to Nome in 1995 which began a successful immunization program for village children. I have always been proud of my McKinley relatives and how they viewed life and their good morals kept me on the straight and narrow when I was tempted in my younger years. So I believe example is so important to the younger generation."

7401. Donna Marie[13] Jasperson (Nancy Jane[12] Whipple, Lucien Blaine[11], James Ezekiel[10], Lucien Ransom[9], Enoch[8], Nehemiah[7], Benjamin[6], Francis[5], Jonathan[4], Joseph[3], Matthew[2], Matthew[1])[1028] was born in Tracy, Lyon Co., Minn. 10 May 1955 and died 16 November 1989 in Appleton, Swift Co., Minn., at 34 years of age. Funeral services were held 19 November at Appleton's Zion Lutheran Church and internment was in the Appleton City Cemetery. She married Gerald Dean Barney in Appleton 22 July 1973. Gerald, son of Christian Barney and Hattie Van Heurulan, was born in Willmar, Kandiyohi Co., Minn. 11 March 1944. They were divorced in Appleton.

In 1982 at age 27, recently divorced, and raising two children, she was working as Legal Secretary in Appleton when she was diagnosed with a giant aneurysm on her brain stem. Four days after entering the hospital and after the doctors had tied off the aneurysm, she had a stroke which robbed her of her ability to walk and altered her memory (she couldn't remember the previous three years). She had limited use of her vocal chords because of a trachea tube and had to be fed by a stomach tube. In short, she had lost the ability to take care of herself and had to re-learn independent living skills.

She began a long recovery period which led to her acceptance at Courage Residence in Golden Valley, Hennepin Co., Minn. in September 1984. A Live-in Transitional Rehabilitation Facility where individuals 16 and older with disabilities learn independent living skills. When she first arrived she needed "hands-on" support but within a year had progressed to a point of needing little help. She made a successful transfer to using a walker as well as a wheel chair, learned to use her vocal chords, memory strategies, and how to cook. Her progress was such she was able to move into an apartment retrofitted for her disabilities in the fall of 1985. It was a long process but with grit and determination, she achieved a level of independence that allowed her to return to Appleton to help raise her two children.[1029]

Clothier. His will, dated 17 December 1636–37, proved 2 March 1636/37, identifies Sara as his daughter and as "widow, late the wife of John Hawkins gentleman deceased." He left Sara 200 pounds "which her said husband did owe unto me at the time of his death."

John Hawkins III was a member of the Grocers' Company and an Alderman of the City of London in 1626. The Grocers' Company was founded in 1345 from the Fraternity of St. Anthony which was under the protection of the Abbot of Bury St. Edmunds. Among his properties were messuages and tenements in Tolleshunt, Bushes, Salcott, Wigborough, and Verley, the messauge where the family lived in Braintree, and two little tenements adjoining the Braintree churchyard. The Braintree messauge and two tenements were left to wife Sara, "so long as she remained a widow," and to son Abraham. Bequeaths in his will, written 3 September 1633 and proved 18 October 1633: Eldest son John, messuages and lands in Barking and other parishes; son Robert, messuages and tenements in Old Newton, Suffolk; daughter Sara, £600 each at age 18 and 21; daughter Margaret, £500 each at age 18 and 21; daughter Mary, messuages, etc. in Bradwell next the sea; daughter Judith, messuages, etc. in Finchfield, Essex; brother-in-law John Kent, 100 marks for his care and pains to be taken as one of the executors; to my loving friend Mr. Collins of Braintree, 40 shillings to buy him a ring and four pounds per annum during his ministry there; my mother, Mary Hawkins, widow, £16 a year, etc. (This would be Mary Levitt, his step-mother.) My friend William Lingwood, £20; my sister Kent and my sister Edes, 30 shillings apiece to make them rings; my brother Francis Hawkins, my sister Archer, and my sister Whipple, 40 shillings apiece as remembrances from me. (Sister Whipple is Anne Hawkins, wife of Matthew Whipple.) My cousin Tomson, my aunt Woodward, and my aunt Goodaye, 10 shillings apiece; loving friends and neighbors Adrian Mott and Joseph Loomys were also mentioned. Loomys was one of the witnesses.

An inquisition[9] taken at Braintree 16 April 1643 by the Court of Wards disclosed that "long before his death, John was seized in his demesne as of fee (inter alia) of a capital messuage in Braintree, in his own tenure or occupation held of Robert the Earl of Warwick (a leader of the national Puritan movement), as of his Manor of Braintree by fealty and rent, and of two cottages there in the occupation of Robert Woodward and Jeremie Gray; also of Drakes Croft, formerly Broom Croft, in Braintree, held of Katherine Lady Wentworth, as of her Manor of Coldham Hall in Wethersfield; also of six acres of land in the occupation of Martin Skinner, lately purchased of Isaac Skinner, son of the said Martin and Anne, his wife; also three rods, parcel of Braintreefield with the messuage built thereon, and of other buildings purchased of Richard Green and Richard Bedwell, and held of the Manor of Black Notley; also of two parcels called Copfield, and two parcels of land called Crossfield, all in Bocking, and held of Roger Wentworth as of his Manor of Bocking; also of two other parcels of land called Swallow Lovells in Bocking, now or late in the occupation of John Curtis and purchased of Henry Edes and John Edes, Clerk; and of a messuage in Bocking called Pirles or Brocks, purchased of the said John Curtis, the said Swallow Lovells and Pirles are held of Roger Wentworth, Esquire, as of his Manor of Bocking Hall by fealty, suit at court and yearly rent." His will dated 3 September last before this inquisition is quoted as far as concerns his lands. The said John Hawkins, the elder, also held lands in many other parts of Essex, also in the Isle of Ely, county of Cambridge, and in the county of Suffolk. John Hawkins, aged 17 on 30 January last past, is his son and next heir.

John's will confirms that Anne (Hawkins) Whipple also had a brother Francis and another sister who married an Archer unless her sister Mary, husband of Matthew Wright, was widowed and remarried a man named Archer between 8 November 1610 (marriage date to Wright) and 3 September 1633, the date of John's will. John's father-in-law, George Wood, died a little over three years after John. John Kent, also a Bocking Clothier and executor of John's estate, was also the executor of George Wood's estate. He was a son-in-law to Wood and husband to one of Sara (Wood) Hawkins' sisters. Another of Sara's sisters married a Jeremy Edes. A Henry and John Edes are mentioned in John Hawkins' Court of Wards inquisition.

John Hawkins III and Sara Wood had the following children:

8. i. John[3] Hawkins probably 30 January 1617.

9. ii. Abraham Hawkins bef 1633.

10. iii. Frances Hawkins bef 1633. She married Sir John Dawes in Essex County. They had sons Robert, John, and William and daughter Elizabeth who married Peter Fisher, D.D. The Dawes estate went to Sir Robert, the eldest son, who, along with his brother John, died without issue so the estate eventually passed to youngest son Sir William Dawes, D. D. He was born 12 September 1671 at Lyons and married Frances Darcy, a sister and co-heir of Sir Robert Darcy of Great Bracksted, Baronet. Upon William's death the estate went to his son Sir Darcy Dawes and a daughter, wife of Sir William Milner of Yorkshire, Baronet.[10]

11. iv. Sara Hawkins[11] bef 1633 and died abt 1640. She married Sir Stephen White bef 1640 and in that year he established a charity of "six pounds thirteen shillings and four-pence yearly out of a farm in Black and White Notley for the giving, upon All-Saints day, unto six poor women of Brain-tree, of honest and good behavior, and frequenters of the Church and divine service there; to each a gown of good cloth ready made of the value of 14s and to each of the said women, four 2-penny loaves of wheaten-bread upon the first Sunday of every month in the year, after Sermon in the afternoon, and to the upper Church-warden, one shilling and four-pence." This charity is "to be the love and affection" which he bore to his "late wife and to the parishioners of this town, for the sake of her and her friends."

12. v. Margaret Hawkins[12] bef 1633.
13. vi. Mary Hawkins[13] bef 1633.
14. vii. Judith Hawkins[14] bef 1633.
15. viii. Robert Hawkins Esq bef. September 1633.

6. Anne[2] Hawkins (John[1])[15] was born in Bocking, Essex Co., England abt 1604 and died abt 1643 in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. She married Matthew Whipple in Bocking 7 May 1622.

10. The Court of Wards and Liveries replaced a looser system of administering the King's feudal dues and was established by Statutes passed in 1540 (32 Henry VIII c.46) and 1542 (33 Henry VIII c. 22). When a Tenant-in-Chief (holding land directly from the Crown) died, and his or her land reverted to the Crown until the heir paid a sum of money (a relief) and was then able to take possession (Livery or Seisin) of the lands. However, if the heir was under age (under 21 for a male heir and under 14 for an heiress) [John's male heir, John, Jr. was 17] the Wardship of the heir, custody of their lands and the right to arrange their marriage passed to the Monarch, until the heir came of age. The Wardship and marriage was usually kept in Crown hands, but was sold, sometimes to the next of kin, often simply to the highest bidder. The Court was a financial institution, responsible for collecting these feudal revenues. However, it also had to cope with the practical and legal consequences arising from Wardship and Livery. When feudal tenures were abolished by the Long Parliament in 1645, the Court also came to an end. The abolition of the Court was confirmed by Charles II in 1660 (12 Charles II c.24).

When a Tenant-in-Chief died, the inquisition post mortem was taken, usually in response to a writ of diem clausit extrtemum or mandamus issued out of Chancery and was taken before the County Escheator who returned his findings to Chancery. Another copy went to the Court of Wards and Liveries. The Court's local representative, the Feodary, had to attend every inquisition to prevent fraud, and in time he conducted his own survey of the lands, which usually gave a higher value than did the jury.

People wishing to buy a Wardship, or to lease some of the lands put in a petition to the Master of Wards and if the petition was granted, an indenture was drawn up between the Court and the petitioner; a Fine (sum of money) for the Wardship was agreed, and the grantor's name, the Fine, and the terms of its payment were entered on a schedule. The revenue raised through Wardship had and the leasing of lands had to be accounted for. These accounts, submitted to the Court, were of the medieval and early modern 'charge and discharge' type: i.e. revenue receipts are followed by payments made out of those receipts.

When an heir came of age, he passed out of Wardship but could not enter upon his inheritance until, like heirs of full age, he sued out his Livery. This process was complicated and eventually resulted in a warrant being issued for the Livery to pass under the Great Seal. The Court had its own jurisdiction and a Ward could only sue or be sued in this Court. Wardship often led to litigation, primarily through the illegal retention sale, or leasing of a Ward's land or through their 'waste'. References for readers interesting in seeking information on the disposition of John's property include H. E. Bell, An Introduction to the History and Records of the Court of Wards and Liveries (Cambridge, 1953) and J. Hurstfield, The Queen's Wards (London, 1958).

Hawkins, a man of wealth, left a relatively young family. His son and heir John was only 17 daughters Sara and Margaret were apparently younger. The Robert Woodward occupying one of the cottages in Braintree was probably a cousin and son of his aunt Woodward.

DESCENDANTS OF EDMUND FAULKNER

(Faulkner lineage of Abigail Lamson, Generation 5, No. 204, wife of Francis Whipple.)

FIRST GENERATION

1. Edmund[1] Faulkner,[1] great (8) grandfather of the author, was born, probably, in King's Clear, Southampton Co., England and died 18 January 1686/87 in Andover, Essex Co., Mass. He married Dorothy (__) Robinson in Salem, Essex Co. Mass. 4 February 1647. She was born in England[2] and died 2 December 1688[3] in Andover.[4] A widow when she married Edmund, her maiden name is unknown. That she and Faulkner were married in Salem suggests that she and her son Joseph were from there. There were several Robinsons in early Salem and Joseph was a popular name among them but the name of her first husband is unknown. There is no record that her son Joseph was born in Salem. Edmund's birthplace is presumed to be King's Clear because his brother Francis, who bequeathed him £200 in his will dated 1 September 1662, listed his residence as King's Clear. He also identified Edmund as a resident of New England. The many bequeaths included in the will indicates Francis was quite wealthy. The name was spelled Fawconer and Fawkener in England. The article "Positive Pedigrees and Authorized Arms" by Wm. S. Appleton in the July 1894 Register says Edmond Fawkener of Andover, Mass. from King's County Cleere, Hampshire was eligible to wear the family Arms which were Sable, three Falcons Argent, beaked, legged and belled Or. G. Andrews Moriarty, Jr., Chair of the Committee on Heraldry for the New England Historic Genealogical Society, identified the Arms as: Sable three Falcons silver beaked legged and belled gold. The Crest was identified as A wheat-sheaf gold banded silver. Edmund, along with John Woodbridge, Andover's first Minister, purchased the Indian land known as Cochichewick from Sagamore Cutshemache of the Naumkeag Tribe for £6 and a red coat. It was then named Andover. He and Simon Bradstreet were the only two early settlers called "Mister." He served as Selectman, Town Clerk 1674-77, and in 1662 received the first Andover license for a vintner and innholder.

One of his purchases was from James Whipple who on 15 July 1730 sold him for £1,100 his "new dwelling house, barn, outhousing, orchard, and about 70 acres of upland meadow and meadow ground . . . his homestead on about 20 acres . . . about two acres of pine swamp . . . a piece of land on the northeasterly side of Black Brook . . . and about seven acres that bounds southerly upon Mr. Saltonstall's heir's farm."[41] Thomas' will was signed with his mark 12 August 1765 with a codicil in February 1767 and proved 27 July 1767. He mentions his wife Ruth and children (1) Abigail, wife of Francis Whipple, Esq. of Westborough; (2) Martha, wife of Abraham Knowlton of Shrewsbury; (3) Sarah, wife of Aaron Forbush; (4) Elizabeth, wife of Jacob Fisk of Hardwick; (5) Thomas deceased. Thomas was a "husbandman" of Ipswich who joined the church in Hamilton 18 February 1727. On 8 July 1747, he purchased for £250 (bills of New Tenor) the "full one half part with one half of the buildings thereon standing" of his father's homestead (which his father had bought from James Whipple 15 July 1730), one-half of his upland and meadow, one-half of his salt marsh and thatch ground, one-half of his "quick stock and husbandry utensils," and one-half of his "common right in the thick wood (Eighth) of Ipswich." Apparently they were going to jointly farm the land. He died intestate and his widow Mary was appointed administratrix of his estate which was valued at £289, 15 shillings. The estate was divided from the state of his father's and his portion was further divided with one-half to his oldest son Thomas and the other half to the widow and his other six children. When dividing the buildings, Thomas received "the westerly end of Dwelling house to the middle of the chimney right up and down . . . and six foot and nine inches of the westerly end of the cellar under the easterly end of said house, and half the corn house, to the middle beam right up and down . . . also a garden spot containing about eight rods on the southerly side of the highway aforesaid of the dwelling house . . . and half the well, and to have liberty to pass round the house as his occasion may be. He was also allowed "a convenient way through the land of the widow and heirs aforesaid." The proposed division was accepted by the Superior Court at Salem 24 October 1759.[48]

ABIGAIL (DANE) FAULKNER
MY (BAINE WHIPPLE) FAVORITE ANCESTRESS[1]

Almost everyone in 1692 the educated and the unlearned believed in a material (visible) world and a spiritual (invisible) world. Heaven with its Angels was a reality as was Hell and its Devils. People believed inhabitants of the invisible world could intrude on the visible world. Consequently, every accident, every sudden or unusual illness of man or beast, every inexplicable or menacing circumstance of any sort was apt to raise the cry of witchcraft.

Abigail (Dane) Faulkner was my great (7) grandmother. She was born in Andover in 1652 and died there in 1730.[2] If Andover had had a newspaper in 1692, the following would have been the lead story in the issue of August 12:

> PROMINENT ANDOVER WOMAN CHARGED WITH WITCHCRAFT
> Abigail Faulkner, Sr., of Andover was indicted August 11, for the "detestable crime of witchcraft." The wife of Lieut. Francis Faulkner, she is one of the most prominent women in the township. The Grand Jury indicted her twice for practicing "sorceries wickedly, maliciously, and feloniously." Indictment No. 1 charges her with bewitching Martha Sprague, 16, of Boxford; Indictment No. 2 with bewitching Sarah Phelps, 9, of Andover. The indictments were handed down in the name of our Sovereign Lord King William and our Lady Queen Anne. Edmund Faulker, her father-in-law, is one of the founders of the Township and one of the few original Proprietors dignified with the title of Mr.[3] Rev. Francis Dane, her father, has been Andover's senior Minister since 1648.[4] Her trial date is set for September 17 in Salem. She will appear before the special Court of Oyer and Terminer (hear and determine), Magistrates John Hathorne, Jonathan Corwin, and John Higginson presiding.[5] A guilty verdict would mean a sentence of death by hanging. Mrs. Faulkner, mother of five, is pregnant. She is an Andover native.[6]

In February of 1692 a small group of girls in Salem Village ranging in age from 9 to 17 began acting strange and bizarre. They had fits, uttered foolish and nonsensical speeches, made odd gestures, and contorted themselves into grotesque postures. Their actions were reminiscent of the bewitched children in Rev. Cotton Mathers Memorable Providences Relating to Witchcraft and Possessions, published in Boston in 1689. Mather was a Minister of the Second Church in Boston (North Church).[7]

Dr. Griggs of Salem village examined the girls and finding no physical cause for their afflictions concluded they were bewitched. Rev. Samuel Parris of Salem Village, whose 9-year-old daughter was among the group, conferred with clergy and elders from half a dozen surrounding towns. After meeting privately with the girls and applying the therapy of prayer with discouraging results, the ministers decided the girls must name their tormentors so the witches could be brought to justice.[8]

All that remained was to discover who they were. A dog was fed a cake of rye meal, made with the children's urine and baked in the ashes. After the dog had eaten, the "afflicted" children went into fits and convulsions and claimed to see into the invisible world "ruled by the Devil and inhabited by specters and ghosts." This new-found spectral sight made it possible for the girls to see who was causing their afflictions. Spectral evidence could now be used to name witches and wizards.

The witchcraft hunt divides into two major phases: Salem Village and Andover. More were accused and arrested in Andover than in Salem Village. The Salem phase began March 1, the Andover phase July 15. Among the leaders of the afflicted circle in Andover were Martha Sprague and Sarah Phelps. While appearing harmless and innocent in the real world, the witch had a specter in the invisible world which inflicted excruciating pain by pinching, pricking, and tormenting. The authorities conducting the witch trials deemed irrelevant and frivolous testimony based on the fact other people, including themselves, could not see what the girls saw. In 1692, it was believed the girl's spectral power was the means God provided to detect witches.

Place yourself in the Salem Courtroom August 11, 1692. You are Abigail Faulkner, 40, about two months pregnant, have five children and a sick husband at home. Your father-in-law is a founder of the Township where your father has been minister for 34 years. You have lived in Andover all your life and no one has ever known you to be other than a God-fearing woman. Today you are being examined by three Magistrates of the Commonwealth, charged with the most heinous crime known to man. Two girls you don't know claim you have bewitched them. You have to answer, and answer alone as the law does not allow you representation.

Three afflicted girls from Salem, all strangers to you, are part of the examination. What they do, how they act, will determine if you are convicted. This is the darkest time of your life—more frightening than the Indian attack on Andover May 5, 1689 when your sister-in-law Hannah, her husband Capt. Pascoe Chubb, and three others were killed, two houses and barn and the cattle in them burned, and the Meeting House set afire.

The hearing begin with Magistrate Hathorne reading the charge: "You are apprehended for witchcraft." "I know nothing of it," you say while looking around the room. At your glance the afflicted fall to the floor in fits. Hathorne: "Do you not see?" "Yes, but it is the Devil does it in my shape." Mary Walcott: "I was first tormented last night but have seen Faulkner's specter for two months." "Ann Putnam: "Faulkner pulled me off my horse last night but I saw her before." Mary Warren: "I saw Faulkner with other witches but was not hurt by her till lately." Following their testimony the girls again fall into fits. Your touch ends their contortion. Hawthorne: "For the credit of your town, confess the truth." Your niece, Elizabeth Johnson, 22, (No. 11 under Descendants of Rev. Francis Dane) was charged a day earlier and confessed, saying she was carried to a witch meeting at the village on a pole and that you were there. She is sitting with the afflicted and urges you to confess.

Mary Ann (Whipple) McPherson and Blaine Whipple airborn in May 2003. Great (7) grandchildren of Abigail (Dane) Faulkner convicted of being a witch in a 1692 trial in Salem Mass.

What do you do? The witch hunts are in their sixth month. Scores have been arrested. Six have been hanged: two others died in prison. A pattern has developed. Those who confess are spared. Those who maintain their innocence are condemned and hanged. Among the hanged is Elizabeth, wife of your first cousin James Howe, Jr. She refused to confess.[9] It is an agonizing decision. Life is precious, your family needs you. What do you do?

Things don't go well as the examination progresses. Nine-year-old

Sarah Phelps went into fits, claiming you as the cause. Idly, you pick up a cloth from the table and squeeze it. The girls immediately fall into fits claiming Daniel Eames and Capt. Floyd were on the cloth as it lay on the table. You remind the Magistrates you looked at some of the girls earlier in Andover and they were not afflicted, but Hathorne rules it inadmissible, "You only began afflicting yesterday. You used to conjure (practice magic or legerdemain) with a sieve," he charges. "That's not so. You are repeating an old story proved untrue long ago." You can think of nothing else to say except "I'm sorry the girls are afflicted." Sorry isn't enough because you didn't shed a tear when saying it. Finally, you know what you must do. You are not a witch. God would not require you to plead guilty when you are not. Your plea is not guilty. The examination is over. No decision is made.

By the time of the second examination August 30, your first cousin Martha Carrier and four others who refused to confess have been condemned and hanged. Your widowed sister Elizabeth Johnson, (see No. 2 under descendants of Rev. Francis Dane) mother of your niece Elizabeth, was charged and confessed the previous day, implicating you.

You begin the second hearing as you ended the first—denying the charge. Known for their bullying and absurd leading questions, the Magistrates were relentless in getting the answers they wanted. You finally admit to looking at the girls with an "evil eye" and to pinching your hands together. "But if the Devil took advantage of that, it was the Devil, not me that afflicted the girls." You are found guilty on September 17. The verdict still exists on a document in the Massachusetts State Archives: "The Jury find Abigail Faulkner, wife of Francis Faulkner of Andover, guilty of the felony of witchcraft committed on the body of Martha Sprague also on the body of Sarah Phelps. SENTENCE OF DEATH PLACED ON ABIGAIL FAULKNER[10] Because she was pregnant, she was reprieved until after the birth of her child.

Reading about the 1692 witchcraft trials is mind boggling. The reader has no point of reference, no understanding of how Judges conducted the trials or on what basis juries returned guilty verdicts. It seems absurd that a person could be accused, let alone tried for the crime of witchcraft. But in 1692 existence of the Devil, who was a fallen Angel (Ephesians 6:12), was accepted by everyone.

Cotton Mather, one of the colony's leading ministers, believed New England was originally the Devil's territory, that the Devil was irritated that a people of God settled there, and was fighting for converts in Salem, Andover, and other New England towns to prevent Christianity from winning the New World.[11] He believed the testimony of the witch accusers and told the people of Massachusetts there were thousands of Devils among them (Mark 5:15). He said they were led by a Prince called Beelzebub whose Angels were soldiers like "vast regiments of cruel and bloody French dragoons overrunning a pillaged neighborhood."[12]

Mather did much to convince the people to believe in Devils. He said the only person who could doubt the existence of the Devil is one who is under his influence. He preached the end of the world was near and that God was allowing the Devil to plague the world until the Second Coming. He said the Devil knew the end was near so he recruited new followers and set them loose to attack Christians. "The devils swarm about us like the frogs of Egypt," he said.[13] Even those who were skeptical came to believe what Mather and many other ministers were preaching and came to accept that their own wives, children, parents, and siblings were Devils.

Spectral evidence wasn't accepted by everyone, but is was by Mather and he recommended the speedy and vigorous prosecution "of such as have rendered themselves obnoxious; according to the best directions given in the laws of God and the wholesome statutes of the English nation for the detection of witchcraft. We must make just as much use of all advice from the invisible world as God sends. It permits spirits from the unseen regions to visit us with surprising informations, we are to inquire what cause there is for such things.[14] To do less was to allow the Devil "get so far into our faith, we come at length to believe his lies."[15]

"Rules for the finding out of witches" included: 1) If any man or woman be notoriously defamed for a witch this yields a strong suspicion. 2) Testimony from a fellow-witch or magician is a fit presumption to cause a straight examination. 3) If death, or at least some mischief follow cursing and banning, the person should be examined, though not necessarily convicted. 4) If mischief follows enmity, quarreling, or threatening, it is a great presumption of witchcraft. 5) The son or daughter, man-servant or maid-servant, familiar friend, near neighbor, or old companion of a known and convicted witch is open to suspicion of witchcraft for witchcraft is an art learned and conveyed from man to man. 6) The party suspected has the Devil's mark; for when the devil covenants with them he always leaves his mark so he knows them for his own—a mark that can't be explained in nature. 7) If the suspect is unconstant or contrary when examined it suggests a guilty conscience stops the freedom of utterance.[16] Jurors were instructed on what evidence could convict. 1) The free and voluntary confession by the accused supported by witnesses or further inquiry. 2) Two good and honest witnesses testifying they had personal knowledge that either the accused made a league with the Devil or did some known practice of witchcraft "is a pregnant proof of a league formerly made between them." 3) Proof that the suspect entertained a familiar spirit, and had conference with it in the likeness of some visible creatures.

4) If the witnesses affirm upon oath the suspect did something which infers a covenant made—used enhancements, divined things before they come to pass, raised tempests, raised the form of a dead man to appear.[17]

Bernard of Batcomb's Guide to Grand Jurymen[18] elaborated on evidence to convict. 1) The witches mark on the baser sort of witches is insensitive, and will not bleed. Some are like a teat; some but a blewish spot; some a red one; and some sunken flesh. But the witches do sometimes cover them. 2) By the witches words. As when they have been heard calling on, speaking to, or talking of their familiars; when heard telling of hurt they have done to man or beast; when heard threatening of such hurt; when heard relating their transportations. 3) By the witches deeds. As when they have been seen with their spirits, or seen secretly feeding their imps. Or, when their pictures, puppets, and their hellish compositions are found. 4) By the witches ecstasies;[19] with the delight whereof witches are so taken, they hardly conceal the same. 5) By fellow witches confessing their own witchcraft and bearing witness against others with sufficient proof—they have seen them with their spirits, have received spirits from them, have seen them use witchery-tricks to do harm, can show the mark upon them, have attended meetings together. 6) By the witches own confession of giving their souls to the Devil.[20]

Records of the jury deliberations aren't available but it seems clear Abigail's conviction was based on the spectral evidence of Mary Walcott, Ann Putnam, and Mary Warren of Salem Village, Martha Sprague of Boxford, and Sarah Phelps of Andover. Warren also testified she saw Abigail with other witches. The jury must have given credence to the evidence of Abigail's sister and niece, both named Elizabeth Johnson, who confessed to the charge of witchcraft and said Abigail was one of them. The fact her first cousin Martha Carrier and Elizabeth Howe, wife of her first cousin James Howe, Jr., were both convicted and hanged must have weighed heavily with the jury.

Abigail was made of stern stuff. On December 3, after 78 days in Salem prison, she petitioned Governor William Phipps for a pardon, pointing out the evidence against her was spectral and that after she was condemned, the confessors who implicated her admitted they wronged her and that their testimony was false.[21]

The petition worked. She was released from prison a few days later. But Abigail was not through. Determined to clear her name, she wrote the Massachusetts Legislature in 1703 noting she was accused by the afflicted who "pretended to see me by their sprectral sight (not with their bodily eyes) and that I afflicted them, . . . these being all that gave in any evidence against me upon oath, yet the jury (upon only their testimony) brought me in guilty, and the sentence of death was passed upon me." She said that despite Gov. Phipps pardon, the official record still showed her a "malefactor convict . . . of the most heinous crimes that mankind can supposed to be guilty of, which besides its utter ruining and defacing my reputation, will certainly expose myself to imminent danger by new accusations, which will thereby be the more readily believed, will remain as a perpetual brand of infamy upon my family."

On July 20, 1703, the House of Representatives ordered a Bill be drafted to disallow spectral evidence stating "no specter evidence may hereafter be accounted valid, or sufficient to take away the life, or good name, of any person or persons within this Province, and that the infamy, and reproach, cast on the names and posterity of the said accused and condemned persons may in some measure be rolled away.[22] Thus the attainder (forfeiture of property and loss of civil rights of a person sentenced to death) of Abigail Faulkner and others was reversed.

One task remained. People imprisoned in those days were responsible for paying the jailer for all costs associated with their incarceration. Abigail and others petitioned the Legislature to be reimbursed and in 1712 she received £20 as partial payment of her costs. Abigail (Dane) Faulkner displayed courage and fortitude far beyond the norm for the time. I'm proud to call her my ancestress.

Elizabeth (widow of Stephen) Johnson was the oldest daughter of Francis and Elizabeth (Ingalls) Dane. Her daughter, Elizabeth, Jr., was the first member of the immediate Dane family to be accused (Aug. 10). Before the month was out, Elizabeth, Sr. and her other two children were charged. Including the Faulkners, this meant two daughters and five grandchildren were accused and thrown into prison. Elizabeth Johnson's brother-in-law Timothy was the husband of Rebecca Aslet and father of Rebecca Johnson, Jr. John Saide, Jr. was related by marriage through Elizabeth's sister-in-law, Susannah Johnson, Jr.

James Howe was Dane's brother-in-law by his wife Elizabeth Dane.

Their son, James Howe, Jr., married Elizabeth Jackson, thereby creating the Jackson relationship. Nehemiah Abbot, Jr. was the son of Mary Howe and Nehemiah Abbot, Sr.; Sarah Bridges was the daughter of Sarah Howe and John Bridges, making them grandchildren of Elizabeth and great nephew and niece of Rev. Dane.

Progenitors of the Allen family were Andrew Allen and Faith Ingalls, sister of Rev. Dane's first wife, Elizabeth (died in 1676). Allen, born in England in 1616, was an original Andover proprietor. Their daughter Mary married Dr. Roger Toothaker; their daughter Martha married Thomas Carrier. Martha Carrier, niece of Rev. Dane's wife, was accused May 28, the first from Andover. She was jailed in Salem and put in chains.[1] Her sons Richard, 18, and Andrew, 15, were arrested July 22 and refused to confess or accuse their mother until they were tied neck to feet. This produced a confession and an acknowledgement that their mother was a witch.[2] She was condemned August 5 and her two youngest, Thomas, Jr. 10, Sarah, 7, and her niece, Elizabeth Johnson, Jr., 22, were arrested August 10. The two children were coerced into naming their mother as a witch.[3] Abusing her children was a tactic to induce her to confess. She never did. The four children were forced to watch their mother's execution on Aug. 19. They must have wondered if they would be next.[4]

TRANSCRIPT OF ABIGAIL FAULKNER'S EXAMINATION.

August 11, 1692. Mr. Hathorne, Mr. Corwin, & Capt. Higginson present. When she was brought into the room the afflicted persons fell down. Mr. HA: You are here, apprehended for witch-craft. Answer: I know nothing of it. With the cast of her eye, Mary Walcott & the rest afflicted, Mary Warren and others fell down. It was said to her, do you not see. She said yes but it is the Devil does it in my shape. Mary Walcott said she had seen her two months a good while ago but was not hurt by her till last night. Ann Putnam said she had seen said Faulkner but was not hurt by her till last night & then she pulled me off my horse. Mary Warren said she had seen her in company with other witches but was not hurt by her till lately.

Mary Warren & others of the afflicted were struck down into fits & helped out of their fits by a touch of Abigail Faulkner's hand. she was urged to confess the truth for the credit of her town. Her cousin [niece] Eliz. Johnson urged her with that. But she refused to do it saying God would not require her to confess that she was not guilty of. Phelp's daughter complained her afflicting her, but she denied that she had anything to do with witchcraft. She said Faulkner had a cloth in her hand, that when she squeezed in her hand the afflicted fell into grievous fits, as was observed. The afflicted said Daniel Eames and Capt. Floyd was upon that cloth when it was upon the table.

She said she was sorry they were afflicted but she was told & it was observed she did not shed a tear. Mary Warren was pulled under the table & was helped out of her fit by a touch of said Faulkner. She said she had looked on some of these afflicted when they came to Andover & hurt them not. But she was told it was before she had began to afflict them. She was told that it was reported she used to conjure with a seiv (sic). But she said it was not so, that story was cleared up.

SECOND EXAMINATION BEFORE JOHN HATHORNE.

August 30, 1692. Before magistrate John Hathorne. Abigail Faulkner, before their Majesty's Justices at first denied witchcraft as she had done before. But afterward she owned that she was angry at what folk said when her cousin [niece] Eliz. Johnson was taken up and folk laugh & said her sister Johnson would come out next & she did look with an evil eye on the afflicted persons & did consent that they should be afflicted because they were the cause of bringing her kindred out. And she did wish them ill & her spirit being raised she did pinch her hands together & she knew not but that the devil might take that advantage but it was the devil, not she that afflicted them. This she said she did at Capt. Chandler's garrison the night after Eliz. Johnson had been examined before Capt. Bradstreet in the day. Attest: Simon Willard.

PETITION OF ABIGAIL FAULKNER, DEC. 3, 1692.

The humble petition of Abigail Faulkner unto his Excellency Sir William Phipps, Knight and Governor of their Majesties dominions in America, humbly sheweth:

That your poor and humble petitioner, having been this four months in Salem prison and condemned to die, having had no other evidence against me but the specter evidences and the confessors which confessors have lately since I was condemned owed to myself and others and do still own that they wronged me and what they had said against me was false; and that they would not that I should have been put to death for a thousand worlds, for they never should have enjoyed themselves again in this world; which undoubtedly I should have been put to death had it not pleased the Lord I had been with child. Thanks be to the Lord, I know myself altogether innocent & ignorant of the crime of witchcraft which is laid to my charge. As will appear at the great day of judgment (may it please your excellency) my husband about five years ago was taken with fits which did very much impair his memory and understanding but with the blessing of the Lord upon my endeavors did recover of them again but now through grief and sorrow they are returned to him again as bad as ever they were. I having six children and having little or nothing to subsist on, being in a manner without a head to do any thing for myself or them, and being closely confined can see no other ways but we shall all perish. Therefore may it please your Excellency, your poor humble petitioner do humbly beg and implore of your Excellency to take it into your pious and judicious consideration that some speedy course may be taken with me for my releasement that I and my children perish not through means of my close confinement here which undoubtedly we shall if the Lord does not mightily prevent and your poor petitioner shall forever pray for your health and happiness in this life and eternal felicity in the world to come, so prays.

Your poor afflicted humble servant, petitioner Abigail Faulkner. From Salem prison December 3d: 1693.

PETITION OF FRANCIS FAULKNER, ET. AL.

March 2, 1702. To his Excellency, the Governor, and Council, and Representatives now in General Court assembled at Boston:

The petition of several of the inhabitants of Andover, Salem Village, & Topsfield humbly sheweth:

That whereas in the year 1692 some of your petitioners and the near relations of others of them, viz: Rebecca Nurse, Mary Estey, Abigail Faulkner, Mary Parker, of Andover, John Procter & Elizabeth his wife; Elizabeth Howe, Samuel Wardwell & Sarah his wife, were accused of witchcraft by certain possessed persons, and thereupon were apprehended and imprisoned, and at a Court held at Salem were condemned upon the evidence of the aforesaid possessed persons; and sentence of death hath been executed on them (except Abigail Faulkner, Elizabeth Procter, & Sarah Wardwell) of whose innocency those that knew them are well satisfied. And whereas the invalidity of the aforesaid evidence and the great wrong which (through errors & mistakes in those trials) was then done, hath since plainly appeared which we doubt not but this honored Court is sensible of. Your petitioners being dissatisfied and grieved, that (besides what the aforesaid condemned persons have suffered in their persons and estates) their names are exposed to infamy and reproach, while their trial & condemnation stands upon public record. We therefore humbly pray this Honored Court, that something may be publicly done to take off infamy from the names and memory of those who have suffered as aforesaid, that none of their surviving relations, nor their posterity, may suffer reproach upon that account. And your petitioners shall ever pray &c.

PETITION OF ABIGAIL FAULKNER, SR.

June, 1703. To the Honorable the Great and General Court of the Province of the Massachusetts Bay assembled at Boston.

The petition of Abigail, the wife of Francis Faulkner of Andover in the county of Essex, humbly sheweth that whereas in the year 1692 when many were accused & imprisoned at Salem as witches and some executed, myself was accused by the afflicted who pretended to see me by their spectral sight (not with their bodily eyes) and that I afflicted them upon whose accusations (and theirs only) I was examined, imprisoned, and brought to trial, these being all that gave in any evidence against me upon oath. Yet the jury (upon only their testimony) brought me in guilty, & the sentence of death was passed upon me. But it pleased God to put it into the heart of his Excellency, Sir William Phipps, to grant me a reprieve and at length a pardon, the sufficiency of the proof being in said pardon expressed as the inducement to the granting thereof so that through the great goodness of God I am yet preserved.

The pardon having so far had its effect as that I am as yet suffered [to] live but this only as a malefactor convict upon record of the most heinous crimes that mankind can be supposed to be guilty of, which besides it utter ruining and defacing my reputation, will certainly expose myself to imminent danger by new accusations, which will thereby be the more readily believed will remain as a perpetual brand of infamy upon my family. And I knowing my own innocency as to all such crimes (as will at the last fully appear) and being so defamed in my reputation and my life exposed besides the odium cast upon my posterity.

Do humbly pray that this high honorable Court will please to take my case into serious consideration and order the defacing of the record against me so that I and mine may be freed from the evil consequences thereof.

Any your petitioner, as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

Boston June 13, 1703. The Court ordered the reading of her trial. Reverse of Case # 113 & #114. Messrs. Sprague, Seabury, Savage.

RESPONSE OF THE GENERAL COURT

In the House of Representatives, July 20th, 1703.

In answer to the petitions of Abigail Faulkner, and sundry of the inhabitants of Andover, in the behalf of sundry persons in and late of said town & elsewhere, who in the year 1692 were indicted, accused, and condemned, & many of them executed for the crime of felony by witchcraft. And whereas it is conceived by many worthy and pious persons that the evidence given against many of the said condemned persons was weak and insufficient as to taking away the lives of sundry so condemned &ca. Wherefore it is though meet and it is hereby ordered that a Bill be drawn up for preventing the like procedure for the future, and that no spectral evidence may hereafter be accounted valid, or sufficient to take away the life, or good name of any person or persons within this Province, and that the infamy and reproach cast on the names and posterity of the said accused and condemned persons may in some measure be rolled away. Sent up for concurrence. James Converse, Speaker.

(Reverse). Order for bringing in a bill to reverse the Attainder (forfeiture of property and loss of civil rights of a person sentenced to death or utlawed) of Abigail Faulkner &ca of witchcraft.

That a Bill be brought in to acquit Mary (sic) Faulkner and the other present petitioners severally of the penalties to which they are liable upon the said convictions and judgments in the said Courts and estate them in their just credit and reputation as if no such judgment had been had.

In Council. July 21, 1703. Agreed to.

PETITION OF PHILLIP ENGLISH, ET. AL.

To his Excellency the Governor, and the Honorable Council and General Assembly for the Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England convened at Boston May 25th 1709, the humble address and motion of several of the inhabitants of the said Province some of which had their near relations, either parents or others, who suffered death in the dark and doleful times that past over this Province in the year 1692 under the supposition and in that gloomy day by some (thought proved) of being guilty of witchcraft which we have all the reason in the world to hope and believe they were innocent of, and others of that either ourselves or some of our relations have been imprisoned, impaired, and blasted in our reputations and estates by reason of the same. It's not our intent, neither do we reflect on the judges or jurors concerned in those sorrowful trials whom we hope [and believe] did that which they though was right in that hour of darkness. But that which we move and pray for is that you would please to pass some suitable Acts in your wisdom you may think meet and proper that shall (so far as may be) restore the reputations to the posterity of the suffers and remunerate them as to what they have been damnified in their estates thereby. We do not without remorse and grief recount these sorrowful things. But we humbly conceive that we are bound in conscience and duty to God and to ourselves, relatives, and posterity, and country. Humbly to make this motion, praying God to direct you in this and all your weighty consultations.

We subscribe your sorrowful and distressed suppliants.

ACCOUNT OF ABIGAIL FAULKNER, SR.

Sept. 13, 1710. To the Honorable Committee sitting in Salem. An account of the suffering of Abigail Faulkner of Andover and of 2 of her children for supposed witchcraft, and of the damage she sustained thereby in the year 1692.

1. I suffered imprisonment four months and my children were in prison about a month. And upon my trial I was condemned upon such evidence as is now generally thought to be insufficient as may be seen in the court records of my trial. I humbly pray that the Attainder may be taken off, and that my name that has been wronged may be restored.

2. I was at the whole charge of providing for myself and my children during the time of our imprisonment.

3. Money paid the Sheriff, Keeper, King's Attorney [&c] for prison fees, court charges, & for bonds, and for my reprieve & pardon, £10.

4. My expenses in providing for myself & children while we were in prison: time and expenses in journey and attending the courts were considerable, which I leave to the Honorable Committee & the General Court to allow me what may be thought reasonable, which will be to my satisfaction & if it be but [£10]. Signed Abigail Faulkner.

REVERSAL OF ATTAINDER — OCTOBER 17, 1711

Province of Massachusetts Bay. An Act to reverse the Attainders of George Burroughs and others for witchcraft.

Forasmuch as in the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred ninety two, several towns within this Province were infested with a horrible witchcraft or possession of devils. And at a special Court of Oyer and Terminer holden at Salem in the county of Essex in the same year, 1692: George Burroughs of Wells, John Procter, George Jacobs, John Willard, Giles Corey, and [ ] his wife, Rebecca Nurse, and Sarah Good, all of Salem aforesaid; Elizabeth Howe of Ipswich; Mary Eastey, Sarah Wild, and Abigail Hobbs, all of Topsfield; Samuel Wardwell, Mary Parker, Martha Carrier, Abigail Faulkner, Anne Foster, Rebecca Eames, Mary Post, and Mary Lacey, all of Andover; Mary Bradbury of Salisbury; and Dorcas Hoar of Beverly, were severally indicted and convicted and attainted of witchcraft and some of them put to death, other lying still under the like sentence of the said Court, and liable to have the same executed upon them.

The influence and energy of the evil spirits so great at that time acting in and upon those who were the principal accusers and witnesses proceeding so far as to cause a prosecution to be had of persons of known and good reputation, which caused a great dissatisfaction and a stop to be put thereunto until their majesty's pleasure should be known therein. And upon a representation thereof accordingly made of her late majesty Queen Mary, the second of blessed memory, by her royal letter given at her Court at Whitehall the fifteenth of April 1693, was graciously pleased to approve the care and circumspection therein; and to will and require that in all proceedings against persons accused for witchcraft, or being possessed by the devil, the greatest moderation and all due circumspection be used, so far as the same may be without impediment to the ordinary course of justice.

And some of the principal accusers and witnesses in those dark and severe prosecutions have since discovered themselves to be persons of profligate and vicious conversation.

Upon the humble petitions and suit of several of the said persons and of the children of others of them whose parents were executed, be it declared and enacted by his Excellency the Governor, Council and Representatives in the General Court assembled and by the authority of the same, that the several convictions, judgments, and attainders against the said George Burroughs, John Procter, George Jacob, John Willard, Giles Corey and [ ] Corey, Rebecca Nurse, Sarah Good, Elizabeth Howe, Mary Easty, Sarah W[ild], Abigail Hobbs, Samuel Wardwell, Mary Parker, Martha Carrier, Abigail Faulkner, Anne Foster, Rebecca Eames, Mary Post, Mary Lacey, Mary Bradbury, and Dorcas [Hoar], and every of them be and hereby are reversed, made and declared to be null and void to all intents, constructions, and purposes whatsoever, as if no such convictions, judgments, or attainders had ever [been] had or given. And that no penalties or forfeitures of goods or chattels be by the said judgments and attainders or either of them had or incurred.

Any law, usage, or custom to the contrary notwithstanding. And that no sheriff, constable, jailer, or other officer shall be liable to any prosecution in the law for anything they then legally and in the execution of their respective offices.

Made and passed by the Great and General Court or Assembly of her Majesty's Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England held at Boston the 17th day of October 1711.

A Committee was appointed by the General Court on June 1, 1652 to lay out the bounds between Andover and Cambridge, and the same day the Court granted that five or six hundred acres laid out by Rowley, without their line near Andover town, should belong to Andover. ABIGAIL (DANE) FAULKNER ENDNOTES

1. This article first appeared in Heritage Quest Magazine, Issue #77, September/October 1993 under Blaine Whipple's byline.
2. Andover is 25 miles north of Boston and originally included the present towns of Andover, North Andover, and that part of Lawrence south of the Merrimack river. It was called Cochichawick by the Indians and was part of the territory of the Naumkeag and within the domain of the Massachusetts tribe. The Sagamore was Cushamache who lived near Dorchester, Mass. The Andover of today represents the southern part of the original 17th century Andover Township. North Andover represents the northern part.
3. In 1644 the General Court granted ownership of the Township to 23 proprietors. A church was formed Oct. 24, 1645 with John Woodbridge as pastor. In 1646, Faulkner, eighth great grandfather of the author, and Rev. Woodbridge, acting on behalf of the proprietors, paid Sagamore Cutshaamache £6 and a red coat for the land within the Township. Roger, the Indian, and his company were given liberty to take alewives in the river for their own consumption so long as they did spoil any or steal corn or fruit belonging to the English. Roger was also granted permission to use the four acres he then cultivated. Most Indians were living north of the Merrimack river and Andover was considered the frontier. Sarah Loring Bailey, Historical Sketches of Andover, Massachusetts. Boston: Houghton, Mifflin & Co., 1880, 11. Edmond Faulkner, who married Dorothy Robinson 4 Feb. 1648, died 18 Jan. 1687. Dorothy died in 1668.
4. Francis Dane became Minister when Rev. Woodbridge returned to England. Born in Essex Co., England, he was 33 at the time and had no formal education for the ministry. He served 49 years until his death at age 82. Unlike most towns which had two ministers, Dane was Andover's only minister until 1682 when Rev. Thomas Barnard of Hadley, Hampshire Co., Mass. was appointed assistant. Dane is an eighth great grandfather of the author. He died in Andover 17 February 1696/97. His wife, Elizabeth Ingalls, was a daughter of Edmund Ingalls, born in England in 1598.
5. The Oyer and Terminer Court was an archaic form of an old English judicial system. Some felt creating this Court without the vote of the people was illegal as precedence limited its power to civil cases. The Magistrates had no formal legal training. Puritans had a low opinion of lawyers and did not permit the professional practice of law in the Colony, consequently those accused had no counsel. Nor did the Judges acknowledge that fine old English concept of innocent until proved guilty. The "W" was added to Hathorne's name by Nathaniel, great great grandson of the Magistrate and notable American author from 1830 to 1852.

6. Two of Abigail's daughters, 12-year-old Dorothy and 9-year-old Abigail, Jr. were accused in the infamous Andover Touch Test on September 7. Both were imprisoned for a month, being released on bail in Oct. 7 and cleared by proclamation in May 1693. Abigail Faulkner, Jr., who married Thomas Lamson of Ipswich 6 April 1708 is the author's great (6) grandmother.
7. Cotton Mather was the first of Increase Mather's nine children and grandson of Rev. Richard Mather, first teacher of the Dorchester, Mass. Church. Richard (1596-1660), born in Lowton near Liverpool, England was suspended from his ministry at Toxeth Park Chapel in 1635 because of his Puritan leanings. He immigrated to Massachusetts that year and was with the Dorchester Church from its founding in August 1636 until his death. He helped shape New England's Congregational way, collaborating in preparing the Psalms in meter for the Bay Psalm Book and wrote the original draft of the Cambridge Platform in 1648. He was one of the men responsible for the "Half Way Covenant" and advocated the plan against fierce opposition by those who insisted on the necessity of personal conversion.
8. A few townspeople distrusted the diagnosis since the girls used their "illness" to rebel against every restriction placed on them by adult society. These people believed the girls were doing what every young person would if they dared and suggested a good whipping might solve the problem. But the suggestion outraged most people. With the Devil in command, the poor girls had no choice. Contempt of discipline was a common symptom of demoniac possession. These "afflicted children," everyone called them children regardless of their age, needed the prayers of the parish, not its derision. To the believers, it was plain the Devil was at work in Salem Village and equally plain had commissioned witches there. Marion L. Starkey, The Devil in Massachusetts. New York: Time Incorporated, 1949.
9. Elizabeth (Jackson) Howe was 13 years older than Abigail. In 1692 her husband had been without sight for about seven years and Elizabeth had assumed the full burden of caring for him and managing the farm. A complaint was filed against her 28 May for afflicting Mary Walcott, Abigail Williams, Mercy Lewis, and Ann Putnam, Jr. She was arrested May 31 and refused to confess, saying "If it was the last moment I was to live, God knows I am innocent of anything of this nature." She was tried 30 June and despite many depositions supporting her character and Christian behavior, she was condemned 2 July and hung 19 July. Enders A. Robinson, Salem Witchcraft and Hathorne's House of Seven Gables. Bowie, MD: Heritage Books, Inc., 1992, 286.
10. Of Abigail's examination, Sarah Loring Bailey wrote: Her conduct in the Courts was worthy of her position, free alike from credulous weakness on the one hand and scornful defiance on the other. Either from her own good sense, or upheld by the wise counsels of her father (who never yielded to the delusion), she showed the greatest discretion, paying due deference to the Court, yet never losing her firmness and dignity. That she was not to be intimidated by superstitious terrors, the examiners knew, did not argue with her about 'peace and judgment to come' but they urged her to confess 'for the credit of her town.' This seems almost to have a spice of malice and meanness in it, for to hint even that the fair name of the town was to suffer from the family of the Minister was not to help him who had recently been involved in difficulties with his parishioners. Bailey further believes Abigail acted under instructions of her father who saw that only concession of some points could save her, and could advise it conscientiously since neither he or any one else at the time could know with certainty that the Devil was not concerned in these "extraordinary manifestations." Bailey, 216, 224.
11. Mather's prayer for New England: "And now, O thou Hope of New-England, and the Saviour thereof in the time of trouble. Do thou look mercifully down upon us, & rescue us, out of the trouble which at this time does threaten to swallow us up. Let Satan be shortly bruised under our feet, and let the covenanted vassals of Satan, which have traitorously brought him in upon us, be gloriously conquered, by the powerful and gracious presence in the midst of us. Abhor us not, O God, but cleanse us, but heal us, but save us, for the sake of thy Glory, enwrapped in our salvations. By thy Spirit, lift up a standard against our infernal adversaries, let us quickly find these making of us glad, according to the days wherein we have been afflicted. Accept of us all our endeavors to glorify thee, in the fires that are upon us; and among the rest, let these my poor and weak essays, composed with what years, what cares, what prayers, thou only knowest, not want the acceptance of the Lord." Ibid., 33.

1. Martha Carrier was born about 1654 in Andover and married Thomas Carrier, about 20 years her senior, in 1674. They lived in Billerica and moved to Andover about 1686. She was arrested May 31 and taken to Salem Village for examination. Hathorne asked the Salem girls who afflicted them. "Goody Carrier," responded Susannah Sheldon. "She bites me, pinches me, & tells me she would cut my throat, if I did not sign her book." Ann Putnam, Jr. complained of a pin stuck in her. Mary Warren cried out that she was pricked. Hathorne to Martha: "You see. You look upon them & they fall down." Martha: "It is false. The Devil is a liar. I looked upon none since I came into the room but you." The examination concluded as follows: "The tortures of the afflicted were so great that there was no enduring of it, so that she was ordered away & to be bound hand & foot with all expedition; the afflicted in the meanwhile almost killed, to the great trouble of all the spectators, magistrates, & others. Note, as soon as she was well bound, they all had strange & sudden ease. Mary Walcott told the magistrates that this woman told her that she had been a witch these 40 years."

   Samuel Preston, Jr., a witness against Martha, testified that two years previously he had differences with Martha and soon after "lost a cow in a strange manner, being cast upon her back with her heels up in firm ground when she was very lusty, it being in June." Phoebe Chandler, 11, testified, "The last Sabbath day I went to meeting, & Richard Carrier, son of Martha Carrier, looked very earnestly upon me, & immediately my hand began to pain me greatly, & I had a strange burning at my stomach, & then was struck deaf that I could not hear any of the prayer, nor the singing, till the two or three last words of the singing." John Rogers, about 50, testified that seven years ago, in a dispute with Martha, "she gave forth several threatening words as she often used to do and in a short time this deponent had two large lusty sows that were lost." W. Elliot Woodward, Records of Salem Witchcraft, Copied from the Original Documents, 2 vols. (Roxbury, MA, 1864). Vol. 2,. 56-57, 61-66.

Mary Lacey, Jr. was examined July 21. She confessed and then joined the afflicted circle. Her spectral sight allowed her to testify as follows: "Goody Carrier came to us in her spirit, sometimes in the likeness of a cat, sometimes in the likeness of a bird." Hathorne wanted to know if the cat sucked. "I cannot tell but believe they do suck her body." Hathorne: "Did you hear the 77 witches names called over?" Mary answered affirmatively and said "Goody Carrier told me the Devil said to her she should be a Queen in Hell." Hathorne: "Who was to be King?" Mary: "The minister, Mr. Burroughs, a pretty little man, and he has come to us sometimes in his spirit in the shape of a cat & I think sometimes in his proper shape." "Examinations," Witchcraft Collection, Essex Institute.

Cotton Mather would later write of Martha Carrier, "This rapant hag was the person of whom the confessions of the witches, and of her own children among the rest, agreed that the Devil has promised her that she should be Queen of Hell." Cotton Mather, The Wonders of the Invisible World. Boston, 1692. (Reprinted with additions, 1862). 159.

Martha's uncle, Francis Dane, defended her. He reported she had been the victim of malicious gossip. By this time, Dane was suspect. In addition to Martha, Dane's niece Mary (Allen) Toothaker, nephew-in-law Dr. Roger Toothaker, and niece-in-law Elizabeth (Jackson) Howe had all been accused and arrested. Martha Carrier and Elizabeth Howe were hanged the same day. Under the circumstances, it was a brave act for Rev. Dane to speak out for the Queen of Hell.

2. Cotton Mather was present at the examination of Richard and Andrew Carrier July 22. Despite his preliminary instructions to the boys, they refused to confess. Magistrate Hathorne, not used to fortitude in teenagers, ordered them carried to another chamber where their feet and hands were bound. After awhile, Richard was returned to Hathorne's presence and questioned intensively before finally confessing. "Examinations," Witchcraft Collections, Essex Institute. Salem, 1692.

On July 23, John Proctor who was in the Salem jail wrote that Richard and Andrew would not confess until tied "neck and heels, till blood was ready to come out of their noses, and it is creditably believed and reported this was the occasion of making them confess what they never did by reason. They said one had been a witch a month, and another five weeks, and that their mother had made them so." Upham, vol. 2. 311.

3. Judge Hathorne and the other examiners asked Sarah how long she had been a witch. "Ever since I was six years old," she responded. Hathorne, "You said you saw a cat once. What did that say to you?" "It said it would tear me to pieces, if I would not set my hand to the book." Hathorne asked if she functioned as a witch in body or spirit. "In spirit. My mother carried me thither to afflict." "How did your mother carry you while she was in prison?" "She came like a black cat." "How did you know that it was your mother?" "The cat told me so, that she was my mother." Upham, vol. 2. 209-10.

THOMAS CROSBY ABT 1510 TO HEPZIBAH CROSBY 1797

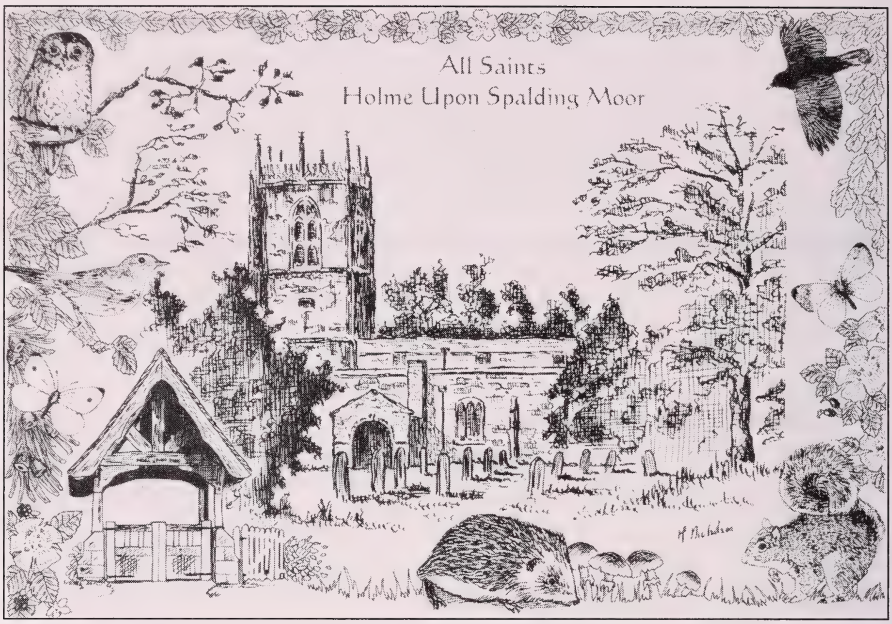
(Crosby lineage of Hepzibah Crosby, Generation 6, No. 492, wife of Benjamin Whipple.)

FIRST GENERATION

1. Thomas[1] Crosby[1] was born in York Co., England abt 1510 and was buried 16 March 1558/59 in Holme Upon Spalding Moor, York Co. He married Mrs. Jannett Bell in York Co. abt 1542. She was born in England and died there abt 1569. She married (1) John Bell. She and her sons John and Thomas Bell were appointed residuary legatees and executors of John's will dated 7 August 1537 and proved 3 October 1537.[2] After Thomas Crosby's death, she moved from the Hamlet of Bursea in the Parish of Holme Upon Spalding Moor to the adjoining Manor of Gribthorpe in the Parish of Bubwith. This Parish included nine Manors: Bubwith, Menthorpe, Breighton, Gunby, Willitoft, Harlthorpe, Faggathorpe, Gribthrope, and Spaldington, several of which had Chapels under the Bubwith Parish Church. Bubwith's ancient Church is on the east bank of the river Derwent.

In her will of 5 November 1568 she directed that she be buried in the churchyard at Bubwith and made bequeaths to Crosby sons Miles, Anthony, Ralph, and Nicholas as well as naming them executors. John Bell III, grandson, Katheren Myllington, and the poor of Bubwith Parish also received bequeaths. Miles Crosby was given the lease and good will of her farmhold and one quarter wheat, "wishing him to be good to his other brethern," Nicholas, "one chest which was his fathers and my best brass pot, willing that he shall give to Anthony his brother v s," and one-half of the Close at Harlthorpe called the Whyn Close,[3] Ralph, one yearling "whye" (heifer; young cow). Anthony and Ralph were given the other half of of the Harlthorpe Close "during the term of the lease." The rest of her goods were also left to the four sons.[4]

Holme Upon Spalding Moor in York County is an extensive Parish about 22 miles southeast of the city of York and lies in a flat plain bounded on the east by a range of hills called the Wolds. It's Church, which the author visited in 1998, dates to 1250. The town is bounded on the north by the Parishes of Seaton Ross, Everingham, Harswell, and Shipton, on the east by the Parishes of Market Weighton, North Cliff



All Saints Church, Home Upon Spaulding Moor, about 1250.

(formerly part of Sancton), South Cliff (formerly part of North Cave), and Hotham, on the south by the modern Parishes of Bishopsoil and Wallingfen (formerly parts of Eastrington), and on the west by the Parishes of Spaldington, Gribthorpe, and Forrathorpe (formerly Townships and Chapelries of the Parish of Bubwith).

The first reference to Thomas Crosby in York is on a Muster-Roll of 30 Henry VIII (1538) where he is identified as an archer with a bow living at Shipton, a Parish adjoining Holme Upon Spaulding Moor. The Miles and William Crosby on the same Roll may be his father and brother. Thomas' name also appears on the Yorkshire Lay Subsidy 303-322 with an Assessment of 12 pence on goods valued at £6 in 36 Henry VIII (1538).

Thomas Crosby and Mrs. Jannett Bell had the following children all born in York County:

+	2	i.	Miles[2] Crosby abt 1543.
+	3	ii.	Anthony Crosby abt 1545.
	4	iii.	Ralph Crosby[5] abt 1547 and died unmarried in 1570 in Bubwith at 23 years of age. He was identified as a yeoman in his will dated 25 April 1570. Brothers Miles, Anthony, and Nicholas received bequeaths and were named executors. The will was proved 9 July 1570.[6]
	5	iv.	Nicholas Crosby[7] abt 1550.

2. Miles[2] Crosby (Thomas[1])[8] was born in York Co, England abt 1543 and died in 1573 in Gribthorpe in Bubwith, York Co., at 30 years of age. He married Alison (__) in York Co. Miles was identified as a husbandman in his will dated 6 January 1573/74. He left the lease of his farmhold to Alison and his child. His brother Nicholas was left "my raiment" (clothing). Residue of goods "to wife Alison and daughter Ann, they to be executors; and if my wife have another child, said child to share with them."[9]

Miles Crosby and Alison (__) had the following child born in Gribthorpe:

6 i. Anne Crosby.[10]

3. Anthony[2] Crosby (Thomas[1])[11] was born in Holme Upon Spalding Moor, York Co, England abt 1545 and died there in 1599, at 54 years of age. He married Alison (__) there abt 1570. She may have been a Blansherd as a John Blansherd was witness to Anthony's will.[12] Also, Alison was a beneficiary of the will of John Blancharde of Bubwith dated 20 October 1571 where she is identified as Alison Crosbie.[13] As a youth, Anthony moved with his mother from Holme Upon Spalding Moor to the adjoining Township or Manor, Gribthorpe in the parish of Bubwith, where she leased a farm. She also leased Whyn Close in the adjoining Manor of Harlthorpe. She left the Gribthorpe farm to her son Miles and the Whyn Close to Anthony where he probably settled. On 7 April 1580 Anthony was a witness to the will of Robert Riche, the elder, of Lathorne in Angleton, a Parish adjacent to Harlthorpe on the north. He also witnessed the will of Robarte Essingwood of Harethorp on 24 January 1590/91.[14] He was a yeoman and in 1592 purchased, by Fine, a 100-acre farm in Holme Upon Spalding Moor.[15] He also acquired a Close called Leonard Scayles in Wheldrake, a parish about eight miles northwest of Holm, where he was residing at the time of his death. His original will is preserved in the Probate Registry at York. He directed that his body be buried in the Church or churchyard of Wheldrake and made the following bequeaths: to wife Alison, my Close in Wheldrake called Leonard Scayles and two of my best kyne (cows); to son Thomas "all and singular my lands whatsoever lying and being in Holme in Spaldingmore, one yoke of my best oxen which he will chose and my base wayne (low wagon) with yokes and teams to serve four oxen, my young black mare, my bridle, and my saddle." To his grandchildren, children of George Westobye of Wheldrake, Luke, William, John, Thomas, and Richard, £10 each at age 21 or when bound apprentices "to some good trade or occupation." He gave his servant Richard Jackson 20 pence "so he be diligent and trustie to his service this year following, otherwise to surcease" (end his employment). Isabell Stevenson, his maid servant, was given 20 pence and the poor people of Wheldrake 10 shillings. "The rest of my goods and cattle unbequeathed to Alison and Thomas, they discharging my debts and funeral expenses." He also made them executors. The will was probated 7 March 1599-1600.

Anthony Crosby and Alison (__) had the following children:

+	7	i.	Ellen[3] Crosby born abt 1571.
+	8	ii.	Thomas Crosby born abt 1575.

THIRD GENERATION

7. Ellen[3] Crosby (Anthony[2], Thomas[1])[16] was born in Holme Upon Spalding Moor, York Co, England abt 1571 and married George Westobie abt 1586.

Ellen Crosby and George Westobie had the following children born in Wheldrake, York Co.:

9	i.	Luke[4] Westobie.[17]
10	ii.	William Westobie.[18]
11	iii.	John Westobie.[19]
12	iv.	Thomas Westobie.[20]
13	v.	Richard Westobie.[21]

8. Thomas[3] Crosby (Anthony[2], Thomas[1])[22] was born in Bubwith, York Co., England abt 1575 and died 6 May 1661 in Rowley, Essex Co. Mass., at 85 years of age. He married Jane Sotheron in Holme Upon Spalding Moor, York Co. 19 October 1600. Jane,[23] daughter of William Sotheron and Constance Lambert, was christened there 4 March 1582 and died in 1662 in Rowley. The earliest known English record to mention Thomas identifies him as executor of his father's will in 1559. By that will he inherited half of his father's goods and the 100-acre freehold farm on Holme Upon Spaulding Moor. After taking up residence on the farm, he married Jane. Based on taxes paid, Jane's father was the wealthiest resident of the parish. Thomas Crosby and William Millington, Sotheron's sons-in-law, ranked next in wealth. Only 19 of the over 150 households in Holme Upon Spalding Moor paid taxes.[24]

Thomas followed his son Simon, who arrived in New England the spring of 1635. Thomas arrived, probably, in the fall of 1638 with Rev. Ezekiel Rogers, making him about 65 years old when he left England. He may be the only member of Rogers' original company not to settle at Rowley. He never made application for admission as a freeman, held public offices, or took part in public affairs. The first New England record to mention him is dated 16 April 1640 when he accepted five lots of 60 acres in Cambridge, Middlesex Co. Mass. as security for a loan to Stephen Daye. Daye was the operator of the first printing press set up in the English colonies.

According to the Jewett Family of America Year Book of 1911, "Reverend Joseph Glover brought the first printing press to the colonies. Glover contracted with Stephen Daye at Cambridge 7 June 1638, to go to New England at Glover's expense in the John of London and to be foreman of the press. Glover died on the voyage, and Daye set up the press at Newtowne, now Cambridge Mass. This press is often referred to as having been brought over for Harvard College, but as Harvard College did not exist until 1639, and as the printing press did not go there it was evidently never intended for Harvard. Thomas Crosby had an interest in the printing press and remained at Newtowne with Daye. Whether the interest was acquired after the death of Glover, or was an original one, is not known."

Thomas probably resided with his daughter-in-law Rachel and her sons after his son Simon died. When Rachel remarried and moved to Braintree, Norfolk Co., Mass. Thomas bought the Cary Lathum homestead in Cambridge in July 1645 and lived there until moving to Rowley where he was living by October 1649 when he was identified in a sale of property in Cambridge as being from "Rowley, County Essex." As a Rowley Proprietor, he received various grants of land[25] and bought John Haseltine's homestead on 20 April 1656. It consisted of a dwelling house, barn, orchard, home lot, planting lot, meadows, gates in the commons or ox pasture and about 22 acres of upland and meadow.[26]

After his father, William (4th generation) died, Dr. Anthony (5th generation) Crosby moved with his grandparents to New England. In a joint deed of gift signed 12 February 1658/59 by the mark and seal of both Thomas and Jane at Rowley, Anthony "our well beloved grandchild of the same town" was left all & every part of our whole estate . . . whether houses or land, in old England and in New England, bills, bonds, rents, and arrears, with all debts and demands that are anyways due unto us or unto either of us, from any person or persons whatsoever, in New England or Old England . . . giving and granting our full power to ask, demand, receive, and recover, by all lawful ways & means, of all and every person or persons, as fully and amply every way as we ourselves might have done before we signed and sealed this our deed of gift." It reserved "sufficient maintenance for ourselves during our natural life" from Anthony or "20 pounds per annum to be paid to us while we live together and to the survivor of us, at our choice."[27]

Thomas Crosby and Jane Sotheron had the following children born in Holme Upon Spalding Moor:

	14	i.	Anthony[4] Crosby[28] abt 1602 and died there in June 1632, at 29 years of age.
+	15	ii.	Thomas Crosby abt 1604.
+	16	iii.	William Crosby abt 1606.
+	17	iv.	Simon Crosby abt 1608.

FOURTH GENERATION

15. Thomas[4] Crosby (Thomas[3], Anthony[2], Thomas[1])[29] was born in Holme Upon Spalding Moor, York Co, England abt 1604 and died there 28 December 1658, at 54 years of age. He married Prudence (__) there abt 1633. Thomas was remembered with bequeaths from his grandparents William and Constance Sotheron. On a Subsidy of 16 Charles I (1640), Thomas and his uncle John Sotheron each paid 37s 4d on goods valued at £7. Of the 15 persons taxed in Holme Upon Spaulding Moor, they were the wealthiest with estates valued at more than double anyone else.[30] He remained in England and all of his children were daughters so his line ended. Daughters Jane and Katherine married into families of the Armorial landed gentry. His will was signed 25 November 1658 and he died 28 December. However, the will was not proved until 19 April 1669, a decade later. Daughter Prudence Bower was given "the messuage, tenement, or house wherein I now dwell with all houses, buildings, stables, barns, orchards, gardens, Closes, lands, profits, commodities, herediataments, and appurtenances, and two Closes called Pigh Hills, two Closes called Sadler Closes, and the Close called Chantry Close." If Prudence had no heirs, the property was to go to her sister Jane Belt. Jane, wife of Jasper Belt of Pocklington, York Co., was given "all the rest and residue of my lands, tenements, and hereditaments whatsoever, as well in my own occupation as in the occupation of any other person or persons whatsoever." Loving wife Prudence was left £40 annually during her natural life "in full satisfaction of her dower or thirds forth of my estate, real and personal" and all the "household goods belonging to the dwelling house, and one cow which she will chose." His nephews Thomas, Symon, and Joseph, sons of his deceased younger brother Simon, were given £10 each; grandchildren Robert Belt "my gray filly," Sarah Belt, £10, and Thomasin Bower, £10. His son-in-law Jasper Belt was made sole executor.

Thomas Crosby and Prudence (__) had the following children born in Holme Upon Spalding Moor:

+	18	i.	Jane[5] Crosby abt 1634.
+	19	ii.	Prudence Crosby abt 1636.
	20	iii.	Katherine Crosby[31] was interred there 2 May 1640.

16. William[4] Crosby (Thomas[3], Anthony[2], Thomas[1])[32] was born in Holme Upon Spalding Moor, York Co, England abt 1606 and died there abt 1640. He married Anne Wright in Seaton, York Co. She died 22 June 1636 in Holme Upon Spalding Moor.[33]

William Crosby and Anne Wright had the following children:

	21	ii.	Thomas Crosby[34] baptized in Seaton 18 December 1633 and died there 2 days later.
+	22	i.	Dr. Anthony Crosby baptized 5 October 1635.

17. Simon[4] Crosby (Thomas[3], Anthony[2], Thomas[1])[35] was born in Holme Upon Spalding Moor, York Co., England abt 1608 and died in September 1639 in Cambridge Middlesex Co., Mass., at 31 years of age.

He married Anne Brigham in Holme Upon Spalding Moor 21 April 1634. Anne,[36] daughter of Thomas Brigham and Isabel Watson, was born in Holme Upon Spalding Moor abt 1606 and died 11 October 1675 in Braintree, Norfolk Co., Mass., at 69 years of age. She married (2) Rev. William Tompson in Braintree bef October 1645. Ann was the administrator of her father's estate in March 1632/33 and was bequeathed five shillings in her mother's will dated 8 June 1674. She apparently received her share of her parents' estate when she married Simon.[37]

Anne didn't settle Simon's estate until six years after his death. In 1645, then married to Rev. Tompson, she petitioned the General Court for power to have it inventoried, administered, and distributed, pledging that the children would receive their "portions according as they were agreed by the Reverend Mr. Shepard & Elders & Deacons of Cambridge . . . or as the Court shall think meet." The Court required her to post "good security to pay the children's portions" and she agreed (on the 21 of the 7th month) with the Elders and Deacons of the Cambridge Church that her sons would receive the following: "Thomas, the eldest, 70 li, Simon 50 li, Joseph 50 li to be paid at age 20."[38] If Thomas attended Harvard and the cost was "to heavy for the parents to bear" 20 li of his portion was to be used "for his learning." Rev. Tompson, gave "leave to Anne to dispose of £30 of her estate as she herself pleaseth."[39] Joseph Jewett of Rowley was engaged as agent to dispose of the various parcels of land.[40] Rev. Cotton Mather characterized Rev. Tompson as a "very powerful and successful preacher" and Tompson collaborated with Rev. Richard Mather in the publication of several books. Tompson was afflicted with melancholia the last seven years of his life and Richard Mather said, "He fell into the bath of the Devil, a black melancholy, which for divers years almost wholly disabled him for the exercise of his ministry . . . but the pastors and the faithful of the churches in the neighborhood kept resisting the Devil in his cruel assaults upon Mr. Tompson by continually drawing near to God with ardent supplications on his behalf: and by praying always, without fainting, without ceasing, they saw the Devil at length flee from him, and God himself draw unto him, with unutterable joy. The end of that man was peace."[41] Anne final years as a widow were difficult financially because of her husband's long period of derangement.

The first known reference to Simon in England identifies him as a legatee of William Sotheron, his grandfather. The grandfather's will, dated 2 December 1616, includes a bequeath of 10 shilling for Simon. He was bequeathed 13 pounds, six shilling, eight pence by his grandmother Constance Sotheron in her will dated 14 November 1622.[42] He and his father Thomas borrowed £400 by mortgaging five messuages in Holme Upon Spaulding Moor on 17 September 1632. They transferred the mortgage to Sir Marmaduke Langdale and Richard Meadley on 24 March 1633/34. The deed from the Crosby's to Langdale and Meadley with Thomas' and Simon's signatures is still preserved at Holme. About a year later Simon left for New England.

As the first Crosby in New England, he has always been identified as "Simon Crosby the Emigrant." Along with Anne and 8-week-old son Thomas, he left London 18 April 1635 on the Susan and Ellen and arrived in Boston in July. A manuscript in the Public Record offices in London includes the three Crosbys on the list of its passengers. They presented Certificates from their local Minister and Justice of the Peace attesting that "they are no subsedy men; & are comformable to ye orders & discipline of the Church of England." According to the Proprietors' records of Cambridge, he bought a homestead with house and three acres from William Spencer and several other parcels from other sellers who were leaving to establish a new settlement in Connecticut. He took the freeman's oath 3 March 1635/36 and thus qualified for full citizenship rights.[43] He was elected Selectman 7 November 1636 and again 1637 and was Constable and Surveyor of Highway in 1637. He only lived in New England for four years, dying in September 1638 at age 30. His estate was appraised at 444 pounds 4 shillings 4 pence, large for a man of his age at that time. The estate was not settled until 1645.

Simon Crosby and Anne Brigham had the following children:

\+ 23 i. Thomas[5] Crosby.

\+ 24 ii. Simon Crosby born August 1637.

25 iii. Joseph Crosby[44] born in Cambridge, Mass. in February 1638/39 and died 26 November 1695 in Braintree, at 56 years of age. He was raised by his mother and stepfather Rev. William Tompson. He was a Trooper under Capt. Thomas Prentice and quartermaster under Thomas Swift in King Philip's War, 1675-77.[45] He took the freeman's oath 30 May 1690 and served the citizens of Braintree in many capacities: Selectman, Constable, and as a member of the Convention to form a Provisional Government following Gov. Andros' removal.[46]

FIFTH GENERATION

18. Jane[5] Crosby (Thomas[4], Thomas[3], Anthony[2], Thomas[1])[47] was born in Holme Upon Spalding Moor, York Co., England abt 1634 and died 20 May 1703 in Pocklington, York Co., England, at 68 years of age. She married Jasper Belt in Holme Upon Spalding Moor 11 January 1654/55.

Jane Crosby and Jasper Belt had the following children born in Pocklington:

27 ii. Sarah Belt[49] abt 1659 and married her cousin William Bower Jr. of Bridlington, York Co. He was the son of William Bower and Prudence Crosby.

22. Dr. Anthony[5] Crosby (William[4], Thomas[3], Anthony[2], Thomas[1])[53] was baptized in Holme Upon Spalding Moor, York Co, England 5 October 1635 and was buried 16 January 1672/73 in Rowley, Essex Co., Mass. He married Prudence Wade in Rowley 28 December 1659.[54] Prudence, daughter of Jonathan Wade and Susanna (__),[55] was born in Ipswich, Essex Co., Mass. abt 1638 and died 1 September 1711 in Watertown, Middlesex Co., Mass., at 73 years of age. She married (2) Rev. Seaborn Cotton 9 July 1673 and (3) Lt. John Hammond in 1689. The earliest mention of Anthony in New England was in 1651 when he was 16 and the town of Rowley paid him and John Trumble "for going with hogs to the neck."[56] He studied medicine and practiced in Rowley and the surrounding towns. When he returned to England abt 1662 to attend to his inheritance, he appointed Robert Lord, Sr. of Ipswich his attorney to complete a property exchange with John Pickard of Rowley. In the exchange, Anthony gave up the 37-acre Manning farm in Rowley for 700 acres of village land, upland and meadow, and 20 bushels of wheat.[57] He was back in Rowley by 6 May 1663 when he acknowledged some deeds at Salem before William Hathorne, Assistant.[58] His age is confirmed in a deposition on 27 March 1660 as "about 23" and on 28 November 1671 as "aged about 35 years."[59] He died intestate and his estate was inventoried with a net value of 380 pounds 3 shillings 3 pence.[60]

Dr. Anthony Crosby and Prudence Wade had the following children born in Rowley:

+	30	i.	Thomas[6] Crosby 4 March 1660/61.

Thomas was graduated from Harvard College in 1653 and began preaching in Eastham, Barnstable Co., Mass. in 1655. Although never ordained or settled as pastor, he continued as the Minister until 1670. Later he became a merchant at Harwich, Barnstable Co. He died while on a business trip to Boston. His estate was inventoried at 1,091 pounds, 16 shillings. Deducting debts of 717 pounds 16 shillings, his heirs divided 374 pounds among themselves.[70] His descendants lived on Cape Cod for many years and about 1780 some of them settled at Yarmouth, Nova Scotia.

He married Rachel Bracket in Braintree, Norfolk Co., Mass. 15 July 1659. Rachel,[84] daughter of Dea. Richard Bracket and Alice (__), was born in Boston, Suffolk Co., Mass. 3 November 1639 and died aft 1726 in Billerica. Simon was two when his father died and he was raised by his mother and grandfather, Thomas Crosby in Newtowne, now Cambridge, until 1645 when his mother married Rev. William Tompson and moved to Braintree where Tompson was the Minister. Simon and Rachel remained in Braintree for approximately a year before moving with their daughter Rachel to Billerica. Billerica takes its name from Billericay, Essex Co., England, home of some of Billerica's earliest settlers. Page references from Rev. Henry Hazen's book on the history, including a genealogical register, of Billerica[85] will be in parentheses from here forward. The Crosbys were in Billerica by 1660 and lived on the north side of Bare Hill (25) where he built a log home and cleared some of his 3.5 acres to plant crops. Over the next 15 years he received several grants of land from the town, gradually expanding his farm operation [76-9]. He was appointed to the Committee to Lay Out Land on 9 December 1663 and gradually took on greater public responsibilities. He was appointed Constable on 28 January 1664 (again in 1677-78), Deputy to the General Court in 1690, '91, '97, and '98. He served 28 years as Selectman from 1671-'99 and again in 1701. Over the years he also served as Surveyor of Highways, on a Committee to run a line between Billerica and Chelmsford, on the Committee for gratuities on land, on the Grand Jury, as Commissioner for County Rates, on the Committee to examine the town accounts, Tithingman, Assessor, and Surveyor of Fences and Highways [80-81, 85].

He was first granted a license to keep "a house of public entertainment" on 27 November 1672 and from then on up to 1693 he was referred to in the public records as "landlord." Heretofore, he was known as "Mister." The license was issued annually at a cost of £20. Typical license terms: he could sell wine, beer, ale, cider, rum, brandy, and other liquors but could not allow playing at cards, dice, tables, bowls, billiards, nine pins, or any other unlawful game; no person other than a member of his family could be on the premises after dark on Saturday, on the Sabbath, or other times of God's public worship, and no one was to be "tipling or drinking" after 9 p.m. Any stranger who remained in excess of 48 hours was to be reported to a Selectman or the Constable. He could not sell wine or liquor to Indians or Negroes. He was not to buy "or take to pawn" any stolen goods "nor willingly or knowingly harbor in his house or barn or stable . . . any rogues, vagabonds, thieves, sturdy beggars, or masterless men or women, or other notorious offenders whatsoever." He was not to serve people of "idle conversation and given to tipling." He was to keep a "true assize & measure in his pots, bread, and otherwise in uttering of wine, beer, ale, cider, rum, brandy, or other liquors and . . . sell by sealed measure . . . maintain good order and rule . . . [offer] at least two beds for entertainment of strangers & travellers." [82-4].

He signed his will 7 June 1717 and named sons Thomas and Josiah as executors. His wife, all his children, and some grandchildren were included. To Rachel: the whole use & improvement of my dwelling house and all the rooms therein, and all the utensils & bedding to be at her disposal during her natural life . . . and the use of three gardens and the yard, & the house belonging to the yard and out of the orchard what fruit & cider may be needful, & a sufficiency to provide a maid or a nurse, according to her necessity, and the use of a horse to carry her to meeting, or when she hath occasion to ride forth, and her choice of two cows to be constantly provided for winter & summers and six sheep to be kept & maintained by my executors so long as they shall see reason to keep sheep for themselves, and if they keep no sheep I order that they provide for their mother annually 12 pounds of merchantable wool. I, give unto my loving wife, what swine I have to be at her dispose, and grant her liberty for the future to raise what may be for her use; and a continual supply of corn & meal and malt & firewood for her comfortable subsistence at all times, and further I do order my executors to pay unto my dear wife six pounds in money annually during her natural life.

To: Eldest son Simon: I have alaready given him his double portion in my estate in full by a deed of gift of lands & meadows.

To: The rest of my sons, each 80 pounds, to my daughters, each 60 pounds, accounting what each of them have had as part of their portions. Thomas has received of me in our way of trade 20 pounds. Joseph has received in land and help about building 20 pounds. Josiah has received in part of his portion in land 30 pounds. Nathan has received in part of his portion 20 pounds in land and meadow.

Daughter Rachel, wife of Ephraim Kidder, has received 50 pounds in the sale of that land I sold unto my son-in-law Ephraim and 10 pounds besides which she is to receive. Daughter Hannah, wife of Samuel Danforth, has received 16 pounds. Daughter Mary, wife of John Blanchard, has received 15 pounds in his purchase and 15 pounds in household stuff, in part of her portion 30 pounds. Daughter Sarah, wife of William Rawson of Braintree, has received in part of her portion 58 pounds in household stuff, cattle, and money. To grandson John Crosby 15 pounds and to granddaughter Rachel Danforth 10 pounds. His estate was appraised 18 March 1724/25 at 761 pounds for 377 acres of land and buildings and 8 pounds 13 shillings for personal property [85-8]. He was buried in the Old South Burying-ground about a mile from the town center of Billerica. [85-9.]

He married Sarah French there 6 May 1691. Sarah,[116] daughter of Lt. William French and Mary Lothrop, was born in Billerica 29 October 1671 and died there probably between 8 July 1727 when she released some dower in land[117] and 29 December 1727 when Joseph deeds land to their daughter Hannah Watts. She did not sign the deed.[118]

A review of Middlesex Co. deeds shows Joseph dealt extensively in real estate from 1707 to 1728. He was named Constable in 1695/96 and in 1712 was granted a place to build a pew in the Meeting House. Nine years after the death of his wife, he petitioned the Court at Cambridge to have his children care for him. The petition, dated 31 August 1736: The petitioner is aged 68 years or upward, and has for some time past been unable to support himself by business of any sort. That he has five sons now living, viz: David of Shrewsbury, Joseph of Worcester, both of the county of Worcester; William and Thomas, both of the town of Billerica, and Robert of Northtown, all living in the county of Middlesex: has also six daughters now living, viz: Sarah, the wife of Ephraim Abbot of Andover, in the county of Essex; Rachel, the wife of Thomas Wyman of Billerica; Mary, the wife of Eleazer Ellis of Dedham; Prudence, the wife of Jeremiah Fisher of Needham, both in the county of Suffolk; Deborah, the wife of Peter Russell of Andover, and Hannah, the wife of (__) Watts of Boston, to and amongst whom to set them well forth in the world the petitioner has distributed his lands and estate to the value of several thousand of pounds as he accounts, not reserving to himself anything competent for his subsistence, nor being able to do it by his own work and labor; and therefore praying this Court would take the premises into their consideration and to direct that the petitioner may be maintained and relieved by his respective children or their husbands (being of sufficient ability), as the Province Law therein directs and that they may be respectively assessed thereto as the Court in their great wisdom shall see meet, and in order thereto that they be properly cited to appear before this Court to answer the premises, etc. How the petition was resolved is unknown. He may have moved to Worcester to live with the family of his eldest son Joseph as a death record of a Joseph Crosby there corresponded to the age he would have been. It is apparent he had died before 23 December 1737 because his name did not appear with those of his brothers who on that date petitioned for a distribution of their father's estate.

His entry on the first of February noted he "warmly inveighed against the liberty allowed to young people." On the 16th, he went to Shrewsbury to see Sarah's mother who had not given her consent to the marriage. She said she had only given Robert Cook "leave to court her daughter." She was less upset after her new son-in-law asked her pardon "as to anything he had offended her in." Parkman was back in Shrewsbury on 14 March to talk to Sarah's father about the conduct of the newlyweds. He said "their conduct was a concern of the Westborough church for many months" and they were "under the frowns of our church."[217]

Ellis Co, 1914, 9-12 (hereafter Simon Crosby, Descendants). Eleanor Davis Crosby credited J. Gardner Bartlett for most of the research for her book. Simon, grandson of Thomas, was the first Crosby to come to New England. Eleanor begins the Crosby lineage with John, born about 1440, and his son Miles, born about 1483. While admitting that "a great deal of uncertainty surrounds the absolute connection of the first two generations," she believed that the "preponderance of probability" supported the links she set forth. This genealogy does not include John and Miles. It begins the lineage with Thomas Crosby and his wife Jannett Bell. Readers interested in the first two generations are referred to pages 1-8 in Eleanor's book. This author began his search for the Crosby family on a visit to York and Holme Upon Spaulding Moor in 1998.

15. For over five centuries land in England was conveyed by "Fine," a process where the grantee (plaintiff) brought a friendly lawsuit against the grantor (deforciant) for the premises to be conveyed. The deforciant acknowledged the right of the plaintiff to the premises for a consideration and the record of the suit was enrolled in Court Archives called "Fleet of Fines," the Fine being the Court fees. The document whereby Anthony acquired his property reads as follows: Final Concord made in the Queens Court at Hartford Castle on the morrow of All Saints, 34 Elizabeth (2 Nov. 1592) between Anthony Crosby, plaintiff, and Thomas Lambert and his wife Jane, Francis Lambert, Philip Lambert, John Lambert, and George Lambert, deforciants, of one messuage, one toft (ruined building), one garden, 60 acres of arable land, 30 acres of meadow, 10 acres of pasture, and Commons Right in pasture for all beasts, with all appurtenances, in Holme in Spaldyngmore, of which by Plea of Covenant the said Thomas, Jane, Francis, Philip, John, and George recognize the aforesaid premises to be the right of said Anthony, and they remise, quit claim, and warrant for themselves and their heirs to the said Anthony and his heirs against themselves and their heirs forever. For which acknowledgment, quit claim, warranty, etc. the said Anthony gave the said Thomas, Jane, Francis, Philip, John, and George 40 pounds sterling. GEORGE WEST CA 1720 TO SUSAN ELAINE AND SANDRA LYNN WEST 1946–

(West lineage of Susan Elaine and Sandra Lynn West. See Generation 12., No. 6206, Ellen Elaine Whipple West.)

FIRST GENERATION

1. George[1] West,[1] son of Thomas West, birth date unknown.

George West had the following child:

\+ 2 i. Elijah[2] West.

SECOND GENERATION

2. Elijah[2] West (George[1])[1] birth date unknown. Elijah died abt 1788 in Delaware. He married Mary Williams abt 1755. Elijah was an English sailor until about age 30 when he left the sea to settle in either Kentucky or the Carolinas. He and Mary had a daughter and four sons.

Elijah West and Mary Williams had the following child:

\+ 3 i. Eli[3] West born abt 1781.

THIRD GENERATION

3. Eli[3] West (Elijah[2], George[1])[2] was born in Delaware abt 1781 and died in 1852 in Miami Co., Indiana, at 71 years of age. He married Sarah (Guffin) Row in Brachen Co., Kentucky 4 January 1805. Sarah,[3] daughter of George Guffin and Mary Lang, was born in Virginia 23 October 1780 and died 5 October 1867 in Fayette Co., Ohio, at 86 years of age. The family probably descends from the eighteenth century McGuffin family of Newbry in Northern Ireland. Three sons and one daughter migrated to America in the early 1700s and are the progenitors of most Guffins in America.[4] Eli was lame and taught school near Lexington, Fayette Co., Kentucky. The family moved to Adams County, Ohio about 1810 and six years later to Fayette County Ohio where other members of Eli's family lived. They eventually moved to Indiana. They had three daughters and four sons.

Eli West and Sarah (Guffin) Row had the following child:

\+ 4 i. Wesley[4] West born 10 October 1808.

FOURTH GENERATION

4. Wesley[4] West (Eli[3], Elijah[2], George[1])[5] was born in Lexington, Fayette Co., Kentucky 10 October 1808 and died 13 May 1894 in Mt. Vernon, Linn Co., Iowa, at 85 years of age. He married Polly Ann McKay in Ohio, 14 November 1835. Polly,[6] daughter of Isaac McKay and Sallie Pavey, was born in Fayette Co., Ohio 11 September 1821 and died 3 October 1913 in Mt. Vernon, at 92 years of age. She was one of 10 children. The Pavey family originated in Normandy and the first Paveys to settle in the American colonies moved to New Hampshire the last decade of the 1600s.[7] The McKay family originated in Scotland and in 1854, Wesley, with two of his brothers and others interested in following the frontier, went to Iowa to determine the benefits of a move there. Wesley and Polly owned two "forest farms" in Ohio. Eleven of their 13 children were born there and three died there. Polly wanted her children to be educated and was not keen to move to "the wilds of Iowa" until Wesley convinced her that educational opportunities were available at the newly founded "college on the hill" (Cornell College) in Mount Vernon. He purchased 90 acres at the edge of town and the family moved in 1859. At least 90 of their descendants have attended Cornell College. The family has funded two scholarships and Merle West, a grandson of Wesley and Polly, gave a million dollars to the college in 1976 for a science building named the Merle S. Andre and Charlotte lived together for a number of years before their marriage was solemnized by the Catholic Church. The record of their marriage performed by Father Mennard is as follows:

"The twenty-third May, 1779, I, the undersigned pastor of St. Joseph de Chambly, heard the confession and gave communion to the man named Andre Scot of Irish nationality, native of Slagai (Sligo), son of Jean Scot and of Marie Cracheten, his father and mother of the said Parish of Slagai in Ireland and Charlotte Serre dit St. Jean [see endnote 17 in the Hamel family for definition of dit], widow of first nuptials with Michel Barthelot of the Parish of Montreal, and on the same day, by a specific and special directive from Monsieur Montgolfier, Vicar General of the Diocese of Québec, without publication of any bann, I received the mutual consent of marriage of the said Andre Scot and of the said Charlotte Serre dit St. Jean, presently living in the Seigneury (see endnote 11 in the Hamel family for definition of Seigneury) of M. de Labruaire, Parish of Longueuil, and gave them the nuptial blessing following the rite prescribed by our holy mother the church in the presence of Francois Petrimoulx, Captain of the Militia, Jean Pairaut, and Charles Genest, residents of this Parish, who all signed with us, the spouses having declared themselves unable to sign, and in view of the fact, before their marriage, the said spouses had children together, of whom three are still living, namely Andre (age 20), Joseph, and Charlotte, whom they have acknowledged and do acknowledge in the present company and in the presence of the said witnesses as being their own children and their legitimate heirs in the future. At Chambly the day, month, and year stated. Signed Francois Petrimoulx, Jean Pairaut, Charles Genest, Mennard, Priest."[6]

(2) Lucie Truchon (also Lucie Truchon dit Leveille) in Longueuil, Québec Province 10 May 1790. Andre was described as husband of Lucie Leveille at his death. Lucie[7] was the daughter of Joseph Truchon and Marie Denoyon. Both her parents were dead when she married Andre. The 6 May 1790 Marriage Contract to Lucie stated Andre lived in the Seiniory of Montarville and was the widower of deceased Charlotte Serre. Advising him on the Contract were his son Andre and friends Francois Treant and Joseph Lacombe. The bride was identified as Lucie Truchon de Leveille and defunct Marie Denoyon. She was advised by her sisters Marie Catherine Truchon and Marie Louise Truchon, and her brother-in-law Jean de Thiriagne. The Contract provided that the "future married couple" would openly disclose all their personal property, house and land, and any acquired after the marriage and to treat it like "the customs of Paris, followed in the Province of Québec," i.e. as community property except property and revenue valued at 350 pounds sterling and two coppers or shillings, old rate of exchange brought to the union by Lucie. They agreed that any debt at the time of the marriage was the responsibility of the one who incurred it. The Contract described Andre as an "elderly man" with "weakness" and he agreed to bestow and reward his future wife "for labors and for her full attentions during their life" all of his property, then valued at 900 pounds sterling, old rate of exchange, after his death. The Contract was read aloud and signed in the Notary's Chambers (Maitre S. Racicot, Notary) at Poncherville Borough, Montreal "in front of witnesses who signed and the future couple and others appearing who did not know to sign." Andre and Lucie each signed with an X. Notary Racicot and Joseph Lacombe signed as witnesses. Andre and Lucie were married 22 years. He was buried 10 July 1812, age 99, at Chambly.[8]

Andrew Scott and Charlotte Serre had the following children:

+	3	i.	Andre[3] Scott born abt 1759.
	4	ii.	Joseph Scott[9] born in Longueuil, Québec Province, Canada. Living in Chambly, Québec in 1786.
	5	iii.	Charlotte Scott[10] born in Longueuil.

THIRD GENERATION

3. Andre[3] Scott (Andrew[2], Jean[1])[11] was born in Longueuil, Québec Province, Canada abt 1759 and was buried 25 September 1839 in Chambly, Québec. He married Marie Ursule Trahan in Chambly 26 April 1786.[12] Andre and Marie entered into a "wedding treaty and agreement" (Marriage Contract) 22 April 1786 in the presence of his parents, Andre Sr. and Charlotte Sere of Longueiul Parish, his brother Joseph, and friends Mr. Baptiste Papinau and Mr. Nicolas Patinaut. Marie was identified as the daughter of Francois Trahan and Marie Ursule Godreau of Chambly. In addition to her parents, she was represented by her cousin Mr. Francois Ainsi and Mr. Jean-Marie Vincelet, a friend. The wedding was to take place as soon as "one party will request the other." The agreement provided that debts incurred before the marriage would be the sole obligation of the one incurring the debt and that all property acquired after the marriage will be community property. Andre agreed to give Marie 300 pounds sterling or shillings and 20 copper coin, old rate exchange as a marriage settlement. The survivor of the marriage was to receive a "preference share" of 150 shillings and 20 coppers, old rate of exchange, and "linen, wearing apparels and furnished bed ... before the transition of the community part." The preference share was to be available for the survivor to bring to a future wedding. The contract was entered into at Chambly at the Notary Chambers of J. B. Grise. The contracting couple and most of the witnesses signed with an X. The St. Joseph de Chambly Church records identify Andre "as a day laborer of this Parish" at the time of his death.[13]

Andre Scott and Marie Ursule Trahan had the following children born in Chambly, Québec, Canada:

+	6	i.	Andre[4] Scott.
	7	ii.	Charles Scott[14] in 1812 and died 15 January 1815 in Chambly at 2 years of age.

6. Andre[4] Scott (Andre[3], Andrew[2], Jean[1])[15] was born in Chambly, Québec, Canada and married Sophie Demers in Québec Province, 5 October 1812. Sophie[16] was the daughter of Joseph Demers and Marie Larreau.

Andre Scott and Sophie Demers had the following children: born in Chambly:

	8	i.	Andre[5] Scott[17] baptized 3 August 1813 in St. Joseph de Chambly Catholic church and died there 27 January 1814.
+	9	ii.	Joseph Scott in 1815.

9. Joseph[5] Scott (Andre[4], Andre[3], Andrew[2], Jean[1])[18] was born in Chambly, Québec, Canada in 1815, maybe 1821 according to the Certificate of Death which stated he was 51 at time of death. The death record also confirmed his place of birth and his parent's place of birth as being Canada. He died 17 May 1872 of dysentery in Corcoran, Hennepin Co., Minnesota, at 56 years of age. He married Philomene (Florin) Trudeau in Chambly 12 January 1841. Flevia,[19] daughter of Toussaint Trudeau and Marie Monty, was born in Chambly in 1821 and died 15 October 1906 in Corcoran, at 85 years of age. She is buried at Corcoran's Ste Jesnne de Chantal Cemetery. She married (2) Prisque Noel. (3) Joseph Menard, both in Hennepin Co., Minnesota. The Scott family emigrated to Illinois by 1850 (daughter Elizabeth was born in Illinois in 1850) and then to Minnesota near Minneapolis. It is not known where or how long the family lived in Illinois but they were among the first settlers to arrive in Corcoran, Minnesota in 1855. Corcoran is in the northwestern part of Hennepin County bounded on the north by Hassan, on the east by Maple Grove, on the south by Medina, and on the west by Greenwood, all in Hennepin County. By section lines, it is 12 miles west of Minneapolis and five miles north. Benjamin Punder, the first settler, also arrived in 1855 as did R.B. Corcoran and on 11 May 1858, at a meeting in Corcoran's house, the town was organized and by common consent took his name. The area was entirely agricultural with no village or large settlement and no thoroughfare other than the State and town roads. The timber was gradually cut and comfortable farm houses replaced settler's cabins. In 1895 the population of a little over 1,000 lived on nearly 200 farms. There were nine school districts, two post offices, Corcoran and Dupont, two stores, and four churches: St. Thomas Catholic Church, St. John's French Catholic Church, German Evangelical Assn., and Lutheran.[20] In 1855 the family included Joseph, 40, Flevia, 35, Joseph, Jr, 13, Didas, 11, Sedaly, 9, Matilda, 8, and Elizabeth, 5; all born in Canada except Elizabeth. Joseph acquired a 120-acre farm in Section 29 and began his farming career. The land was heavily timbered with maple, oak, elm, and linden. Interspersed among the timber were low lands of natural meadow. The topsoil was heavy, black loam and produced grain, Indian corn, potatoes, hay, small fruits, and vegetables. The farm was valued at $960 in 1869 and included 25 improved, 55 unimproved, and 40 woodland acres. Personal property was valued at $421 and livestock at $366. The livestock included two horses, four milk cows, two other cattle, four sheep, and three swine. Their machinery was valued at $85. The value of their farm production that year was estimated as $430: 16 pounds of wool, 150 pounds of butter, 900 pounds of maple sugar, seven gallons of molasses, 10 tons of hay, 150 bushels of spring wheat, 200 bushels of oats, 100 bushels of Indian corn, and one bushel of peas and beans. They sold $20 worth of forest products and slaughtered farm animals worth $40. According to the 1870 U.S. Minnesota census, Joseph, Joseph, Jr., and Didace had become U.S. citizens but Flevia had not. Joseph and Flevia were recorded as "unable to read or write." Didace worked as a farm hand for his father and at the time of Joseph's death of dysentry 17 May 1872, the farm passed to him. Joseph, Jr. had previously acquired and was farming the adjacent 120 acres. The census of 1880 and 1900 show that Flevia was living with Didace and his family.

The place of death may have been Osseo, Hennepin Co., Minnesota. He married Celina Gervais in Corcoran 11 November 1867. Celina,[27] daughter of Louis Pierre Gervais and Mary Trembley, was born in Champlain, Clinton, Co., N.Y. in August 1849 and died 20 October 1925 in Corcoran, at 76 years of age.

Angeline,[41] daughter of Lange Charles Hamel and Eugenie Moffett, was born in St. Eloi, Québec, Canada 18 March 1852 and died 2 May 1915 of cancer of the rectum in Corcoran, at 63 years of age. Didace began farming at Corcoran in 1855 and was remembered by contemporaries as a successful farmer, a gregarious, friendly fellow, quick to tell a story, and a good neighbor. French was his native tongue and he did not speak English and could not read or write. In 1873, at 28 and with a wife and three children to support, he had to cope with the financial panic of that year as well as with a severe blizzard. While still reeling from those two setbacks, he was faced with the grasshopper plagues of 1874 and 1876. He, Angeline, and his mother Flevia are buried in the French Corcoran Cemetery (Ste. Jesnne de Chantal). A large tombstone marks their grave.

The author and his uncle Leonard Scott of Minneapolis visited the Cemetery in 1971 and while standing at the Scott grave were approached by a gentleman in his 80s who wanted to know if we knew Didace. When we explained our relationship, he volunteered that he had known Didace well, that he was a fine friend and neighbor, and held in high regard in the Corcoran community. He gave directions to the old Scott homestead and the farmers living there gave the author large photographs of Didace and Angeline which had been stored in the farm house attic for years.

and died 11 September 1963 in Hamel, Hennepin Co., Minnesota, at 83 years of age. He married Mary Pouliot. Both are buried in Hamel's St. Anne Catholic Cemetery. They had four children.

John Scott and Mary Pouliot had the following child:

45 i. Donald[8] Scott.[57]

36. Benoni[7] Scott (Didace (Didas)[6], Joseph[5], Andre[4], Andre[3], Andrew[2], Jean[1])[58] was born in Corcoran, Hennepin Co., Minnesota 25 September 1882 and died 8 January 1935 in Minot, Ward Co., North Dakota, at 52 years of age. He married Ellen "Nellie" Dolan in Hamel, Hennepin, Co., Minnesota 25 June 1903. Nellie,[59] daughter of Thomas Dolan and Julia Darmody, was born in Maple Grove, Hennepin Co., Minnesota 27 August 1884 and died 2 June 1953 in Underwood, McLean Co., North Dakota, at 68 years of age.[60] She was born on a farm near Maple Grove, the eldest of seven children and named Ellen after her grandmother Ellen Darmody but was always called Nellie. Her mother died in childbirth 34 days before Nellie's 15th birthday and the role of care-giver to the other children fell to her. Her formal schooling also ended. She was 5' 4" with smiling blue eyes, a light complexion, and black hair usually worn up-swept from the face, short at the sides, and pug at the back. She was 20 when her first child was born, 41 when the fourteenth and last was born and was the major family influence in the lives of her 12 surviving children. Four of her sons served during WWII, amassing a total of 17 years in uniform. About half their time was overseas in such hot spots as London during the fire bombing, North Africa, Italy, France, Germany, and on convoy duty in the North Atlantic.

She was a renowned cook and baker and the family always had several extra at Sunday dinner. She was everybody's "good neighbor," always available to help families in time of sickness. She served as a midwife and prepared the dead for burial when the family lived in Douglas, Ward Co. North Dakota. She baked bread for the Douglas Hotel during WWI, did the washing for farm worker transits, as well as washing for some of the townspeople. Water for washing was hauled from the neighbor's well and heated on the cook stove. The family had a cistern which was filled with snow in the winter and rain in the spring and summer. She had her share of pain and suffered terribly from gallstone attacks most of her adult life. She also had diabetes, a thyroid problem, and glaucoma, eventually loosing the sight of one eye. She died of an apparent heart attack early in the morning. Her funeral was held in Minneapolis and she was buried in Block 9, Lot 22, Grave 3, St. Anne Catholic Cemetery in Hamel with all of her children in attendance at her graveside. dren, was born on the family farm at Corcoran and worked there during his youth. It is believed his schooling ended after the sixth grade. He left farm work to become a clerk in his uncle Hector's General Store in Hamel. He was 5' 6", broad shouldered, and deep chested. He weighed approximately 160 pounds, had grey eyes, reddish hair, and a rudy complexion. He walked with a limp most of his adult life because a broken leg was improperly set. He left clerking to join the Soo Railroad Line which ran through Hamel starting as a laborer and worked his way up to section boss. He was transferred from Hamel to Logan in 1910, later to Drake McHenry Co., and finally to Douglas, Ward Co., all in North Dakota. He earned the respect of his crew of Armenians because he worked harder than any of them. While small, he had tremendous strength and could carry a railroad tie single-handedly and drive spikes with the best of them. An accomplished shot with rifle, shotgun, and revolver, he supplemented the family larder with geese, pheasant, prairie chicken, and rabbit. His oldest son Leonard often wondered why the kids didn't all become jumpy since they ate so many jackrabbits and prairie chicken. In the summer he and some of his sons made beer in the cellar and he had a still in the bunk house in Douglas where the section laborers lived. Unlike the average per-

FORT CHAMBLY, QUÉBEC PROVINCE, CANADA

Chambly in Québec Province of Canada was home of Fort Chambly and the Scott families before they moved to the United States. It is about 50 miles northeast of Montreal. The Fort was built in 1665 below the rapids of the Richelieu river and the area was governed by Three Rivers until 1690 when it came under the jurisdiction of Montreal. Its territory was immense and throughout the years various Parishes were carved from it. Made of wood, the Fort was 144 feet square with 15 foot high palisades. It housed a shed, barracks, a chapel, and the commander's quarters. After 1670 it doubled as a trading post, became an important center for the fur trade, and by 1681 17 families numbering 81 individuals settled around it. It was rebuilt of stone and completed in September 1711.

The Americans captured the Fort in 1775 and abandoned it in June 1776. British General John Burgoyne assembled his Army of 7,000 at the Fort prior to his invasion of the American colonies in June 1777. His Army was defeated at Saratoga, N. Y. in October, a battle generally considered the turning point of the American Revolutionary War. French patriots from Boucherville, Longueuil, and Chambly attempted a minor rebellion against the British in 1837-38. Included among the active patriots were Pierre, Joseph, and Michel Trudeau. Troops were gradually withdrawn beginning in 1847 and the Fort abandoned in 1854. It was transferred to the Government of Canada in 1856 which eventually designated it a National Park and restored the Fort.

Emigration of French-Canadians to the United States increased from about 1840—when the Scott and Hamel families left—to the beginning of the twentieth century. By the middle of the nineteenth century, other than Montreal and Québec, the the Province was agricultural and nine out of ten French-Canadians lived in this rural environment. The family farm was the basic unit of production and oriented toward self sufficiency. Wheat was the major cash crop and the success or failure of its harvest largely determined the prosperity of artisans, mechanics, and small businessmen employed in villages where mills were located. Peas and potatoes were major items in the diet.

However, the farmer was not an efficient cultivator and productivity was low. He tilled the soil, planted, and harvested according to age-old custom and stubbornly resisted change. He did not use manure or any other fertilizer, kept turning the same topsoil with a shallow plow, sowed unclean and unimproved seed, allowed weeds to grow everywhere, and knew little about crop rotation. Wheat was planted in the same fields yearly until signs of declining productivity forced the farmer to move to the fallow areas. The farms were also infested with insects and suffered the injurious effects of blight.

As one observer wrote, "deprived for 90 years of all means of improvement, devoid of professional teaching, agriculture in Québec could only end by a degeneration into a deplorable routine."

An equally important basic problem was the lack of education. By 1838 when the Diocese of Québec only had 178 Catholic schools few could read and write. This educational backwardness among a peasant society perpetuated their strong conservatism and resistance to change, even when change was to their benefit. When in 1849 the Québec Parliament studied the relationship between education and agricultural improvement, it determined without education, agriculture would not improve. Unfortunately, it took many decades before education at the primary grade level would be required. As is evident in both the Scott and Hamel families, when signatures were required on records, the priest and/or the Notary who wrote the document found it necessary to add the phrase "ils n'ont su ssigne," meaning they could not write – not even their names.

Simultaneously, land became scarce and increasingly expensive and in the years after 1820, the scarcity of money became even more acute. Under the seigneury system (see endnote 11 in the Hamel family for a definition), absentee landowners did not pay their taxes and ignored their responsibilities toward the construction of roads, bridges, and drains, and authorities seldom repaired roads that were in deplorable condition much of the year. With farms unable to support a growing population and with little capital to purchase tillable land, a crisis developed in the Province. The solution: emigrate.

In the years before the Civil War, French-Canadians in substantial numbers settled in the upper midwest. The Illinois French population increased from nearly 8,000 in 1851 to about 20,000 in 1859. The French population around Detroit may have been larger. Wisconsin and Minnesota attracted a large number. The Scott's spent about a year in Illinois before settling permanently in Minnesota. The Hamel's original destination was Minnesota It was in Minnesota the families joined forces and founded the American branch of the family tree.

FRANCOIS HAMEL ABT 1600
TO PEARL J. SCOTT 1905-1988

(Hamel lineage of Pearl Julia Scott, Generation No. 11, No. 9253, wife of L. Blaine Whipple.)

FIRST GENERATION

1. Francois[1] Hamel[1] was born in Avremesnil, Normandie, France and died there after 3 September 1689.[2] He married an unnamed person there. The first known Hamel is Wautier the First who lived about 1200. He and his descendants were Seigneurs, a Lord and Master in a system of feudal relations. The earliest known of what became the Québec Hamel families lived at Saint-Aubin, Avremesnil (Seine-Inferieure), a small village on the Saane river about 10 miles southwest of Dieppe in the Rouen Diocese in the old Province of Normandie in the north of France). Many documents concerning the family in Avremesnil survive. The Hotel Dieu Register of the Sick indicates Francois suffered from an infirmity in 1689.[3] He was the father of at least four children with son Francois, a farmer at Avremesnil, the likely heir to the family goods. Jean and Charles settled in Nouvelle, France before emigrating to New France.

Francois Hamel had the following children:

+	2	i.	Charles[2] Hamel born abt 1624.
+	3	ii.	Jean Hamel born abt 1634.
	4	iii.	Francois Hamel[4] born in Avremesnil, Normandie, France and remained there where he farmed in the Parish of Saint-Aubin de Avremesnil.
	5	iv.	Anne Hamel[5] born in Avremesnil and died bef 14 May 1671 in France, at approximately 31 years of age. She married Jacques Jullien 3 June 1663. Anne and her husband were members of the "bourgeois" from the Canton of Bacqueville, Dieppe, Dept. of the Seine-Inferieure. The last known communication involving family members is dated 14 May 1671 in the form of an Agreement between Francois and Jacques. Francois was living in Avremesnil and was acting for his brothers Charles and Jean of Québec in the settlement of the inheritance of their deceased sister.[6]

2. Charles[2] Hamel (Francois[1])7 was born in Avremesnil, Normandie, France abt 1624 and died aft 7 September 1711 in Sainte-Foy Québec, Canada, at approximately 87 years of age. He married twice. (1) Judith Auvray in Avremesnil abt 1651. She was born in Normandy. (2) Catherine Lemaistre in Sainte-Jacques, Dieppe, France 19 June 1656. She was born in France abt 1633 and was 23 at the time of marriage. A copy of the Marriage Contract exists in Dieppe.[8] Charles received his first grant of land (60 arpents[9] (partially wooded) in New France along Sainte-Michel road in Sainte-Foy from Rev. Father Jerome Lallement, S.J.[10] in 1662 and added to his holdings another 50 arpents on 24 February 1663. He built, near the King's Road leading to Cap-Rouge, a 44 by 20 foot log house with fireplace, double foyer, and a shingle roof. It was divided lengthwise into three rooms; the end room had three wardrobes. His grants are found on the Government Survey Map of 1685, p. 42. On 25 November 1676, Charles bought a house and small acreage from Mr. Noel Pinguet for his son Charles and lent his son Jean £260 of the "City of Tours" secured by a promissory note. The money was repaid 24 June 1684. He was appointed Expert Appraiser in Sainte-Foy 6 September 1711 when he was well into his 80s. According to the census of 1666 and 1681, he had four head of cattle. His land was in the Seigneury[11] of Sillery which today would be in the suburb of Sainte-Foy. In March of 1677, Charles and Catherine took in Francois Fouquees, age seven-and-a-half, "to help as a domestic servant" in return for "food and lodging." The Bond containing the details of the "adoption" required them to care for Francois as their own child for nine years and to give him "Christian instructions for the good of his soul."

Charles Hamel and Judith Auvray had the following child:

\+ 6 i. Jean[3] Hamel born in 1652.

Charles Hamel and Catherine Lemaistre had the following child:

7 ii. Charles Hamel[12] born in Québec, Canada in 1659 and died in 1728 in Sainte-Foy Québec, at 69 years of age. He married Angelique Levasseur in Sainte-Foy abt 1682. Angelique,[13] daughter of Jean Levasseur and Marguerite Richard, was baptized in Québec 9 June 1661 and was buried 14 May 1740 in Sainte-Foy. Charles attended the Jesuit College and was a regular chorister on the coast Sainte-Michel all his life. He farmed in Ancienne-Lorette. His marriage contract with Angelique is dated 13 January 1682. They had eight sons and six daughters.

3. Jean[2] Hamel (Francois[1])[14] was born in Avremesnil, Normandie, France abt 1634 and died 11 October 1674 in Sainte-Foy Québec, Canada, at 40 years of age. He married Marie Auvray in Avremesnil abt 1656. She was born in France in 1638 and died in 1716 in Sainte-Foy, at 78 years of age. She married (2) Rene Pelletier in Québec Province in 1679.[15] Sisters Marie and Judith Auvray married brothers Jean and Charles Hamel. Judith died before the families moved to Québec in New France. It is believed Jean in the summer of 1656 accompanied by Marie and Charles' 4-year-old son Jean. Before marrying the Auvray sisters, both made sure the women would agree to move to New France. They must have arrived in the fall because Jean signed a lease the day after Christmas 1656 agreeing to work the land of Jean Gloria. Under terms of the lease he could not cut and sell wood but could cut firewood for his own use from "behind the house and nowhere else."

Seven years later on 21 October 1663, he purchased for five Sols (currency equal to 1/20th of a Livre[16]) land on the Sainte-Michel road in Sainte-Foy from Nicholas Gaudry dit[17] Bourbonniere. Payment was due annually on All Saints Day. On 12 February 1664 he acquired additional land from Antoine Duhamel dit Marette Purchase. That winter he built a 30 by 18 foot house and a 60 by 20 foot barn and stable on the farm. After Duhamel's death 20 October 1665, Jean purchased his land from the estate for 500 Livres in gold Pistoles.[18] His farm bordered the MacKay property and the Belmont Cemetery on the west and was identified as Number 111, 112, 113. After his death at age 40 he was buried in Québec Cemetery. The inventory of his estate showed he owned 35 arpents (approximately 30 acres) of tillable land and 16.5 arpents (approximately 14 acres) in preparation; 1 horse, 2 oxen trained for ploughing, 7 cows, 10 pigs, and 12 hens; some wheat, barley, pease, and hay. Four days after his funeral 13 October 1674, Marie gave birth to Francois, their sixth child. On 11 December 1697 she contracted to marry Rene Pelletier, a carpenter.[19] Pelletier raised the children as his own, improved the land left to Marie, and after Marie's death sold the family farm to his stepsons for 3,000 Livres. Marie's estate was inventoried in May 1717.[20]

Approximately 1,600 descendants of Jean and Charles Hamel attended a reunion 18 and 19 July 1981 at Sainte-Foy near Québec. They came from all over North America, France, Arabia, and Japan to walk where their earliest New World ancestors had settled. A plaque commemorating the 325th anniversary of the brothers arrival in New France was unveiled.

Jean Hamel and Marie Auvray had the following children born in Sainte-Foy Québec, Canada:

ROGER DOLAN CA ABT 1810 TO ELLEN "NELLIE" DOLAN 1848-1953

(Dolan lineage of Pearl Julia Scott, Generation 11, No. 9253, wife of L. Blaine Whipple.)

FIRST GENERATION

1. Roger[1] Dolan[1] was born in Ireland and had the following child:

\+ 2 i. Kerian (Keran)[2] Dolan born between 1826-1829.

2. Kerian (Keran)[2] Dolan (Roger[1])[2] was born in County Cork, Ireland probably in 1826 and died 18 September 1907 in Minneapolis, Hennepin Co., Minnesota, at 81 years of age. He married Margaret Rourke abt 1858. She was born 3 December 1839 in either New York state or Rhode Island[3] and died 6 February 1898 in Minnesota, at 58 years of age. Kerian left Ireland for the U.S. from Liverpool, England on the De Witt Clinton arriving at the Port of New York 15 October 1849.[4] The ship manifest of passengers identified him as a 23-year-old farmer. John Dolan, 26, who may be his brother, was listed on the second line below Kieran. If the manifest is correct, Kieran's birth year is 1826. Emigration was a lifesaver for the man or woman able to afford passage to the U.S. or Canada. The London Times "gloated over the Irish exodus, and gleefully announced that in a short time a Celt would be as rare in Ireland as a red Indian on the shores of Manhattan." Of the million Irish who emigrated between 1849-54, only 20 percent sailed directly from Ireland; 75 percent left from Liverpool.[5]

According to his obituary, Kieran died at St. Mary's Hospital in Minneapolis.[6] He had been a resident of Minnesota for more than 40 years and was the father of 14 children, 10 of whom survived him. The author has only been able to identify 11 of the 14. His wife died 10 years previously. The funeral was to take place at the home of his son Thomas at 1514 6th St. N., Minneapolis with internment at St. Anne's Cemetery in Hamel, Hennepin Co. Minnesota. His age was given as 78. If correct, his birth year was 1829. He and Margaret are buried in Block 4, Lot 11, Grave 2 and 5 (Margaret in 5).

When the Dolans left New York is unknown but it was before 1865 since son John was born in Michigan abt 1864. If the information in his obituary is correct, the family was in Minnesota by 1866. On 1 August 1872, a Kerian Dolan was granted a 160-acre homestead in Minnesota by the United States government. It's legal description was "the west half of the southeast quarter and the east half of the southwest quarter of Section 17 in Township 103 of Range 25 in the District of Lands subject to sale at Jackson, Minnesota" according to the official plat of the survey of said land returned to the General Land Office by the Surveyor General.[7] Ulysses S. Grant was President.

The family lived in Walnut Lake Township, Faribault Co. before moving to Plymouth Township in Hennepin Co. Both the 1875 state census and their daughter Mary's birth certificate place them in Walnut Lake. According to the 1895 state census, they moved to Hennepin Co. abt 1876. Plymouth is in the center of the county. The western half of the county was heavily timbered and the eastern portion was mixed prairie meadow and brush land. Antoine LeCount, Plymouth's first settler, had arrived about 23 years earlier.

Kerian (Keran) Dolan and Margaret Rourke had the following children:

+	3	i.	Thomas[3] Dolan born abt 1860.
	4	ii.	Catherine Dolan[8] born in New York State abt 1861.
	5	iii.	Keran Dolan[9] born in New York State abt 1863.
	6	iv.	John Dolan[10] born in Michigan abt 1864. He is buried in Block 4, Lot 11, Grave 6 St. Anne Cemetery, Hamel, Minn.
	7	v.	Margaret Dolan[11] born in Minnesota abt 1869.
	8	vi.	Mary E. Dolan[12] born in Walnut Lake Twp. Faribault Co., Minnesota 13 October 1874.
	9	vii.	Elizabeth Dolan[13] born in Minnesota 31 October 1876 (baptized 26 November by Father Ladriere). Patrick Davery and Bridget Johnson were her Godparents.[14]
	10	viii.	Anna Dolan[15] born in Minnesota 22 December 1878 (baptized 30 December by Father Ladriere). Patrick Darmody and Helen Davery were were Godparents.[16] She died 14 February 1879 in Minnesota, at 1 month 23 days of age[17] and was buried 16 February 1879 in St. Patrick Cemetery, Maple Grove, Hennepin Co., Minnesota.
	11	ix.	Bernard Dolan[18] born in Osseo, Hennepin Co., Minnesota 19 April 1880 (baptized by Father Ladriere). John Davery and Mary Ryan were Godparents.[19] Bernard died in Maple Grove. He married Winifred (__). Bernard and Winifred are buried in St. Patrick Catholic Cemetery.
	12	x.	Sarah Dolan[20] born in Minnesota abt 1883.
	13	xi.	William Dolan[21] born in Minnesota abt 1886.

THIRD GENERATION

3. Thomas[3] Dolan (Kerian (Keran)[2], Roger[1])[22] was born in New York State abt 1860 and died 15 June 1944 in Minneapolis, Hennepin Co., Minnesota, at 82 years of age.[23] He married twice. (1) Julia Darmody in Minnesota 19 November 1883 at St. Vincent de Paul Church in Osseo, Hennepin Co., Minnesota. Witnesses were Philip and Margaret Darmody, siblings of the bride. Father Payette performed the ceremony. Julia,[24] daughter of Patrick Darmody and Ellen Peters, was born in Minnesota 25 February 1862 and died 24 July 1899 in Maple Grove, Hennepin Co., Minnesota, at 37 years of age. She and an unnamed child died in childbirth. (2) Barbara Sweigert in Minnesota. She was born in 1872 and died 13 July 1947 in Minneapolis, at 75 years of age.[25] Buried at St. Patricks Cemetery, Maple Grove, Minnesota.

Tom's New York native town and county are unknown. One grandson believes it was a "Shanty town" near Utica in Oneida Co. When he and Julia were married in in 1883 he began farming in Maple Grove. Their marriage license disclosed that he could not write as he signed the document with an X. When Julia died during childbirth in 1899, their oldest daughter Nellie, 15, became the caretaker of the younger children. Tom eventually gave up farming and moved to Minneapolis where he operated a saloon for a few years before joining city government working for the street department.

Thomas Dolan and Julia Darmody had the following children born in Maple Grove:

+	14	i.	Ellen "Nellie"[4] Dolan 27 August 1884.
	15	ii.	Margaret Dolan[26] in February 1887 and died in 1951 in Minneapolis, at 64 years of age. She married Arthur E. Frick in Minnesota. Both are buried in St. Patrick Catholic Cemetery in Maple Grove.
	16	iii.	Mary Dolan[27] in May 1890 and died in Bowbells, Burke Co., North Dakota. She married Richard Frick. He was married twice.
	17	iv.	Patrick W. Dolan[28] in December 1892 and died 8 August 1981 in Flint, Genesse Co., Michigan, at 88 years of age. He married twice. (1) Clara Frick. No details on marriage (2) other than they had been married 52 years at the time of his death.
	18	v.	Thomas E. Dolan[29] 25 February 1895 and died 6 May 1948 in Spokane, Spokane Co., Washington, at 53 years of age. He married Martha Imelda Nunn who was born 15 April 1895 and died 1 March 1968 in Spokane, at 72 years of age.[30] Both are buried in Holy Cross Cemetery.
	19	vi.	Martha Agnes Dolan[31] in June 1897 and married Ed Hurley.
	20	vii.	(Infant) Dolan[32] 24 July 1899. Died during childbirth.

FOURTH GENERATION

14. Ellen "Nellie"4 Dolan (Thomas3, Kerian (Keran)2, Roger1)[33] was born in Maple Grove, Hennepin Co., Minnesota 27 August 1884 and died 2 June 1953 in Underwood, McLean Co., North Dakota, at 68 years of age. She married Benoni Scott in Hamel, Hennepin Co., Minnesota 25

June 1903. Benoni, son of Didace Scott and Angeline Hamel, was born 25 September 1882 in Corcoran, Hennepin Co., Minnesota and died 8 January 1935 in Minot, Ward Co., North Dakota, at 52 years of age. They had seven sons and seven daughters.

Nellie Dolan and Ben Scott had the following child born in Hamel:

\+ 21 i. Pearl Julia[5] Scott 29 August 1905.

(See Generation 11, No. 9253, Pearl Julia Scott, wife of L. Blaine Whipple for a continuation of the Dolan lineage.)

PATRICK DARMODY, ABT 1821 TO JULIA DARMODY, 1862-1899

(Darmody lineage of Pearl Julia Scott, Generation 11, No. 9253, wife of L. Blaine Whipple.)

FIRST GENERATION

1. Patrick[1] Darmody[1] was born in County Tipperary, Ireland about 1821 and died 5 February 1879 in Maple Grove, Hennepin Co., Minnesota, at 57 years of age. He married Ellen Peters abt 1855. She was born in County Tipperary, Ireland and died in Maple Grove.[2] The 1870 census identifies her birthplace as Ireland, no locale given. She was living on the original Darmody farm in Maple Grove according to the 1885 census with sons Michael, 29, Philip, 20, and daughter Margaret, 27. Patrick and Helen are buried at St. Patrick Cemetery, Maple Grove. His large tombstone has no date of birth but identifies his birth place as County Tipperary, Ireland.

Patrick arrived in New York 20 May 1850 from Waterford, Ireland on the Bark Alert. His age was listed as 17 on the passenger manifest.[3] If he was 17, his birth year is 1833. The tombstone may have been placed at a time later than his death as it gives his death date as 5 December 1880 and his age as 55. The records at St. Vincent de Paul Catholic Church in Osseo, Hennepin Co., Minnesota state his death occurred 5 December 1879, age 58. If the church records are correct, his birth year was 1821. The 1870 federal census supports the earlier date. It listed his age as 50 and shows the family lived on a 120-acre farm in Maple Grove Township. The 1870 federal census states that Ellen was 45, Michael, 14, Margaret, 12, Ellen, 11, Julia, 7, Philip, 5. The 1885 Minnesota state census tracts with the children ages but adds five years to Ellen. The census states all the children were born in Minnesota so Patrick and Ellen must have been in the state by 1856.

In 1869 their farm was valued at $1,200 and comprised 20 improved acres, 20 unimproved acres, and 80 acres of woodland. They had two horses, four milk cows, three other cattle, five swine, and one sheep with a total value of $415. They sold forest products worth $30, slaughtered animals worth $145, and raised other farm products worth $598. They raised 200 bushels of spring wheat, 30 bushels of Indian corn, 150 bushels of oats, 4 bushels of peas and beans, 60 bushels of Irish potatoes, 11 ton of hay, and 300 pounds of butter.

The census reports spell the family name Darmody. Patrick's tombstone spells it Dormody. Older stones are Darmody, newer ones Dormody. The marriage license issued to Julia and Tom Dolan spells it Darmody.

Patrick Darmody and Ellen Peters had the following children:

	2	i.	Michael[2] Darmody[4] born in Minnesota abt 1856.
	3	ii.	Margaret Darmody[5] born in Minnesota abt 1858.
	4	iii.	Ellen Darmody[6] born in Minnesota abt 1859.
+	5	iv.	Julia Darmody born 25 February 1862.
	6	v.	Philip Darmody[7] 26 March 1865 (baptized 27 March by Father Genis).[8] Michael and Margaret Kelliner were Godparents.
	7	vi.	Bridget Darmody[9] in Maple Grove in 1867 (baptized 1 May 1867 by Father Nicolas).[10] John Mullin and Mary Gleason Godparents.

SECOND GENERATION

5. Julia[2] Darmody (Patrick[1])[11] was born in Minnesota 25 February 1862 and died in childbirth along with the baby 24 July 1899 in Maple Grove, Hennepin Co., Minnesota, at 37 years of age.

She married Thomas Dolan in Minnesota 19 November 1883 at St. Vincent de Paul Church in Osseo, Hennepin Co., Minnesota. Witnesses were Philip and Margaret Darmody, siblings of Julia. Father Payette performed the ceremony.[12] Tom, son of Kerian (Keran) Dolan and Margaret Rourke, was born in New York State abt 1860 and died 15 June 1944 in Minneapolis, Hennepin Co., Minnesota, at 82 years of age. He married (2) Barbara Sweigert in Minnesota. Tom began farming in Maple Grove in 1883. Their marriage license shows he could not write as he signed the document with an X. He eventually gave up farming and moved to Minneapolis where he operated a saloon for a few years before joining city government working for the street department.

Julia Darmody and Thomas Dolan had the following children born in Maple Grove:

+	8	i.	Ellen "Nellie"[3] Dolan 27 August 1884.
	9	ii.	Margaret Dolan[13] in February in 1887 and died in 1951 in Minneapolis, at 64 years of age. She married Arthur E. Frick in Minnesota. Both are buried in St. Patrick Catholic Cemetery, Maple Grove.
	10	iii.	Mary Dolan[14] in May 1890 and died in Bowbells, Burke Co., North Dakota. She married Richard Frick.
	11	iv.	Patrick W. Dolan[15] in December 1892 and died 8 August 1981 in Flint, Genesse Co., Michigan, at 88 years of age. He married twice. (1) Clara Frick. The only thing known about (2) is they were married 52 years at the time of his death.
	12	v.	Thomas E. Dolan[16] 25 February 1895 and died 6 May 1948 in Spokane, Spokane Co., Washington, at 53 years of age. He married Martha Imelda Nunn who was born 15 April 1895 and died 1 March 1968 in Spokane, at 72 years of age.[17] Both are buried in Holy Cross Cemetery.
	13	vi.	Martha Agnes Dolan[18] in June 1897 and married Ed Hurley.
	14	vii.	(Infant) Dolan[19] 24 July 1899 and died during childbirth.

THIRD GENERATION

8. Ellen "Nellie"[3] Dolan (Julia[2] Darmody, Patrick[1])[20] was born in Maple Grove, Hennepin Co., Minnesota 27 August 1884 and died 2 June 1953 in Underwood, McLean Co., N. Dak., at 68 years of age. She married Benoni Scott in Hamel, Hennepin Co., Minnesota 25 June 1903. Ben, son of Didace (Didas) Scott and Angela Hamel, was born in Corcoran, Hennepin Co., Minnesota 25 September 1882 and died 8 January 1935 in Minot, Ward Co., North Dakota, at 52 years of age.[21] They had seven sons and seven daughters. Nellie was named Ellen after her mother's sister of the same name. Ellen was three years older than Julia.

Nellie Dolan and Ben Scott had the following child born in Hamel:

+	15	i.	Pearl Julia[4] Scott 29 August 1904.

(See Generation 11, No. 9253, Pearl Julia Scott, wife of L. Blaine Whipple for a continuation of the Darmody lineage.)

The year 2006 is the 159th anniversary of "Black '47," the worst year of the famine in Ireland. Today's Irish descendant is so far removed from basic knowledge of his forebearers that many ascribe romantic notions to their life. Nothing could be farther from the truth. About a million came to the United States between 1845-1850 in a sad march away from famine and fever. They marched onto the shores of "the best poor man's country on earth" and up the streets of New York where they believed "every day is like Christmas for the meat."

I have three sets of Irish ancestors. Andrew Scott, my great (4) was born in Sligo circa 1713, migrated to Québec Province, Canada sometime before 1759 where he lived a successful life with two wives, raised three children and died at age 99.

Kieran Dolan, my great (2) grandfather arrived in New York 15 October 1849 on the De Witt Clinton from Liverpool, England. Various sources suggest he was born between 1826-1831 in County Cork. He lived in New York and Michigan before settling in Minnesota circa 1864 where he and his wife Margaret Rourke farmed and raised 14 children. Margaret died at 58, Kieran at 81.

Patrick Darmody my great (2) grandfather left County Tipperary as a teen-ager, sailing on the bark Alert. He arrived in New York City 2 May 1850 and was farming in Hennepin County, Minnesota 10 years later. His birth date is unknown but was probably about 1825. He married Helen, also born in County Tipperary, and they raised six children in Maple Grove, Minnesota. He died 8 December 1880 of brain fever. None of these men would have been able to achieve their level of success had they remained in Ireland. And their life span would have been shorter.

The main parade of Irish immigrants began to form in September 1845 when farmers sniffed "a dampish putrid" odor coming from the fields. Before the month ended, the potato stalks were "black as your shoe and burned to the clay." In five years, during what Benjamin Disraeli called "the single root that changed the history of the world," Ireland lost one quarter of her population: a million and a half dead and a million gone to America.

IRELAND LACKED INDUSTRY

At the time of the great potato famine, Ireland wasn't industrialized and its few industries were moribund. Agricultural employment did not exist. Farms were too small to require hired labor – over 93 percent were smaller than 30 acres; 45 percent had less than five acres. Three-quarters of the laborers had no regular employment, working only when potatoes were being planted, cultivated, and harvested. In 1835, there were 2,385,000 jobless, because no work was available. Without a patch of land to grow potatoes, a family starved.

In 1843 a Royal Commission (known as the Devon Commission after its chairman the Earl of Devon) was appointed to document conditions in Ireland. It visited every part of Ireland, heard 1,100 witnesses, and its three volume report concluded that the possession of a piece of land was literally the difference between life and death; that the principal cause of Irish misery was the relationship between landlord and tenant.

Two conditions denied the tenant incentive and security: (1) when his lease expired or was terminated, improvements he made became the landlord's without compensation and (2) he was a tenant "at will" with no security because a landlord could evict whenever he chose. When evicted, families wandered about begging, crowding the already swarming lanes and slums of towns, or lived in ditches by the roadside until, wasted by disease and hardship, "they die in a little time."

The Irish, according to the Commission, suffered more than people in any other country in Europe. "In many districts their only food is the potato, their only beverage, water; their cabins are seldom a protection against the weather; a bed or blanket is a rare luxury; and their pigs and manure heap constitute their only property."

Housing conditions were beyond words. The census of 1841 graded houses into four classes: the fourth and lowest class consisted of windowless mud cabins of a single room. Nearly half of the rural population lived in the lowest class. In parts of Ireland more than three-fifths of the houses were one-room cabins. Furniture was a luxury. In 1837 the approximately 9,000 inhabitants of Tullahobagly, County Donegal, had 10 beds, 93 chairs, and 243 stools. Pigs slept with their owners, manure heaps were outside entry doors, sometimes even inside. The evicted and unemployed put roofs over ditches, burrowed into banks, or lived in bog holes.

FAMILIES SURVIVED ON HALF-ACRE PLOTS

Most leases had clauses prohibiting land subdivision but were seldom enforced. Land was divided and subdivided and split into smaller and still smaller fragments until families were surviving on plots as small as half an acre. As the population increased, parents let their children occupy a portion of their holdings rather than turn them out to starve. The children in turn did the same for their children and in a comparatively short time up to 10 families were settled on land which could provide for only one.

In West Ireland, subdivision was aggravated by a system of joint tenancy known as "rundale" whereby the land was rented in common and divided so that each tenant received a portion of the good, bad, and medium quality land the farm contained. For example, in Liscananawn, County Mayo, 167 acres of three qualities was divided into 330 portions – each of 110 persons had three portions. This desperate competition led to enormous rents.

Day laborers, too poor to rent land, eked out an existence by conacre. Conacre was a contract, not a lease, to use a portion of land to grow one crop. No landlord-tenant relationship was created. The plots were small. A quarter-acre was more common than half an acre in Tipperary. The land owner prepared the soil for planting and the contractor provided the seed, planted it, cultivated and harvested it. Rent was high: £10 to £14 an acre for good ground £6 for poor.

This system of small plots, high rents, and frantic competition for land coupled with the dense population subsisting at the lowest level, created the Irish dependence on the potato. When the crop was good, the potato generated great quantities of food produced at a minor cost. An acre-and-a-half would provide a family of five or six with food for 12 months. To grow the same amount of grain required four to six times as much acreage and some knowledge of tilling. Planting potatoes only require a spade.

The potato was food for people, cattle, pigs, and fowl. It was nourishing and simple to cook. Yet it was a dangerous crop because it did not keep and could not be stored from one season to another. The nearly 2.5 million laborers with no regular employment lived on starvation rations in the summer when the old crop was eaten and the new not yet harvested. June, July, and August were called the "meal months" because meal had to be eaten. The laborers bought meal on credit at exhorbitant prices from the scourge of the Irish village, the dreaded Gombeen man.

In Ireland's backward areas cooking food other than the potato had become a lost art. In Kerry, Donegal, the country west of the Shannon river, and part of West Cork, the population lived so exclu-sively on the potato that no trade in any other food existed. Bread was scarcely seen and ovens were unknown. There was no means of distributing home-grown food and no knowledge of how to use it. Economic necessity compelled the small farmer to sell what he grew. Wheat, oats, and barley were not regarded as food – they were grown to pay the rent, the first necessity of life in Ireland. It would be a desperate man who ate up his rent because failure to pay meant eviction and death by slow starvation.

Potatoes were suited to the moist soil of Ireland. Trenches were dug, beds made, the potato sets laid on the ground, and earthed up again. The trenches provided drainage so crops could be grown in wet ground, the spade made it possible to plant on hillsides where a plough could not be used. As the population increased, potatoes were grown in bogs and up mountains, where no other crops would have been possible.

POTATOES, NOT MONEY, DETERMINED VALUE OF LABOR

The potato, not money, was the basic factor to determine the value of labor. Farmers and landlords gave their laborers a cabin and a piece of potato ground, or permitted them to put up a conacre. Wages were not paid in money but were credited against rent at a rate varying from four to eight pence a day. The laborer's real reward was the patch of potato ground.

The laborer only dealt with money when he sold a pig for a few shillings and used the money to buy clothing for the family. The poorest laborers could not afford a pig and were so unfamiliar with money, they did not recognize coins and notes. This did not mean money was not prized. It was prized in the extreme. Money meant ability to purchase land, and land was life itself in Ireland. However wretched a family, if they had a little money they would hoard it to pay land rent rather than improve their living conditions.

The census of 1851 reported 24 potato crop failure between 1728 and 1839, including complete failures in 1740, 1800, and 1839. Thus its unreliability as a crop was an accepted fact and the possibility of another failure caused no particular alarm. In early July 1845, the crop looked good until the hot, dry weather gave way to three weeks of low temperature and a succession of chilling rains and some fog. In early August, England's Isle of Wright reported disease in the potato crop. This was the first recorded evidence that "blight" had crossed the Atlantic.[2]

Britain's leading horticultural publication, The Gardeners' Chronicle and Horticultural Gazette, reported in mid-September that "the potato Murrain has unequivocally declared in Ireland. The crops about Dublin are suddenly perishing." By mid-October, disastrous reports poured in from all sections of the country. As digging progressed, the news grew steadily worse. When first dug, many potatoes were sound but within a few days had become a stinking mass of corruption.

The consequences of a potato failure are not immediate and the first effect is plenty, not scarcity, because people dispose of their potatoes before they become useless. Famine begins five or six months after a failure. By then, every scrap of food, every partially-diseased potato, everything edible was consumed. This meant the government had until April or May to prepare to feed the people.

By spring 1846, people in many districts had begun to starve and local relief commissioners had formed committees to raise money to buy food for resale to the distressed. An Irish Board of Works was formed to create employment in public works and fever hospitals were authorized. Similar efforts during previous periods of famine had not been successful. History was to be repeated.

Laissez faire, a theory that individuals should pursue their own interests with as little interference from government as possible was, almost without exception, the belief held by the politicians and high government officials responsible for Ireland. The loss was to be made good by the operation of private enterprise using the normal channels of commerce – in short, famine was an opportunity for profit.

Charles Edward Treyelyan, head of the all-powerful Department of Treasury and watchdog of the nation's money-bags, was in charge of the various famine relief programs. He believed the food shortage "would be aggravated in a fearful degree" if traders confined "themselves to what in ordinary circumstances might be considered fair profits." When the Marquess of Sligo complained in October that the Commissariat Officer at Westport was refusing to sell food to people who were starving because they couldn't pay the trader's exorbitant prices, he was told "we must bear in mind if an article is scarce a smaller quantity must be made to last for a longer time, and that high price is the only criterion by which consumption can be economized." Treyelyan regretted the "evil" of an insufficient food supply but believed providing more would be "a crying injustice to the rest of the country."

Government officials and relief committee members treated the destitute with impatience and contempt. Sympathy and kindness were not on the agenda in December 1845. English newspapers pictured the Irish, not as helpless famine victims, but as cunning and bloodthirsty desperadoes. Punch published cartoons week after week depicting the Irishman as a filthy, brutal creature, an assassin and a murderer, begging for money – under a pretense of buying food – to spend on weapons. Ireland was a disturbing thought and it was a comfort to be able to believe its people were not starving or, if some of them were, the depravity of the Irish was such that they deserved to starve.

Because many ate seed stock to fend off starvation, about one-third less acreage was planted in 1846. With their naturally optimistic temperament that plenty follows scarcity, Irish hopes were high. Weather was warm during May and June and the plants grew strong. However, by the middle of July, disease was more prevalent in the early crop than in 1845. By August 3, it was apparent the crop was a total failure.

Reports from Cork to Dublin said the crop was a "waste of putrefying vegetation." One report said 32 miles of potato fields "in full bloom" became "scorched black" overnight. Disaster was universal. The September 2, 1846 London Times described it as "total annihilation." By the end of autumn, all berries, edible roots, and cabbage leaves had been eaten. The blighted fields had been combed over and over until nothing edible remained.

The fungus phytophthora infestans caused the blight but scientists and farmers were ignorant of the cause so there was no understanding of its nature or any idea of how to treat it. It was 15 years before blight was acknowledged to be the work of a fungus and nearly 40 years before a spray was developed. Though it remains as a serious plant pestilence, complete destruction of a crop no longer takes place because threatened crops are now sprayed with copper compounds.

M. J. Berkeley of Northamptonshire, England, whose studies on fungi had been published in English Flora in 1836, observed minute fungi on blighted parts of leaves and tubers in the summer of 1845. In January 1846, in an article in the Journal of the Horticultural Society of London, he described the fungus as a parasite and claimed it caused blight. The general belief was that "wet putrefaction" and "dropsy" caused blight. With little evidence to support his theory, it was almost universally rejected and wasn't accepted until well into the 20th century. By a stroke of poetic justice, much of the final research was carried out at the Albert Agricultural College, Glasnevin, Dublin.

BITTER COLD WINTER

The winter of 1846-47 was the most severe in living memory. Snow fell early in November; frost was continuous. Icy gales, with a force unknown since the famous great wind of 1839 produced snow, hail, and sleet. Roads were impassable and transport was brought to a stand still. To the people, it seemed that nature had joined Ireland's enemies. Normally, the prevailing wind is a west wind, and though the approach of winter is usually heralded by a gale blowing up out of the Atlantic, it is mild in spite of its force. But this autumn the wind came from Russia and was icy. All of Europe was gripped in bitter cold and by the middle of December the Thames was a mass of floating ice.

One of the compensations of the 19th century Irish peasant's life was warmth. A supply of peat was almost universal and a peat fire burned night and day, some as long as a century. The family spent the cold, wet days of winter indoors, and though dressed in rags, they endured little hardship. Not this winter. The 1846 crop failure forced the ill-clad peasant in rain, snow, and icy gales to labor on public works so he could feed his family. More often than not, he was already starving.

The people understood little of what was happening and became bewildered. Irish was spoken in rural districts; English was barely understood and not at all in the west. No attempt was made to explain the catastrophe. The first to succumb were the poorest of all, the squatters who had put up huts of sods in a bog, or on the seashore where they harvested seaweed for potato manure. Their small crop of potatoes had always been their only means of existence and when it was lost, they abandoned their hovels and descended on the towns in droves.

Five thousand beggars roamed the streets of Cork. Oranmore in Galway had "hundreds of poor creatures wandering about." Thurles in Tipperary reported large numbers of half-starving people pouring in from the surrounding country. They slept in ditches and in doorways, begged, and were driven away. People died at a rate of 100 a week in Cork in December.

William Forster, a minister in Norwich, England and a respected member of the Quaker community, his son W. E., and others went to Ireland to investigate the extent of the famine. They reported "destitution and suffering far exceeding that which had been at first supposed." Children were "like skeletons, their features sharpened with hunger and their limbs wasted, so that there was little left but bones, their hands and arms, in particular, being much emaciated, and the happy expression of infancy gone from their faces, leaving the anxious look of premature old age."

Forster offered a donation to start a soup kitchen every place he visited. With the exception of Castlerea the offer was gratefully accepted. The Catholic priest at Castlerea declined because acceptance would bring the poor from the surrounding country into the town, "by which they would be overwhelmed." In January 1847 at Bundorragha in Galway, Forster said all sheep and cows were gone, all poultry killed, only one pig left, and no dogs. His son after visiting Clifden County Galway, said men and women were "more like famished dogs than fellow creatures." He decried reports in English newspapers that Irish starvation was exaggerated.

As the winter continued with unrelenting severity, frantic appeals for food poured into the government offices at Whitehall from all over Ireland. Money was useless in Limerick because there was no food to buy. Cork's Nicholas Cummins, Justice of the Peace, wrote that "unless something is immediately done the people must die." The Relief Inspector at Sligo wrote he was unable to adequately describe the desperate circumstances there. The Commissariat Office at Burtonport, County Donegal, wrote that "the distress of the wretched people is heart-rending; something ought to be done (as) there is absolutely nothing in the place for food." A Colonel Jones wrote that the people had reached a state of panic because of the lack of food.

February was the worst month of the terrible winter. Heavy snow falls and fierce gales made roads impassable. Carts could not be used. Horses sank in drifts and had to be dug out. Families without food or fuel took to their beds. Many died believing it was the will of God.

SOUP KITCHENS OPENED IN 1847

Two new government programs were begun early in 1847. (1) Soup kitchens, a favorite English philanthropic activity, were established throughout the country. The goal: feed the laborer so he could work his plot of ground or work for a farmer and produce food for the next harvest and earn enough to support his family. (2) Distressed persons were classified as paupers, placed under the Irish Poor Law[3] and given "outdoor" relief paid for by local taxes. Previously, only workhouse inmates were eligible for relief and the capacity of the workhouses determined who could be fed. By the end of January 31,000 pints of soup were distributed daily to about a tenth of the destitute population in West Cork. Crowds waited for hours at distribution centers, sometimes all night, and savage struggles took place when distribution began.

By early February private enterprise was finally functioning with supplies of Indian corn and Indian meal beginning to arrive from North America. Two-hundred-fifty ships carrying 50,000 tons of foodstuffs were in Cork harbor February 26. But it was to late. Destitution and disorganization had gone too far; high prices and lack of money put the long-expected food out of reach of the starving laborer. Ireland was ruined.

IRISH "BLACK FEVER"

Fever is a natural consequence of famine. The government was warned in the autumn of 1846 to expect an epidemic. It arrived at the end of March in the form of typhus and relapsing fever, filling the Irish with terror. Rickettsia, the microscopic organisms that cause typhoid, attack the small blood vessels, especially those of the skin and brain. With blood circulation impeded, the patient becomes all but unrecognizable as the face swells, and the skin becomes a dark, congested hue (giving typhus its Irish name of black fever). Temperature rises; in severe cases limbs twitch violently; patients rave in delirium, throwing themselves about, and as the fever becomes so intense some jump out of windows or into a river in search of cooling relief. Additional symptoms include vomiting, agonizing sores develop, sometimes gangrene causing the loss of fingers, toes, and feet. The odor from the typhus patient is almost intolerable. A medical officer of the Tralee jail where typhus was rampant wrote, "when the door was opened he was forcibly driven back by the smell."

Relapsing fever is transmitted by a louse which has swallowed blood containing the micro-organisms of the disease. Once infected, progress is rapid. High fever and vomiting begin within a few hours and continue for days. A crisis with profuse sweating follows, succeeded by extreme exhaustion. If the patient survives, the symptoms can be repeated three or four times before the fever leaves. It is often accompanied by jaundice. Observers in Cork in 1847 described victim's skin as "all gaunt, yellow, hideous."

OUTBREAKS OF DYSENTERY, DROPSY, AND SCURVY

Dysentery was also rampant. Bacillary dysentery, known as the bloody flux is caused by a group of bacilli conveyed in contaminated food and the excrement of infected humans and flies. The bacilli are swallowed with infected food or inhaled from excrement and multiply in the stomach and bowels. Inflamation, ulcers, and finally gangrene follow, with intense pain, diarrhea, violent straining, and the passing of clots of blood. It was easy to tell who had the disease by the clots of blood on the ground around their cabins.

Another appalling condition, now infectious, was famine dropsy.[4] William Bennett of the Society of Friends described it in March 1847 as "that horrid disease – the results of long continued famine and low living—in which the limbs and body swell most frightfully and finally burst." Scurvy, previously unknown because the potato provided the necessary vitamin C, was prevalent. Scurvy is painful and revolting. Gums become spongy, teeth fall out, joints are enlarged causing acute suffering. Boood vessels burst under the skin, especially on the legs. In its advanced state, legs turn black up to the middle of the thigh. The Irish called scurvy black leg.

By the spring of 1847 starvation had so reduced the people that Sidney Godolphin Osborne, later one of Florence Nightingale's helpers in the Crimea, wrote that "the skin had a peculiar appearance, rough and dry like parchment and hung in folds; eyes had sunk into the head, shoulder bones were so high the neck seemed to have sunk into the chest; faces were so wasted (they) looked like a skull; and there was an extraordinary pallor such as (he) had never seen before. The starving children were skeletons, many too far gone to walk... many had lost their voices." He never heard a child cry or moan from pain or shed a tear or a cry. Two, three, or four in a bed "lie and died, if suffering ever silent, unmoved."

In March 1847, the Central Board of Health sent doctors to inspect and report on conditions of the workhouses of Cork, Bandon, Bantry, and Lurgan. They reported conditions in the Cork workhouse as "utterly wretched and deplorable, (with) a death taking place every hour." The workhouse was overcrowded, lacked ventilation, the drains were deficient, and the stench almost insupportable, even in cold weather. Bandon was without order and completely chaotic. One-hundred-and-two boys slept in 24 beds in a ward 25 by 30 feet, in some cases six to a bed; 700 slept and ate in the hall. There were 45 beds in the convalescent ward for 125 fever patients. The drains were "revolting" and "disgusting stench lasts all day."

The wards in the Bantry workhouse were clean and orderly, but "language would fail to give an adequate idea of (the) state of its fever hospital," the inspecting doctor said. "It was appalling, awful, heart sickening." He "did not think it possible to exist in a civilized and Christian community." Fever patients were "lying naked on straw, the living and the dead together. The doctor was ill and no one had been near the hospital for two days. There was no medicine, no drink, no fire; wretched beings were crying out, 'water, water' but there was no one to give it to them; the sole attendant was one pauper nurse, utterly unfit."

Conditions in Lurgan were equally horrible. The dead were buried four yards from the fever hospital and the hospital well was in the center of the burial ground. The Master had died, the Matron was ill; two of the doctors were down with typhus; everything had fallen into confusion; and the Board of Guardians did not seem to know anything except that the workhouse was overcrowded.

Deaths in the workhouses and in hospitals were only part of the total. Doctors who worked in Dublin through the epidemic wrote that vast numbers of poor remained at home and never thought of applying for hospital care. Many deaths were unrecorded because the horror of fever even conquered the bond of family affection. Parents deserted their children; children their parents. Neighbors, usually kind and generous, would not enter a cabin where fever was known to exist, and in lonely districts fever-stricken persons died without anyone coming near them, their bodies left to rot. Families buried relatives in fields and on hillsides, intending "to get church rites for the bones in better times." In Clifden, corpses were burned, in other districts they were buried under the cabin floor. In Leitrim, many were buried in ditches, unknown to anyone. The total of those who died during the fever epidemics and of famine diseases will never be known, but probably about 10 times more died of disease than of starvation.

Before the potato failure, to leave Ireland was regarded as the most terrible of all fates and transportation was the most dreaded of sentences.[5] But after the autumn and winter of 1846-47, terrified and desperate, they began to flee a land which seemed accursed. They crossed the ocean to Canada and the United States or the Irish Sea to Britain. About a million and a quarter went to North America; an even larger number to Great Britain, landing at Liverpool, Glasgow, and the ports of south Wales. Fever went with them and the path to a new life became a path of horror.

The vast majority who left in 1846 went to Canada despite their belief justice and opportunity would be denied them under the Union Jack. Some considered Canada an Ireland with more room. They believed the U. S. offered greater opportunity, a belief reinforced by the 1839 report of Lord Durham, Canadian High Commissioner and Governor General, who contrasted the two sides of the border as follows: "On the American side all is bustle and activity; on the British side, with the exception of a few favored spots, all seems waste and desolation. The ancient City of Montreal which is naturally the commercial capital of Canada, will not bear the least comparison with Buffalo, which is the creation of yesterday."

To offset the attractions of the U.S., the British made passage to Canada cheaper and gave free passage into the interior of those who declared their intentions of settling in Canada. The desire to populate Canada was not the only reason Britain encouraged Irish emigration. It wanted to prevent migration into England. In 1827, 18 years before the famine, a Parliamentary committee proposed low fares to their North American colonies so the mother country wouldn't be deluged "with poverty and wretchedness and equalize the state of the English and Irish peasantry." But cheaper passage didn't work. After reaching Canada, many walked across the border into the U.S.

The first immigrant ship arrived at Québec April 24, 1846. From early August until the ice closed the St. Lawrence river, an unprecedented number reached Québec. The 1847 flight, for the first time in history, began in the winter. Despite it being the most sever winter in living memory, about 30,000 landed in the U. S. An officer of the Society of Friends described emigrants boarding ships as "joyful at their escape, as from a doomed land." A landlord at Tervoe was begged by his tenants for assistance to emigrate as "the greatest blessing he could bestow."

Three-quarters of emigrants crossing the Atlantic sailed from Liverpool; 95 percent were Irish. As no passenger could board his vessel until the cargo had been loaded, the emigrant had to spend at least one, generally two or three nights, in the low Irish lodging houses of Liverpool. The squalor and filth of the houses was notorious and thousands who had escaped typhus infection in Ireland were infected before leaving Liverpool.

"COFFIN SHIPS"

More than 85,000 sailed directly from Irish ports: Sligo, Dublin, Baltimore, Ballina, Westport, Tralee, and Killala. Fewer left from Waterford because access to Liverpool was easier. Their wild desire to get out combined with utter ignorance of the sea and of geography, caused many to book ships that were overcrowded and which sailed without adequate provisions. Some were called "coffin ships."

A typical example of a coffin ship was the 330 ton barque Elizabeth and Sarah built in 1762. It sailed from Killala, County Mayo, in July 1847, arriving at Québec in September. The officer at Killala certified 212 passengers; she carried 276. She should have carried 12,532 gallons of water but only had 8,700 gallons in leaky casks. The law required seven pounds of provisions be given weekly to each passenger. No distribution was ever made. She had 36 berths, four for the crew, 32 shared by 276 passengers who otherwise slept on the deck. No sanitary convenience of any kind was provided and the state of the vessel was "horrible and disgusting beyond the power of language to describe." During the eight-week crossing, passengers starved and were tortured by thirst. 'Forty-two died. The ship broke down and was towed into the St. Lawrence by a steamer.

FEW EMIGRANTS HAD TECHNICAL SKILLS

Few Irish brought technical skills to their new home. They were not carpenters, butchers, green grocers, glaziers, masons, or tailors. For most, their knowledge was limited to the spade-culture of a patch of potatoes. They had to assimilate into American life as best they could. The majority drifted into unskilled, irregular, badly-paid work, cleaning yards and stables, unloading vehicles and ships, and pushing carts. The mass of under-paid casual labor produced the notorious Irish slums of the east coast of the United States. With rare exception, they were the most unfortunate and poorest of the immigrants. They took longer to be accepted, longer to become genuinely assimilated, and waited longer for the opportunities offered by the United States.

However, emigrants who left after the failure of 1848 were of a class Ireland could ill afford to lose. To deter immigration of the helpless and diseased, fares to Canada were raised so the small ruined farmer had to stay home. Farmers of substance, well provided for the journey, left for the U.S. Landlords offered to defer their rent for a year if they stayed. There were few takers.

Half of all Irish immigrants to the U.S. before, during, and after the famine disembarked at New York, a city of 630,000, half immigrants. Boston was the second most popular port. For mostly a rural people who had no cities until the Danes invaded, the Irish looked upon New York as "heaven's front parlor" and soon brought it a larger Irish population than Dublin. Their first view of New York was heavily wooded Staten Island and the spiral of Trinity Episcopal Church. Horse-drawn street cars moved up Fifth Avenue to 34th Street where "the sticks" began. Harlem was a country town. Right off, the immigrant was in for three disappointments. First, the streets weren't paved with gold. Second, they weren't paved at all. Third, he would be expected to pave them.

THE IRISH QUARTER

Upon arrival, the immigrant went straight to the Irish quarter, called "Irish town," "Paddy town," or "The Irish Channel," where he associated exclusively with his fellow-countrymen and had no contact with American culture or American ideas. His countrymen surrounded him in such numbers that his glimpses of American manners, morals, and religion were few and faint, wrote an American journalist. It was a hideous life and the way to forget was to drink. Whiskey dulled physical pain, disappointment, and bereavement. Birthdays, weddings, christenings, and national and political festivals were celebrated with whiskey. The words "Irishman" and "drunkard" became synonymous. A drunken, fighting, law-breaking man was the Irish image. Both united and isolated by clannishness, they were soon exploited by the political bosses. The vote of the naturalized Irishman was as good as the vote of any New England Yankee and his vote was bought with a glass of whiskey and jobs and favors handed out at political headquarters.

But the newcomers demonstrated incredible generosity and filial love by saving to bring brothers, sisters, aunts, uncles, and parents over to join them. In Ireland they were great hoarders of small coins, hiding coppers in thatched roofs or burying them in a field. Over here, their frugality became a banking legend. In the 15 years after the famine the Irish sent home $65 million in "Letters from America," as remittances were called. New York's Emigrant Industrial bank, founded in 1851 to protect the savings of Irish laborers, remitted $30 million to Ireland in its first three decades. "Such a beautiful story of unforgotten affection is unmatched in the world records of human attachment," said Robert Murray, an unsentimental Scot who was chief officer of the Provincial Bank on the receiving end in Ireland.

T. N. Redington, Under Secretary for Ireland and a Galway landlord, pronounced the famine over at the end of 1849. There were about a million destitute in the workhouses and on relief at the time. If you were Kerian Dolan and Patrick Darmody, do you think you would have stayed in Ireland?

HAMEL FAMILY ENDNOTES

1. Brother Jean-Ernest (Adrien Hamel, compiler), Genealogie de la Famille Hamel 1656-1950, Maison Provinciale Freres Maristes, Iberville, Province of Québec, Canada,. (Hereafter Hamel Genealogy.) The Hamel Genealogy lists over 10,000 descendants of Jean and Charles Hamel.
2. Hamel means hamlet or small village. It comes from the Saxon word "ham" borrowed from the Hebrew meaning small group of people. The name has been known in France for at least seven centuries and today the small French town of Hamel (about 500 inhabitants) is in the Department of the Somme, between Corbie and Amiens.

16. Livre—a French money of account, afterwards a silver coin equal to 20 sous until 1794. Sous—a French coin of low value later used to designate the five-centine piece; the smallest amount of money.
17. Dit—a dit name was an extension to an existing name and became a part of the original basic name. The custom of having dit names began with nobles and kings and was used to establish positive identity. Use of dit names came into common usage in France in the late 1500. Families of 14, 16, and 18 children were not uncommon and produced unreasonable numbers of duplicate names. It created a problem of proper identification for authorities. Judges, police chiefs, priests, and others in authority had to know definitely whom they were dealing with so the use of dit names came into common usage. The assigned dit name usually represented an attribute of the person. Romain Becquet, a huge man, was given the dit name of La Montagne (the mountain man) and became Romain Becquet dit Lamontagne. When the number of children decreased, dit names were no longer needed.

29. Ursuline Sisters—the first order of religious women to serve in North America. They arrived in Québec, Canada in 1639. Founded by Angela Merici in Italy, they were committed not only to prayer but also to action where there was a need. At the time of their formation, only the rich had the luxury of education so the Ursuline Sisters took teaching as their special mission. Today there are about 2,700 Ursuline sisters in North America serving from Alaska to Tabasco, Mexico and from Maine to California. They lead retreats, assist in prisons, teach at every level from elementary school to college. They are also artists and musicians.

WHY KERIAN DOLAN AND PATRICK DARMODY LEFT THE EMERAL ISLE ENDNOTES

1. An article similar to this written by the author, was published under the title "Why They Left the Emerald Isle," in Heritage Quest The Genealogy Magazine, Issue 72, November/December 1997. Heritage Quest, 593 West 100 North, PO Box 329, Bountiful, Utah 84011-0329.

3. The Irish Poor Law was passed in 1838 and was to be funded by a tax on Irish property. Its author, George Nicholls, said its purpose was two-fold: mitigating the suffering of the Irish poor and prevent them from coming to England in search of a living.
4. "Famine dropsy" has no connection with the condition normally termed dropsy. It is produced by starvation in its last stages and is medically known as hunger edema.
5. A "sentence of transportation" was to be transported out of Ireland for committing a crime. By 1848, teenagers were courting transportation as a means to escape the country. One youth, asked if he knew what transportation meant, said even if he had chains on his legs he would have something to eat; anything was better than starving and sleeping out at night

Following graduation from Yankton High School, Eddie joined the Marines and received his recruit training at Camp Pendleton near San Diego, California. During training it was drummed into the recruits how fiendish the Japanese were. They were told about the Bataan death march, the kamikaze pilots crashing into our ships, that the Japanese would never surrender. Following training he was assigned to the 6th Marine Division and shipped to the Pacific Theater where he was wounded during the Battle of Okinawa which was the largest amphibious invasion of the Pacific campaign and the last major campaign and bloodiest battle of the Pacific War. The importance of Okinawa, largest of the Ryukyu island chain, is that it is only 375 miles from the Japanese home island of Kyushu. Capturing it would lead to the invasion of the Japanese mainland.

Eddie as a newly recruited 19-year-old Marine in 1945.

Pat, High School graduation, Redfield, S. Dak. high school, 1946.

Pat. 15 August 2004.

Evidence that The United States intended to win the battle is the 300 warships, 1,139 other ships involved and that 60,000 military personnel (two Marine and two Army Divisions) landed at Hagushi Bay April 1, 1945, the first day of the battle. Of these numbers, 34 allied ships and craft of all types were sunk, mostly by kamikazes, 368 ships and craft damaged, 763 Navy aircraft lost, 5,000 Navy and almost 8,000 Marine and Army dead, and 36,000 wounded. Combat stress also caused large numbers of psychiatric casualties and there were more than 26,000 non-battle casualties during this 82-day campaign. The cost of this battle played a major role in the decision to use the atomic bomb against Japan just six weeks later. Projecting the casualties at Okinawa indicated one million deaths for the planned invasion of Japan and American leaders agreed they could not sacrifice so many lives.

April 1 began and ended with the heaviest concentration of naval gunfire ever to support an amphibious landing. Ten battleships, 9 cruisers, 23 destroyers and destroyer escorts and 117 rocket gunboats fired 3,800 tons of shells on Okinawa during the first 24 hours. During this "storm of steel," 16,000 troops of the 7th and 96th Infantry Divisions of the XXIV Corps and the 1st and 6th Marine Divisions of the III Amphibious Corps landed on the beaches in the first hour.

Leading the powerful Japanese 32nd Army were three men from the Samurai elite. General Mitsuru Ushijima was the main Commander, Lieutenant General Isamu Cho was Chief-of-Staff, and Colonel Hiromichi Yahara was the Chief Planning Officer. They planned a war of attrition based on a defensive strategy rather than an all-out attack and built a system of defense, especially in the southern portion of the island where their 100,000 soldiers could put the attacking forces and naval armada at risk. Ushijima turned Okinawa into an ocean fortress by digging elaborate networks of tunnels connected to strategically located artillery. He stored enough water and essential supplies to last an extended period. His plan was to lure the invaders inland by allowing unopposed landing and then overpower them. This was in marked contrast to previous battles of fighting the enemy landing on their beaches and wasting soldiers, resources and time. They also had The Divine Wind, the suicide force of hundreds kamikaze bombers and naval vessels. Despite the heroism of the suicide pilots, the kamikaze missions failed.

The Allied battle strategy included four phases: 1) advance to the eastern coast, April 1-4. 2) clear the northern part of the island, April 4-18. 3) occupy the outlying islands, April 10 - June 26. 4) the main battle against 32nd Army which began April 6 and ended June 21. Only mild opposition was encountered during phases 1-3 but phase 4 was extremely difficult because the Japanese were well entrenched and Allied naval shelling did not penetrate their tunneled fortifications.

Hundreds of kamikaze aircraft called kikusui - "floating chrysanthemum" for the Imperial symbol of Japan - began attacking the allied fleet April 6. By the end of the campaign 1,465 kamikaze flights had sunk 30 American ships and damaged 164 others. The battleship Yamato, the largest warship ever built, accompanied by the light cruiser Yahagi and eight destroyers left for Okinawa April 6 with no protective air-power. American carrier-based bombers were launched at 10 a.m. April 7 and for the next two hours the Japanese force was under constant attack. Yamato was hit by 12 bombs and seven torpedoes before blowing up and sinking. Yahagi was hit by bombs and went dead in the water. The destroyer Hamakaze was sunk with a bomb and torpedo hit. Three destroyers were so badly damaged they had to be scuttled. Four other destroyers could not return to Japan. Only 23 officers and 246 enlisted men of the Yamato's crew of 2,747 survived. The cruiser lost 446 and the destroyers 720 men. American losses were 10 planes and 12 men. This was the last Japanese naval action of the war.

The death of their Commander-in-Chief, President Franklin D. Roosevelt, was announced on April 12 and by April 19, soldiers and marines were in a fierce battle along the fortified outer ring of the Shuri Line. The Shuri defenses were deeply dug into the limestone cliffs and included artillery of various calibers. American losses grew as soldiers and marines assaulted defensive points on the line with the deceptive names of Sugar Loaf, Chocolate Drop, Conical Hill, Strawberry Hill, and Sugar Hill. But the troops rejoiced when the May 8 news announced the surrender of Nazi Germany.

Eddie was pulled from the front lines May 12 after 41 days of fighting for medical treatment due to battle fatigue. By then monsoon rains had turned contested slopes and roads into a morass which impacted both the tactical and medical situations. Troops were mired in mud and flooded roads inhibited evacuation of wounded to the rear. They lived on fields sodden by rain, part garbage dump and part graveyard.

By May 23, the Allied forces had put so much pressure on the Shuri Line that the Japanese fell back to the Kiykamu Peninsula, their final defensive position, leaving rear guard troops to slow the American advance. Private Drotzman, 19, was severely wounded May 27 by shell fragments in his head, arms, and legs and was awarded the Purple Heart Medal for wounds received in action. He was transferred to the United States June 28 and assigned to the U. S. Naval Hospital at Memphis, Tennessee to recuperate. Navy doctors were never able to remove all the shrapnel from his body and they placed a steel plate in the forepart of his skull. After almost a year at the hospital, he was discharged 24 May 1946, age 20, and returned to Yankton. An autopsy following his death 18 years later showed his body was full of cancer believed to have been stimulated by the shell fragments that remained in his body.

The 82-day battle for Okinawa was the worst fighting of the Pacific war, surpassing the brutal combats of Tarawa, Peleliu, and Iwo Jima. By the time all organized fighting ceased June 21, more than 107,000 Japanese soldiers were killed; 23,764 were sealed in caves or buried by the Japanese; 10,755 were captured or surrendered; and there were at least 42,000 and maybe as many as 142,000 civilian casualties. Suicide was the choice of many during the final days. Rather than surrender, which meant disgrace for both the men and their families, many Japanese soldiers held grenades against their stomachs. Generals Ushijima and Cho committed ceremonial hara kiri (suicide) on the last day. General Yahara escaped to Tokyo.

Okinawa made Japan a defeated and demoralized nation. The Imperial Army was destroyed, the Navy crippled, and all vital supply lines eliminated. After Hiroshima and Nagasaki, Emperor Hirohito accepted unconditional surrender and the war ended on August 15, 1945.

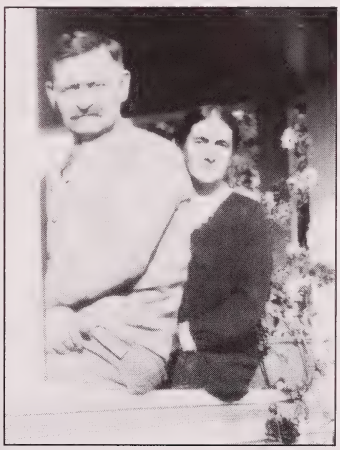
He married Agnes Faye Frye in Panama, Lancaster Co., Nebraska 29 September 1892. Agnes, daughter of Henry Abraham Frye and Helen M. Diamon, was born in Peoria, Peoria Co., Illinois 20 February 1876 and died 11 December 1962 in Portland, at 86 years of age. Pete and his older brother Chris arrived in New York City from Copenhagen, Denmark aboard the SS Circassea on 22 March 1887 after an 11 day voyage. Arch Campbell was the ship's Master and the ship apparently picked up additional passengers at Glasgow, Scotland after leaving Copenhagen. The ship's burthen was 2,769 tons. Their passage was in No. 5 Steerage. Pete was listed as No. 539 on the Passenger List, age 17, a laborer from Denmark with one piece of luggage. Chris was No. 545, age 20, laborer from Denmark, one piece of luggage. Both indicated it was their intent to become citizens of the U.S. Their surname was spelled Pedersen.[15]

Pete must have been an industrious fellow because 17 months after he arrived in the U.S. and four months shy of his 20th birthday, he bought from the U. S. government on 10 November 1888 for $438.30 the northeast one-fourth of Section 4, Township 12, Range 7. He sold it to Oscar Johnson of Saunders Co., Nebraska in 1902 for $21,500 of which he accepted $10,000 in the form of a mortgage.[16] A marriage license was issued to Peter, 23, and Agnes, 16, both of Panama, 21 September 1892. The certificate included a notation that Agnes' mother gave her consent "in open Court." They were married 29 September by Rev. W. G. Whitaker. Witnesses were Mrs. Marion (Alcy) Frye and Miss Lillie Atkinson. The Hickman Enterprise of Hickman, Lancaster Co. reported in its issue of 21 February 1902 that "Pete Peterson sold his farm and held a stock sale. He will load a car for Monmouth, Polk Co. Oregon next week. Mrs. Frye, Mrs. Peterson's mother, will accompany them." He was then just shy of his 33rd birthday.



Peter and Agnes, Portland, Oreg.

Pete's Petition for Naturalization (No. 85405) presented to the Circuit Court of Polk County, Oregon was dated 5 February 1912.[17] He stated he left Copenhagen, Denmark, about 11 March 1887 and that on 1 October 1890 in Lincoln in the District Court of Lancaster Co., Nebraska, he declared his intention to become a citizen of the U.S., that he was not a polygamist, that he was attached to the principles of the Constitution of the United States, that it was his intention to become a citizen of the United States, that he renounced his allegiance to Frederick VIII, King of Denmark, that it was his intention to reside permanently in the United States, that he resided at Independence, Polk Co., Oregon, and that he had lived in Oregon since 10 March 1902. His witnesses were Alfred P. Erickson and Frank Johnson, laborers, residing at Dallas, Polk Co., Oregon. His Certificate of Naturalization, No. 136547, was issued by the Polk County Circuit Court at Dallas 3 June 1912. He was described as being age 43, 5' 6" tall, color, white, complexion, light, color of eyes, blue, color of hair, brown, and no visible distinguishing marks. The Certificate noted he had "in all respects complied with the law in relation [to becoming a citizen] and that he was entitled to be so admitted [and] it was thereupon ordered by the said Court that he be admitted as a citizen of the United States of America." The Certificate named the following and their place of residence: Wife, Agnes Faye, 36, Oscar H., 17, Owen D., 17, Guy L., 16, Isabell, 12, Winnegene, 9, Peter Lynn, 6, and Caroline A., 4, all residing at Independence. Peter signed the Certificate.

Peterson farm home, Parker, Polk Co., Oreg.

The Peterson farm was on Parker Road in south Polk County (the farm home is now identified as Box 8435 Parker Rd.) To find the farm, drive south of Monmouth on Hwy. 99W until you come to the Helmick State Park (on the west side of the highway and north of the Luckiamute river). Drive east on Old Fort Road for approximately one mile then south on Parker Road approximately .9 of a mile, cross the railroad track and the old Peterson place is the first house on the left. Peter and Agnes are buried at the Hilltop (IOOF) Cemetery which is approximately three miles south of Independence on Corvallis Road #9. Their graves are on the north side of the most southerly road in the cemetery. The family plot is east of a large Oak tree. Also buried here are daughters Caroline and Lenore and Helen Frye, mother of Agnes.

3. The Family History Library Locality Catalog include a Gazetteer which alphabetically lists all record-keeping jurisdictions in the Library. The July 1997 microfiche version includes the Oster Ulslev Parish in Maribo county. Additional research on this family should begin with the 1870 census of Oster Ulselev Parish which should include the ages and birth places of the family members. If the census shows Peder and Johanne were born in the same Parish, birth records should be searched covering years before and after the ages at marriage listed in the census. Because Denmark used the patronymic naming system, we know Peder's father's first name was Mads (Mats) and Johanne's father's first name is Rasmus.

He was buried in the Cemetery 1 mile west and 1 mile south of the Town of Panama. He married twice. (1) Amy Ellen Gheen in Zanesville, Muskingum Co., Ohio 17 April 1856. Agnes Faye Frye.

After completing common school Henry began farming in Illinois. He enlisted in the 11th Illinois Cavalry in 1865 and participated in several Civil War skirmishes. He returned to the Illinois farm after military service until the spring of 1881 when he moved to Lancaster Co. where he purchased 160 acres in Section 25, Panama Precinct. Since the farm was only slightly improved, he developed it and sold it in 1882 and bought the northwest quarter of Section 23 and the northeast quarter of Section 22, Panama Precinct, which he developed into a well improved and valuable farm which he operated until his death. He was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic in Panama.[4] of Lincoln reported on 24 September 1890 that Henry committed suicide on his farm about 8 miles east of Panama. The death occurred about 10 a.m. in an outhouse with a shot gun "that blew the whole of his head from his body." No suicide note was found and he left no will. Helen was appointed administratrix on 29 September.

He owned a total of 400 acres of land in Sections 14, 22, and 23 which was appraised at $7,400. His personal property consisted of $213.85 cash, two milch cows, 37 fat hogs, a dun colored pony, a team of sorrel horses, a spring wagon, and a set of double harness. He held notes from sons Marion and Alonzo and from George W. Atwood and Charles Wilson. The personal property was appraised at $2,153.36. His heirs were Helen, daughters Flora A. Dickinson, 32, of Alta, Peoria Co., Illinois, Emma E. Wilson, 23, of Adams, Gage Co., Nebraska, Agnes, 14, Lenore, 12, and sons Marion K., 30, and Alonzo H., 28, the first and the last four named of Panama. Helen was allowed by law the two milch cows valued at $44, the dun colored pony, $40, a sorrel horse named Billy, $85, and hogs worth $31. The estate had costs of $795.23 including $93.50 to bury Henry, $55.93 for the support and maintenance of Agnes and Lenore, and $540 owed to Abraham Frye.[5]

After a year he began working for his father until 1887 when he rented a farm near Panama which he operated until 1891. FRIEDERICH LUDWIG BARTRUFF 1826-1902 TO JOSEPHINE BERNIECE BARTRUFF 1901-1995

(Bartruff lineage of Ines Mae Peterson, Generation 12, No. 6209, wife of Robert Blaine Whipple.)

FIRST GENERATION

1. Friederich Ludwig[1] Bartruff[1] was born in Winzerhausen Oberamt Marbach, Germany 6 June 1826 and died 16 January 1902 in Jonesboro, Union Co., Ilinois, at 75 years of age. He married Katharina Frederika Spangler in Wuerttemberg, Germany in 1847. Catherine was born in Lauffen am Neckar, Germany 28 September 1832 and died 29 June 1899 in Jonesboro, at 66 years of age. Both are buried in the Ebenezer German Cemetery south of Jonesboro. From the Jonesboro Town Square drive 3.2 miles south on State Highway 127, turn left on Ebenezer Church Road and drive 1.2 miles to the Ebenezer Methodist Church. The cemetery is adjacent to the church. The birth and death dates are on his tombstone and her name is spelled Catherine Frederica Bartruff on her tombstone.[2] The author has a copy of Friederich's obituary published in German in a German-American newspaper. Neither the name of the paper or its date is known. The obituary was translated by L.H. Bauer in January 1980. Friederich and Frederika emigrated to the U.S. in 1852 and their son Gottlieb Fredrick was born in Portsmouth, Scioto Co., Ohio before the end of 1852 and they were living in Piketon, Pike Co., Ohio by 1857. They were farming near Jonesboro, Union Co., Illinois by 1861. Friederich's Jonesboro's farm was in Section 9, Township 13, Range 1 West. Their post office address in 1865 was Anna, Union Co., Illinois.[3]

Friederich's birth year of 1826 and the immigration year to the U.S. of 1852 are confirmed in the 1900 U.S. Population Schedule for Jonesboro, Union Co., Illinois. He was a widower in 1900 and was living in the home of his daughter Theresa and son-in-law Charles Adam Bauer and their 5-year-old daughter Esther and 3-year-old son Rudolph in Household No. 303 found on sheet 16 in the Jonesboro Precinct of the census. According to the census he could speak English and read and write. It also stated he had not worked for the 12 months previous to the June date the census was taken.

The origin of the Bartruff family name is in question. Though they moved to the U.S. from Germany, the name does not sound Tuetonic and the family religion was "Evaangelische."not Catholic or Luthern. A family tradition suggests they were descendants of French Huguenots. The Eng- lish-German Dictionary compiled by Ernest Thode has nothing on the "-truff" suffix but indicates the "-troff" suffix is a "French place-name suffix meaning Village." The Lexikon deutscher Hugenottenorte (lexicon of German places where Huguenots lived) states that Huguenots were connected with Hausen an der Zaber where some Bartruffs lived. Whether these circumstances confirm that the name Bartruff is of French derivation is yet to be proved. Friederich lived in Winzerhausen Oberamt Marbach. A "Winzer" is a vine-grower. Anyone interested in exploring the French Huguenot connection may want to engage Dr. Lutz Jacob and Katharina Kahlert who specialize in the origins and meaning of German names. They may be reached at Gohliser Strasse 1, D-04105 Leipzig, Germany.

The Wuerttemberg Emigratioin Index by Trudy Schenk and Ruth Froelke lists several Bartruff emigrants, four of whom spell the name with only one "f." Seven were from the Oberamt of Brackenheim, six from the Oberamt of Heilbronn, one from the Oberamt of Weinsberg and one, Gottlob Bartruff, born in Winzerhkausen, Oberamt of Marbach as was Friederich. Gottlob's birth was 15 August 1834 and his emigration application dated in August 1868 listed North America as his destination (original microfilm # 834609). Few people with the name Bartruff live in Germany in 2005. The majority live in the old Wuerttemberg City of Heilbronn, some in the City of Saarlouis in the German state of Saarland, and a few scattered in other places.

Friederich Ludwig Bartruff and Katharina Frederika Spangler had the following children:

	2	i.	Gottlieb Fredrick[2] Bartruff[4] born in Portsmouth, Scioto Co., Ohio 12 December 1852 and died in infancy.

+	7	vi.	Jacob E. Bartruff born 7 July 1861.
	8	vii.	Mary Anna Bartruff[5] born 26 January 1863. She married Philip Foehr in Jonesboro, 30 October 1883.
+	9	viii.	Wilhelmina Fredericka Bartruff born 4 September 1865.
	10	ix.	Mathis Bartruff[6] born 9 September 1866 and died in infancy.

+	13	xii.	Theresa Race Bartruff born 1 February 1875.
	14	xiii.	Samuel Bartruff[7] born in Jonesboro 13 December 1886 and died there 6 January 1893, at 6 years of age.

3. Charles Jacob[2] Bartruff (Friederich Ludwig[1])[8] was born in Portsmouth, Scioto Co., Ohio 10 January 1854 and died 31 January 1936 in Salem, Marion Co., Oregon, at 82 years of age. He married twice. (1) Anna Mary Loeb in Jonesboro, Union Co., Illinois 6 September 1882. Anna,[9] daughter of Casper Loeb and Elizabeth Dukshied, was born in Cobden, Union Co. 6 October 1863 and died 29 March 1911 in Salem, at 47 years of age. Charles and his brother John married sisters Anna Mary and Katherine Loeb. (2) Mary Bauer in Jonesboro in 1912. Mary was born there in March 1872 and died 1 June 1945 in Portland, Multnomah Co., Oregon, at 73 years of age.[10] Her parents were born in Germany. She married (1) Joseph E. Bartruff in Jonesboro 8 January 1894. Mary was the widow of his brother Joseph. Charles owned a general merchandise store in Jonesboro where he sold dry goods, groceries, and hardware. He moved the family to a farm approximately six miles northeast of Salem in 1890 or 1891. The farm fronted Silverton Road and eventually became Route 7. The move was motivated by a visit to Oregon by Robert Loeb, Mary's brother who, upon his return to Illinois, convinced his sister and brother-in-law that Oregon held a better future for them and their family. Charles sold the store and contacted through a land agent to buy the 80-acre farm which included a small stand of Douglas fir, a prune orchard, and apple, cherry, and pear trees. The move was made by train with Charles renting a boxcar to transport the family and their furniture and other possessions. Their new home was a 2-story farm house with two bedrooms and an attic upstairs and a living room, dining room, two bedrooms, kitchen, and pantry on the main level. It had a front and back porch and outbuildings including a horse barn, cow barn, and chicken coop. Several years later the home was badly burned and was rebuilt larger, including indoor plumbing. The house was furnished, except for the stoves, with things brought from Illinois. The living room had a couch, center table with claw feet, a couple of rockers, some side chairs, and pump organ. The dining room had a table and chairs and a shelf above the wood stove which held "Dad's Bible when he wasn't reading it." The windows had shades and lace curtains. There was a woodburning cook stove in the kitchen and a woodburning heater in both the living and dining rooms. There was no heat upstairs so the kids didn't dawdle much in the winter mornings. They got down to the warm stove as soon as possible.

The parents slept in one of the downstairs bedrooms, the younger kids in the other. The larger bedroom had a closet and highboy chest with five or six drawers. The girls slept in the larger upstairs bedroom in two double beds. They had a two-drawer Princess dresser with mirror but no closet which was not a problem since they didn't have any extra clothes. The boys had the other upstairs bedroom furnished with with one double bed and a small dresser. The hired hands who slept in the attic had a straw tick.

There was no sink in the kitchen but it had a work table with two deep drawers for sugar and flour. The large pantry held most of the food, pots, pans, and other utensils. Two shelves over the kitchen table held other items. Water was heated in a cistern on the cook stove. It came from a well on the back porch.

Charles began his farming career by raising wheat, oats, hay, and harvesting prunes. They had a driving horse for the buckboard and one team of draft horses. He later acquired 60 adjoining acres — some of it heavily timbered with first growth fir — a small dairy herd and a second draft team. They developed a milk route on Silverton Road and sold milk and cream. They usually milked eight to 10 cows and this job fell to Elmer and Margaret who made good use of their time by developing singing voices during their twice-a-day milking times. Margaret said her voice was "so-so soprano" and Elmer had a "beautiful baritone voice." They were good enough to be invited to sing at church and school functions.

Charles hired extra hands for harvest. Some slept in the bunkhouse near the timber on the new acreage, others in the attic in their home. A neighbor with a binder was hired to cut the grain. Fruit from the apple, cherry, and pear trees and prune orchard was sold to commerical packers in Salem. The income from the prune orchard always covered the property taxes. He hired cutters in the fall and sold large quantities of cord wood to large commercial accounts in Salem. It was a self-sufficient family with large garden, fruit, chickens, cows, hogs, and timber supply. A noon dinner was the main meal followed by an evening supper. The hired hands often ate with them which the kids enjoyed because they were someone new to talk to. The kids went to Middle Grove School and walked the mile each way. It was a 1-teacher, 1-room school with grades 1-8. Most of the kids didn't go beyond eight grade.

Charles was approximately 5' 7" with an average build for his height. He had blue eyes, auburn hair, and wore a full beard which was reddish before turning gray. He was a religious man who conducted daily family prayers and read the Bible to the children following breakfast. He eventually became a deacon or trustee in a Salem church. He completed the eighth grade and took a business course at night school in Illinois. Both Charles and Mary spoke German and they subscribed to a German language newspaper from Illinois. Other than the paper and the Bible there wasn't much to read in the home. Charles told the children stories about the Civil War and how notorious Confederate General John Hunt Morgan and his Raiders made skirmishes to their area of southern Illinois to steal horses and other livestock. When they heard Morgan was in the area, Charles had to hide their horses in some nearby timber until the Raiders left. He also told the children about seeing President Lincoln's Funeral Train on the way to Springfield for burial. Mary was about 5' '6" with gray eyes and black hair and had an eighth grade education. She and Charles sang German songs to the children who didn't understand the words but they learned them and sang along. Mary was was extremely overweight and suffered poor health for much of her adult life. An excellent cook and baker, she was unable to stand or be near the stove toward the end of her life. She died suddenly of a heart attack.

About a year after Mary died, Charles returned to Jonesboro to marry his brother Joseph's widow and returned with her and her daughters, Lillian and Theresa, and sons, Erick, Louis, and Ed. Mary's oldest son George was married and remained in Illinois. The step-mother-aunt was never accepted by Charles' children.[11] Charles' obituary appears in the Salem Capital Journal of 31 January 1936. He was buried at Howell Cemetery in the same plot as his first wife, Mary and their daughter Gertrude. Mary's grave had a stone but neither Charles or Gertrude did. In 1998 a number of his grandchildren and great grandchildren installed a stone with the names of all three. Howell Cemetery, established in 1843, is .2 mile north of Silverton Road on 64th Place N.E. The Bartruff plot is at the north end of the Cemetery in the second row from 64th Place.

Charles Jacob Bartruff and Anna Mary Loeb had the following children:

\+ 15 i. Lydia Helen[3] Bartruff born 7 July 1883.

\+ 16 ii. Daniel Edward Bartruff born 22 August 1884.

\+ 17 iii. Anna Elizabeth Bartruff born 25 March 1886.

18 iv. Rosa Katherine Bartruff[12] born in Jonesboro 31 December 1888 and died unmarried 1 January 1974 in Salem, at 85 years of age. Buried in Salem's Lee Mission Cemetery. She attended Middle Grove Grade School, was graduated from Salem High School, and studied nursing at the Salem Hospital Training School for Nurses. She also studied at the U. of California and took a course in Hospital Administration at Seattle College in Seattle, King Co., Washington. She was inducted into the U. S. Nurse Corp in Salem in October 1918 and was stationed at Camp Dodge, Des Moines, Polk Co., Iowa, St. Louis, Independence Co., Missouri., and Plattsburg, Clinton Co., New York where she was discharged in September 1919.

\+ 19 v. Elmer Walter Bartruff born 27 December 1890.

20 vi. Margaret Elfreda Bartruff.[13] Born in Salem 12 May 1893 and died 22 March 1983 in Mt. Angel, Marion Co., Oregon, at 89 years of age. She married Andrew Lyman Bunch in Portland 3 July 1919. He was born 1 July and died 28 April 1962 at 61 years of age.[14] Margaret remembers the Bartruff home as a place where God was honored — "especially by Dad" who had so much joy in serving God and greeted friends with a "God Bless You." She remembers her father telling her that his parents were married at Wurttemberg, Germany and that they came to America shortly after being married about the time of the Crimean War when many young German men left to avoid conscription. Her mother told her that her mother (__) Metz (Margaret's grandmother) and aunt came to America from Germany together. Margaret remembers that her mother taught her the scale and chords on the organ when she was about 7. She says she wasn't tall enough to sit on the stool to play so had to stand and play. She enjoyed practicing and eventually got good enough to play at school and church functions. She said the Bartruff kids didn't have a lot of scheduled activities as children but there was the occasional birthday party and special occasion but they were not allowed to go to dances, movies, or other "racy" things. But, we always had a nice tree at Christmas and were remembered with gifts.[15] Margaret and Andrew were childless and are buried in the Lee Mission Cemetery in Salem.

21 vii. Gertrude Matilda Bartruff[16] born in Salem 1 April 1895 and died there 18 February 1898, at 2 years of age. Buried at Howell Cemetery with her parents.

22 viii. Lois Mabel Bartruff.[17] Born in Salem 9 December 1897 and died there 21 June 1974, at 76 years of age. She married Grant Wycoff in Salem 24 November 1921.[18] Grant is buried beside Lois at Salem's Lee Mission Cemetery. Lois was graduated from Salem High School. One of her most precious memories was her mother's cheerful outlook on life. "No matter what the disappointment, she would try to find something for me to be glad about. She knew she was dying but never talked about it in front of we children. I would hear her saying quietly to herself, 'Praise the Lord.' I don't believe she had any idea anyone heard her." Lois and Grant were childless.

\+ 23. ix. Josephine Berniece Bartruff was born 21 March 1901.

24 x. Ruth Mildred Bartruff[19] born in Salem 13 October 1904[20] and died 27 March 1998 in Portland, at 93 years of age.[21] She married Willard Walter in Portland 5 April 1931. They were divorced. Both worked for the federal government in Washington, D. C. following the election of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. No issue. Ruth is buried in Lee Mission Cemetery.

4. Frederick[2] Bartruff (Friederich Ludwig[1])[22] was born in Portsmouth, Scioto Co., Ohio 9 September 1855[23] and died 1 January 1921 in Anna, Union Co., Illinois, at 64 years of age. He married Mary J. Schaefer 16

September 1879. Mary was born in Illinois 20 June 1861[24] and died 3 January 1922 in Anna, at 60 years of age.[25] According to the 1880 federal census of Union County, Town of Jonesboro, Fred was a 24-year-old farmer born in Ohio whose parents were born in Germany. Mary was an 18-year-old housekeeper born in Illinois whose parents were born in Germany. They rented a farm for a share of the production. The farm had a value of $150 and included 15 acres of tilled land, 14 of which were devoted to wheat and produced 90 bushels in 1879. Farm implements were valued at $10, and livestock at $120. They owned one horse, one milking cow, one "other" cow and one calve was "dropped" during the year. The 20 poultry in the barnyard produced 50 eggs in 1879. Total value of goods produced in 1879 was $95. Both are buried in Ebenezer German Cemetery in Jonesboro.

Frederick Bartruff and Mary J. Schaefer had the following children:

+	25	i.	Joseph Ernest[3] Bartruff born 3 September 1881.

She caught the train to Coben the next morning and found the children had pulled up a board on the cistern and were lying on their stomachs spilling in the cistern. Owen,[74] son of Peter T. Peterson and Agnes Faye Frye, was born in Panama, Lancaster Co., Nebraska 1 December 1894 and died 28 October 1943 in Portland, at 48 years of age.

Jo was born on the Bartruff family's 140 acre farm east of Salem on Silverton, Road. Today the farm home is known as 5963 Silverton Rd., S.E., Salem. She attended grades one through eight at Middle Grove School (the corner of Silverton and Cordon Roads) and walked the 1.4 mile each way. She completed the ninth and tenth grades at a Salem High School where she sang soprano in the chorus. While in the ninth grade, she lived in Salem with her sister Lydia (18 years her senior) and brother-in-law Omer Bewley. She was back home for her sophomore year and got to and from school by horse and buggy. Her 16th birthday stands out because a boy friend invited her to a movie and her parents said she could go — it would be her first. But they didn't go to a movie. He drove into Salem and right back to her home where the house was full of family and friends who were having a surprise party for her. "I don't remember any of the gifts but I sure remember the occasion," she said. Times were tough so her parents decided she had enough schooling and she spent the next year-and-a-half on her brother Elmer's farm in LaComb, Linn Co., Oregon where she did house work, general farm work, and milked cows. In 1918 she and her cousin Esther Scharf spent six months at a logging camp in Yacolt, Clark Co., Washington working in the cook house and waiting tables. When the camp closed for the winter season, she moved to Portland and lived with Lydia and Omer who had moved there with their three children — Helen, Gladys, and Carl. She worked for her board and room and later became a live-in domestic for the Russell family who lived in Portland's Ladd's Addition. She enrolled in a nurse's training course at Sellwood Hospital in Portland sometime in 1920 and lived at the Hospital for three years while in training and gaining practical nursing experience. Students received board and room and $5 a month spending money. She was graduated as a Registered Nurse but didn't practice, marrying shortly after graduation.

Jo and Owen met on a blind date in the summer of 1923. It was a picnic-swimming date on the Willamette River, "the first real date I ever had and he was the only real boy friend I ever had." After we were married, he always gave me the same gift every anniversary — a box of chocolates. "Funny, the box kept getting smaller the longer we were married." They were married in Corvallis, Benton Co., Oregon in a Parsonage by Rev. S.M. Wood, an Evangelical preacher. After the ceremony they went to Albany, Linn Co., Oregon for a luncheon hosted by her sister Anna (Mrs. Herbert McDonough) and her family. From there they drove to the Peterson farm at Parker, Polk Co. Oregon to tell his folks about the surprise wedding, then returned to Portland. Owen's twin brother Oscar was best man and Jo's younger sister Ruth, a freshman at Oregon State College in Corvallis, was maid of honor. They rented the Portland home of Jo's sister Margaret and her husband Andrew L. Bunch who were working in a logging camp. Wayne and Norm were born when they lived in this Montavilla Park home. Wayne was born at St. Vincents Hospital and Norm in the Women's Maternity Home. Jo was in the hospital with each for two weeks after they born. The cost was $90 plus the doctor's bill. Ines and Bob were born in the Portland Adventist Hospital. They had to give up the house when the Bunch's returned and rented a house in Ladd's Addition. They purchased a home at 6123 SE 21st in the Westmoreland District of Portland in 1927 and Jo lived there for the next sixty years. Almost new, the house cost $5,200. They borrowed $2,000 from the First National Bank for the down payment and got a mortgage from the State Veteran Home Loan Program. The payment was $15 a month. Jo's memories of her mother, who died when Jo was 10, are limited. She did not get along with her step-mother-aunt and after her father's second marriage so most of the family socializing was with the Petersons. Her relationship with her mother-in-law Agnes Frye Peterson was close. "I loved her like I would a mother." The family spent some holidays and summer time at the Peterson farm in Parker but it was an all-day trip so they didn't get to go as often as they would have liked. They were also frequent visitors to the Dundee farm of Owen's sister and brother-in-law, Winnogene and Ellis Baker. While the family lived frugally, they always owned a car and were able to take annual vacations to places like Long Beach, Pacific Co., Washington where they did a lot of claming and to various fishing lakes in central and eastern Oregon. One summer in the 1930s, they motored to Yellowstone National Park. Owen loved fishing and was on the Willamette and Clackamas rivers on most of his days off during fishing season. "We always had our share of salmon and to his everlasting credit he always cleaned the fish." Owen did most of the food preparation at the fire station and became an excellent cook. Jo said he was a great helpmate, cooking and baking, diapering the kids, helping with the wash, etc. He was also a good mechanic and always took care of their cars. The family usually spent Christmas at home, many times without Owen as he was on duty. Limited finances made it impossible to give the kids the presents they wanted but they always got at least one toy. The older boys got bikes that Owen fixed and repainted. Turkey, which Owen won at a turkey shoot, was the usual Thanksgiving and Christmas meal. When the kids were small, Jo cut their hair and made most of their clothes. She also knit Argyle socks. Disciplining the kids fell mostly to her. The kids had the usual childhood diseases. Owen enjoyed good health but Jo had frequent bouts with pleurisy and pneumonia. She was on the verge of a nervous breakdown in the early 1940s but thyroid treatments helped overcome that problem.

Jo was a "Born Again Christian" who attended tent revival meetings as a youngster. "Believe in the Lord Jesus Christ and thy shall be saved," was her creed. She was a long-time member of the Moreland Presbysterian Church but eventually left that Church and joined the Lents Evangelical Church, feeling the Presbysterians had become too modern and no longer satisfied her basic Christian needs. She attended Wednesday Bible classes and Sunday services and purchased bonds to help the Lents Church in its building program. She gave each of her grandchildren a $1,000 church bond.

About two years after her husband died, Jo began a 12-year career as a cook in the cafeteria at Cleveland High School. She left that job to become a clerk at the Portland State University Book Store for 10 years. By the time of her retirement at age 68, she was in charge of her shift's receipts and for depositing the money in a night depositary. After retirement, she and her sister Ruth visited Israel, Egypt, Syria, and Greece. In later years she visited Taiwan, Japan, Alaska, and Hawaii with various friends. She developed cataracts in her 70s (age) and operations on each eye a year apart greatly improved her vision. She was still driving her car in her mid-80s.[75] Her granddaughter Rev. Judith L. Steele officiated at her Memorial Service 2 March 1995 at the Virgil T. Golden Chapel in Salem. Her grandson Scott Whipple delivered the eulogy. Pallbearers were her grandchildren: Mark, James, and John Peterson, Deborah (Peterson) Smith, Sandra (Peterson) Dodson, Kelly Reitz, Robert B. Steele, and Scott Whipple. She was buried in Salem's Lee Mission Cemetery. Her sisters Ruth Walter, Margaret Bunch, Rosa Bartruff, and Lois Wycoff are in adjacent graves as are her brothers-in-law Andy Bunch and Grant Wycoff.

NOTES

1. Vital Records of Ipswich, MA to the end of 1849, Vol. I. The Essex Institute. (Salem, 1910). pp. 390-94.

It is awe-inspiring to write a tome of this vast nature. The political and social conditions portrayed are done in a deft manner. The depth of biographical data on thousands of individuals is almost unbelievable.

William P. Whipple II, Cedar Rapids, Iowa.*

This is a fascinating book. Blaine has a talent to write history in a way that makes people, places, and times come alive.

L. Dale Whipple, Benton, Louisiana.*

WOW! The extent of the research and knowledge of the subject and writing style make this book a must read.

Weldon Whipple, Orem, Utah*

I admire this book. The writing is fresh and engaging and the historical chapters add depth and interest to the genealogical narrative.

Malcolm Whipple, Utica, Illinois.*

The research and meticulous documentation is monumental. The photographs and maps add interest and each segment of the voluminous work expands the reader's knowledge of the descendants of Matthew Whipple's family.

Jana Sloan Broglin, CG, Swanton, Ohio*

Blaine Whipple has spent 50 years researching the Matthew and John Whipple families of Ipswich, Mass., including original research in Essex Co., England. A former Oregon State Senator, he was associated with Presidents John F. Kennedy, Lyndon B. Johnson, James E. Carter, and Vice Presidents Hubert H. Humphrey and Walter Mondale. He was born in a log cabin on George Washington's birthday in 1930 and has authored and published three family-history genealogies.
